MAYOR REVEALS PAST OF WHITNEY, HYLAN'S DEFENDER

Affidavit Maker, He Declares, Was Parkhurst Agent Who Confessed to Jerome.

SUMS UP THE DISCLOSURES

CALLS ON HYLAN TO REPLY

Mayor Mitchel summed up yesterday the evidence presented by The New York World concerning the business record of his Tammany opponent, Judge John F. Hylan. He also summed up Judge Hylan's replies to The World's charges, and then shed light upon the history of Edgar A. Whitney, plaintiff in a suit in which it appeared that Mr. Hylan was his attorney of record. Mr. Whitney made an affidavit on Wednesday that he had never retained Judge Hylan.

The Mayor said that in 1904 Whitney, who was once an agent for the Parkhurst Society, was arraigned in General Sessions on a charge of bookmaking; that in 1908 he was convicted on a charge of grand larceny, although the conviction was reversed, and that in 1912 he was again arrested on a charge of grand larceny preferred against him by the New York Credit Men's Association.

Going still further back into Whitney's record, the Mayor said that in 1901 Whitney was the star witness in the trial of Wardman Glennon of the Police Department, and that previous to this trial Whitney made a confession to William Travers Jerome, which was the basis of the Glennon trial. In this confession, the Mayor said, Whitney admitted that he had taken money to use his connection with the Parkhurst Society to "tip off" the police when illegal resorts were to be raided. Regarding Whitney's record the Mayor made this comment:

"As counsel for the Parkhurst Society in 1901 Frank Moss learned enough about Edgar A. Whitney to prevent him from placing much credence in any affidavit that Mr. Whitney might make. Mr. Moss is now Judge Hylan's counsel. It is curious that Mr. Moss should permit Whitney's affidavit to be offered to the public without explanation or apology."

Whitney's suit was against Isaac Schwartz for the recovery of $500 he alleged was due him as half of an extra $1,000 which he was to get for giving a contract to Schwartz for building a garage in Brooklyn. When the suit came to trial Charles M. Dunn submitted a false affidavit, declaring he had served Schwartz with a summons, and judgment was taken against Schwartz by default for $517. It was the papers in this case which disappeared from the Third District Municipal Court of Brooklyn when District Attorney Jerome was gathering evidence against Alfred E. Goslin.

The Mayor also took up at length the testimony that Judge Hylan attempted to charge his wife's cousin, Charles A. Purcell of Chicago, $2,280 for collecting a judgment of $3,780 and that he finally compromised on $2,875 after urging Mr. Purcell to take $500 worth of stock in the Black Diamond Automobile Company. Commenting on this transaction, Mayor Mitchel said:

"On what possible theory should the people of New York elevate to the position of the greatest trust a man with this record behind him? A lawyer who is not fit to represent his own relative is not fit to be Mayor of New York."

Mitchel Sums Up the Case.

This is the Mayor's statement:

"Judge Hylan has proved the case against himself, not by his denials, but by what he fails to deny.

"Judge Hylan may bring libel suits to mystify the public before election, but it will be just as easy for him to drop these suits after election as it was for the agents of Goslin to drop their strike suits when their victims showed fight.

"From the affidavits of Hylan's friends, and from what Judge Hylan himself admits, one fact stands out strong and clear. Judge Hylan may attempt to prove an alibi as to details of the charges made against him, but he has pleaded guilty to the essential facts presented in those charges.

"For four days the public has had spread before it an exposure of Judge Hylan's past. From these exposures, from Judge Hylan's admissions, and from the affidavits offered by Judge Hylan's counsel these facts seem to be definitely established:

1. That in 1903, together with Charles E. Turner, Judge Hylan organized the Black Diamond Automobile Company.

2. That Judge Hylan was a Director in this company and Charles E. Turner was Vice President.

3. That, after this company got into difficulties, Judge Hylan sued the company for $5,923.59 for alleged legal services, through a dummy in his office at 1,028 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn.

4. That Turner shared this office with Judge Hylan, and that Turner also sued the company for alleged services through a dummy named O'Hara, who was Hylan's brother-in-law.

5. That the summons in Judge Hylan's action against the company was not served upon the Black Diamond Company in Utica, but was merely served upon Charles E. Turner at Judge Hylan's own office.

6. That although Judge Hylan was suing for legal services rendered the company and inferentially was the

Talk of Army Dictatorship to Quell German Discord

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 18.—The Socialist Arbeiter Zeitung of Vienna says that the present state of affairs in Germany is impossible and discusses a military dictatorship, quoting a Berlin letter published in several papers which argues that every one is aware of the agitation in military circles, at Headquarters, and around the Kaiser, and that there is no doubt that this agitation is working against the Reichstag majority for a continuation of the war and for annexations. The letter says:

"It is well known that all political decisions are taken at Great Headquarters, and that it is never the Chancellor, the responsible leader, who speaks the final word from his own political conviction which the military should follow. It is an impossible situation that the Kaiser, as the highest authority, remains continually far from the political centre among his Generals, so that the Chancellor is continually obliged to make the journey between Berlin and Headquarters, and in this way has not enough time to settle the most weighty State affairs.

"It is time that the Kaiser was plainly shown that his place is in Berlin, near the Government."

BORDEN MILKMEN VOTE FOR STRIKE

Threaten, on Ten Hours' Notice, to Stop All the Company's New York Deliveries.

SURPRISE TO EMPLOYERS

Eight hundred of the 2,000 drivers, inspectors, and milk handlers of the Borden Farm Products Company voted yesterday to strike unless the company signs an agreement granting a substantial increase in wages and a larger percentage on sales. The strike was set for midnight last night and all the employes of the Borden Company were expected to obey the order to quit work.

At midnight bands of strikers began to picket the various distributing stations of the Borden Company. At the stations it was admitted by those in charge that some of the men were not showing up, but it was said it would be hard to estimate the number on strike until later in the day. This is because the drivers keep showing up for work from midnight until after 5 o'clock in the morning, when the late routes are sent out. Early this morning an official of the company said that he could not tell what percentage of the regular supply would be distributed today, but he declared that hundreds of families would be without their regular supply of milk. He was confient, he asserted, that not all the men would heed the strike order and that these, together with such help as could be gathered, would be able to keep some of the routes supplied. Today the officials will seek a conference with the men, it is believed, and they will also lay plans for the delivery of their milk.

At the station at 173 Manhattan Street it was said that "a few of the men had not shown up for work." This station employs 300 men. At the station at 17 East 116th Street it was said that the same conditions existed.

At 1 o'clock automobiles containing strikers drove up in front of the company plant at 342 East 133d Street and the occupants began to picket the station. They said that between fifty and sixty men who were employed at the station had gone out. Those who went on strike here were known as the retail delivery men. But few of those known as the wholesale delivery men had gone out, it was said.

The action of the drivers was a surprise to officials of the company, who, while expecting trouble, thought there would be opportunity for negotiations before any tie-up was ordered. Because of the surprise the company had made no preparations and the officials were busy last night on plans for meeting the situation. The officials say they are willing to go far to prevent a strike. They feel that the time is most inopportune for any halt in the delivery of milk, with two investigations under way, one by a committee appointed by Mayor Mitchel and the other by the Grand Jury.

Milk wagon drivers now receive $20, $21 and $22 a week, according to length of service, and a commission of seventenths of a cent on each quart of milk, quart of buttermilk, or half pint of cream they sell. The drivers ask $25 a week with 1 cent commission. The inspectors want $28 a week the first year, $29 the second year, and $30 thereafter, an advance of $3. The men also want one day off each week and a week's vacation each year, with pay.

It is said that union recognition will also come up for settlement. The men have long wanted a "closed shop," but have not been able to enforce it. That was one of the demands when they struck in September, 1916, and won an advance in pay.

There was a conference yesterday morning between officials of the Borden Company and representatives of the employes. The company wants the question of wages taken up by the milk handling industry because it concerns all distributors. The men say their interest is with the Borden Company alone and that they are not concerned with the rates paid by other dealers.

"BUY A LIBERTY BOND."

The attractive full-page appeal of The Autocar Company, Ardmore, Pa., to buy Liberty Bonds, published in The New York Times October 18, strikingly illustrates the support that is being given the Government by the business and manufacturing concerns of the country.

The picture in the advertisement shows the determined expression of the head of the family, with his wife and daughter giving assent to the decision that "We can save a few dollars a week for him. We can, and we will," while in the background "our boys" are shown fighting in the trenches.

The idea portrayed typifies in a powerful way the spirit of sacrifice that is felt in the American home to stand by the Government in its death grapple with autocracy.

Through a typographical error the name of the contributor of this page advertisement read the Auto Car Company, Ardmore, Pa., manufacturers of "The Autocar Truck," instead of reading The Autocar Company, Ardmore, Pa.—Advt.

FOES OF WAR LOAN TO GET LAW'S LIMIT, M'ADOO ASSERTS

TO INVOKE ESPIONAGE ACT

TOTAL NEAR $1,750,000,000

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Government machinery was set in motion today to punish pro-Germans who are behind the organized campaign to intimidate banks and investors with the idea of crippling the Liberty Loan.

Secretary McAdoo telegraphed to the Treasury Department from Salt Lake City an authorized statement in which he requested all banks which had been subjected to such German pressure to report the names of the intimidators and promising to deal with them "to the limit of the law."

The Department of Justice also began an investigation into the workings of the conspirators with a view to prosecutions under the espionage and other laws dealing with sedition and attempt to thwart the Government's war purposes.

This week a report came to the Treasury Department that in some parts of Iowa this intimidation practice had grown to formidable proportions. One bank President disclosed that he would prefer not to take charge of the selling of the bonds because he feared that to do so would ruin his business and take a very large amount of funds from his bank.

Strict hurry-up orders were issued today to investigate the situation in all parts of the country and get evidence of individuals or firms intimidating banks in the manner discribed.

This situation is wholly separate from the statements made by Lieut. Col. Herbert M. Lord of the army to the War Life Insurance Conference yesterday that there appeared to be an organized effort to discourage and defeat the sale of the bonds.

Secretary McAdoo on his Western trip in behalf of the Liberty bonds has been receiving a part of his official and personal mail and has been informed from many parts of the country of what is going on. Today at Salt Lake City where he arrived this morning he made a speech urging the bond issue on the people of the Utah capital. Upon leaving there the Secretary filed a dispatch to the Treasury Department denouncing the effort to thwart the sale of the bonds and publishing his intention to prosecute any person who would attempt to intimidate a bank by withdrawing his deposit from it.

It was said at the Treasury Department that the espionage law contained a provision that would enable the Government to prosecute those attempting to injure the Liberty Loan. Something similar to the present effort to defeat the bond sale was encountered during the first Liberty Loan campaign and care was taken to provide law to apply to a recurrence of the opposition.

Secretary McAdoo's telegram follows:

"From several sections of the country bankers have reported to me that some of their customers have threatened to withdraw deposits if their banks subscribed to the Liberty Loan. Such attempts at intimidation are made by disloyal and traitorous persons and are serious offenses against the law, for which stern punishment should be inflicted.

"I earnestly request any banks, State or national, against which such threats have been made to report immediately by telegram or letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, the names and addresses of the person or persons guilty of such disloyal and traitorous actions, and I shall see to it that they are dealt with to the limit of the law.

"I also request such banks to inform me immediately if any deposits are withdrawn because they subscribed to the Liberty Loan, giving me the name of the person or persons who have made such withdrawals.

"Every bank in the United States subscribing to the bonds of the United States Government will be protected with all the power and resources of the Government. No bank shall be punished for doing its patriotic duty by assisting the Government to prosecute the war to a swift and victorious conclusion."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Liberty Loan Bureau of the Treasury Department tonight is confident from the unofficial advices received that subscriptions are drawing near the $1,750,000,000 mark.

The official figures show the total of $827,074,650 subscribed down to the close of business yesterday, according to the reports from the twelve Federal Reserve Banks.

This was an increase of $127,000,000 over the total that was reported the day before.

The unofficial advices indicate, according to Treasury officials, that the total mark is now between $1,500,000,000 and $1,750,000,000.

Borden to Make His Election Campaign On War and Draft Enforcement Planks

OTTAWA, Ontario, Oct. 18.—Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada, who has just formed a Union Government composed of an equal number of members of his previous Ministry and of Liberals who believe that compulsory military service is the only means of supplying reinforcements to the Dominion's overseas army, issued a statement tonight setting forth the program on which the new Government will go to the country for election. He characterized those in opposition to the Government as opposed to Canada's war aims.

First in the policy outlined is a determination to prosecute the war vigorously, through immediate enforcement of the Military Service act and a more thorough co-operation with the Governments of the United Kingdom and other dominions.

Civil service reform, with the abolition of the patronage system, curbing of excessive profits, prohibition of hoarding, restriction of combines to increase prices, labor representation in the Cabinet, extension of the franchise to women, an economical policy of railway development, development of shipbuilding, establishment of Government steamship lines both upon the oceans and lakes, and encouragement of greater co-operation among those engaged in agriculture, with a view to diminishing the cost of production and marketing aer promised by the Premier.

Sir Robert also announced that for the effective prosecution of the war a permanent committee of the Cabinet would be established. The Union Cabinet is not yet complete. The announcement was made officially tonight that Premier George Murray of Nova Scotia had declined to accept a portfolio.

HOOVER PREDICTS DROP IN PRICES

Declares "Corner Has Been Turned" and Food Should Be Cheaper Soon.

WARNING TO RETAIL MEN

Cost of Flour and Sugar in Many Parts of Country Unwarranted, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The United States Food Administration today began a determined fight to obtain lower prices for foodstuffs to the consumer.

Herbert C. Hoover in an interview stated that, while the intermediate branches of trade in food staples, which would be placed under license on Nov. 1, had co-operated patriotically, producers, in the large majority of cases, had failed to respond.

However, Mr. Hoover said that, subject to co-operation from the farmers and the retailers, "the corner has now been turned in high prices," and that most of the essential commodities should, one after another, continue to show reductions between now and the end of the year.

Unwarranted prices, he said, were now charged in practically every section of the country by retailers in flour and sugar, although the retailers were obtaining these commodities at prices lower than those in effect a month ago.

Beef, he said, was being sold at the packers' door at 14½ cents a pound, as compared with 16 cents in July. The average retail price for round steak in 796 cities, he announced, however, had jumped from 27 cents to 31 cents a pound. Flour in these cities was retailing at an average of $13.77 a barrel, or from $1.50 to $2 more than was warranted by the prices charged, under existing regulations, by the millers.

Producers who are not within the reach of the Food Administration under the food-control law, Mr. Hoover said, were holding back the huge bean crop, hoping to get from 13½ to 15 cents a pound, although the average price, with a crop smaller by 7,000,000 bushels, was only 8 cents last year. Potatoes, he declared, also were being hoarded by producers in some districts.

The time had come, Mr. Hoover asserted, for a break in the inflated prices charged by many retailers. The situation will be watched carefully, and it is entirely probable that Congress will be asked for further drastic legislation for the control of prices charged by the retailer, and possibly the producer, unless there is a decided change in the present situation. The attitude of the Food Administration in this connection, it was intimated today, would be very largely dependent upon what the retailers did in the meantime.

Keen Eye on Retailers.

At present it is within the power of the Food Administration to place under control only the retailers doing a gross business of $100,000 or more annually in the twenty food staples named by President Wilson. There are about 1,200 of these concerns in the country, and in all there are more than 350,000 retailers. Mr. Hoover hopes that the regulation of great retail stores in the larger cities which come within the provisions of the case will have a decided effect upon prices charged by other smaller dealers in these centres.

In an effort to control prices charged by these small retailers the Food Administration proposes to give the widest publicity to all of its investigations. It will from week to week make public comprehensive statements giving prices at which wholesalers sell to the retailers in the trade centres and the summary of investigations in more than 400 cities and towns concerning the prices which retailers sell these same products to the consuming public.

By this method it is hoped to acquaint the consumer with the fullest particulars about trade conditions and the profits which the retailer is making.

State food administrators also will be called upon to hold meetings to discuss the situation and spread broadcast facts and figures supplied by the Food Administration. These features of the campaign for lower prices to the consumer will be started about Nov. 1.

Denounces Boost in Sugar.

Mr. Hoover mentioned some specific cases today to illustrate what he meant by lack of co-operation on the part of retailers and producers who are exempted from the provisions of the food control law.

"I have heard that another cent has been added to the price of sugar to the consumer in Washington," he said, "and there are reports of a similar condition in some other cities. There is not the slightest justification for that increase in price. Despite the temporary sugar shortage, dealers, because of the regulations put into force by the Food Administration, are receiving their sugar at a price which does not warrant an increase."

The flour situation, it was said, supplied another concrete example. The intermediate branches of the industry were put under regulation more than six weeks ago, and, Mr. Hoover said,

WIDE PEACE PLAN FROM STOCKHOLM

BELGIUM TO BE RESTORED

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 18.—The Organizing Committee of the Stockholm conference has now published its manifesto regarding peace questions.

Its starting point is that the war must end without either conquered or conqueror, whenever the end may come. Therefore, the war may be forced to an immediate conclusion. Modern war has shown its incapability as a political means and, therefore, the system of force must be displaced by a system of right, which would bring to an end protectionism and militarism—the two forms of war between nations.

The committee adopts the idea of peace without annexations and indemnities. No annexations mean the status quo before the war, which does not exclude friendly regulation of the boundaries under consideration for the interests of the inhabitants. No indemnities does not exclude reparation for imposts and requisitions made during the war against the terms of The Hague Convention. Restoration of territories laid waste may be effected by an international fund. National questions should be settled in accordance with the principle of national freedom. There should be international regulation of national autonomy. States consisting of different nationalities should be organized as federative States.

Other points in the manifesto include guarantees of the right of workers in accord with the decisions of the trade union congresses in Leeds, Stockholm, and Berne; general amnesty for political offenses during the war, and complete restoration of Belgium, with autonomy to Flanders and Wallonia, Germany to pay an indemnity to Belgium, the sum to be fixed by the court at The Hague. The question of Alsace-Lorraine is to be settled by a plebiscite taken at some fixed date after the peace settlement and based on the voting list of the latest election in Alsace before the war. Establishment of the political and economical independence of Serbia joined to Montenegro is proposed.

The Saloniki territory is to be placed under common jurisdiction of Bulgaria, Serbia, and Greece, while Eastern Macedonia as far as the Vardar goes to Bulgaria.

Establishment of a free and independent Poland is suggested with autonomy as complete as possible to the Polish districts in Austria and Germany, and territorial autonomy to Russian nationalities within a federative republic and with a guarantee of the rights of minorities.

An independent Finland is to be connected with the Russian republic.

For Bohemia there is suggested a union of all the Czechs in a Federal State connected with Austria-Hungary.

Complete economic equality is suggested for the Southern Slavs united under a common administration. Cultural autonomy is proposed for Italian districts within Austria, which are not given to Italy.

Political independence and economic equality is urged for Ireland connected to Great Britain.

A friendly settlement of the question of North Schleswig is urged. The restoration of Armenia to Turkey, with a guarantee of its economic development, is favored. There would be an international settlement of Jewish questions, with personal autonomy and support to Jewish colonization in Palestine.

All States would join in a league of nations, based on compulsory arbitration and general disarmament.

In conclusion the committee appeals to the French and English Socialists to fight for passports and to the German Socialists to fight for the democratization of their country.

RUSSIAN FAILURES RENEW GERMAN HOPE

Shipping Merchants Profess Belief That Peace May Be Obtained Soon.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 18. (via London.)—Perhaps because the problem of the political situation as complicated by the recent Reichstag proceedings is too large a proposition to discuss as a whole, a majority of the public and the newspapers have now come to divide it into two more or less distinct questions, one of interior reform, including the labor problem and the concrete but sometimes conflicting interests revolving around it, and the problem of foreign policy.

On the second question, public opinion in Germany remains where it was—still divided into two main groups, the peace Germans and the Pan Germans. The former have circumscribed their ideas as a result of Kühlmann's recent Reichstag speech, while the latter have shown a remarkably reserved attitude toward the Foreign Secretary's latest references

FRESH OUTBREAK IN GERMAN NAVY; AUSTRIANS REVOLT

SERIOUS MUTINY AT POLA

REPORTS STIR WASHINGTON

Signs of Weakened Teuton Morale Coincide with Advices About Bad Food Conditions.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 18.—A mutiny among German sailors at the Belgian port of Ostend, who refused to go on board submarines, is reported by the Belgisch Dagblad.

The newspaper says that an officer was thrown into the sea, and that thirty mutineers were removed in handcuffs to Bruges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—News of a fresh outbreak of disaffection in the German naval forces, this time at Ostend, combined with advices telling of mutinies in the Austrian Navy at the Pola and Fiume bases, caused a profound impression in official and diplomatic circles in Washington today. New reports of the serious economic conditions in Austria-Hungary strengthened the impression of the generally serious straits of the Central Powers.

The reports of the mutinies in the Austrian Navy reached here through semi-official channels, and told among other things of clashes between sailors of Austria and crews of German submarines operating from Pola, in which several men were killed. The Austrian mutinies were caused by bad food and inhuman treatment by their own officers, and their clash with the German submarine crews was the result of what was regarded as overbearing conduct on the part of the Germans.

News Smuggled Across Border.

One of the semi-official dispatches reaching Washington came from Rome, to which point news of mutinies, which the Vienna Government tried to suppress, had been smuggled across the border. It read as follows:

"Notwithstanding the closing of the Austrian frontier, news has reached Berne of serious riots in Pola and Fiume among the crews of the Austro-Hungarian warships.

"The chief reasons for these mutinies were the inhuman treatment of the men by their officers and bad nourishment. At Pola the mutiny was extremely critical on account of the existing bad feeling between the Austrian sailors and the crews of the German submarine flotilla stationed at Pola for operations in the Adriatic.

"Sailors and officers fought, and several were killed. The German submarine flotilla has since been transferred to another naval base in the Northern Adriatic.

"The most drastic measures have been taken by the Austrian authorities in order to prevent a repetition of the riots. It is understood that these sanguinary incidents have had a serious repercussion on the relations between the Austrian and German commands."

This dispatch gave the first intimation of trouble brewing in the Austro-Hungarian Navy, and, when associated with the information that has trickled out of Germany regarding unrest in the Kaiser's fleet, was accepted as supporting the contentions of those who insist that the resignation of Vice Admiral von Capelle as Minister of Marine was the result of the failure of his administration and indicative of worse conditions in the German Navy than the outside world has been permitted to know.

The clashes between German and Austrian crews are regarded in naval circles here as adding much significance to the situation, particularly when considered in the light of the serious condition of Austria, whose fighting forces are at the point of exhaustion.

The report of a new mutiny in the German Navy tends, to confirm the opinion of American naval officers that the disaffection is due in part, at least, to the drafting of seamen for submarine crews, a service which has come to hold terrors for German seamen because of the inflexible British policy of never making any announcement of the fate of captured or lost crews of the German submersibles.

Two Nations in Food Straits.

Dispatches received here state that the reports reaching Italy from coast towns of Austria-Hungary indicate that economic and food conditions are extremely bad. They say that there are visible signs of distress in some places, especially Trieste, where there is a severe shortage of almost every commodity. It was added that there are not enough foodstuffs for loyal Austrians in districts close to the war areas, and that for this reason Austria has been forcing Italian residents of that part of Austria to suffer. The suffering of Austrian subjects, which has been great, is said to be becoming more acute with prices soaring far above the means of the poor to obtain many necessities.

Reports to the State Department indicate that the German harvests this year have not relieved the food situation in that country to any appreciable extent. There is a great scarcity of fats and animal food in general, and the supplies received from Rumania and from neighboring neutrals, are not making up for the lack of proteins. As the reports come from different sources and sections, it is difficult for the department to give an opinion on the general situation, but it has been definitely established that while some crops were normal in volume the scanty supplies in most commodities have not been augmented.

Recently obtained figures on the German weekly food ration were made public by the Food Administration today with the statement that it was far below the amount required to obtain bodily health and vigor, and was likely to have serious and permanent results.

Computed in terms of American housekeeping, the weekly ration amounts approximately to four and one-half pounds of bread, half a peck of potatoes, a cupful of beans, peas, or oatmeal, half a pound of meat, twelve cubes of sugar, six individual patties of butter, and an equal amount of other fats. The caloric value of these foods in the aggregate is less than half the amount estimated by the Food Administration as sufficient for a person in a sedentary occupation.

Admits U-Boats Can't Force Peace Even in Two Years

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 18.—Dr. David, the Socialist Deputy, speaking at the Jenaburg conference, made the following reference to the U-boat war:

"Our U-boats have not protected us against a fourth war Winter. They will not in a few months or even in one or two years force England to peace as the Pan Germans say they will.

"We uttered warning against an unrestricted U-boat campaign. The consequences of it have come to pass, but now this campaign must be pursued with all our strength. But military pressure alone will not bring peace."

58 ENEMY ALIENS TAKEN IN HOBOKEN

WORKED ON SEIZED LINERS

Reported That the Government Will Revoke Thousands of Barred Zone Permits.

Federal authorities in one of their largest waterfront raids arrested fifty-eight German mechanics at the Tietjen-Lang Dry Docks, Hoboken, yesterday, where German ships taken over by the Government were being repaired. Several other suspects were gathered in during the day in the vicinity of piers in Manhattan, and all the prisoners were sent to Ellis Island. The raids were a continuation of the determined effort by the agents of the navy and the Immigration Department to round up enemy aliens employed at river and harbor terminals, and to hunt down the persons suspected of being enemy aliens, responsible for recent waterfront fires at the Port of New York, costing millions of dollars.

Evidence was said yesterday to have been discovered of a new conspiracy to destroy vast quantities of munitions and property, and in order to make the hunt effective. It was reported, the authorities had decided to revoke thousands of permits that had been granted to enemy aliens to enable them to continue at their employment in the barred zones. Most of the permits to be withdrawn were said to be held by persons employed in the vicinity of shipping here and in New Jersey.

The raid on the Tietjen-Lang Dry Docks which, next to that at the Navy Yard, are the largest in the East, was quietly conducted. At about 1 o'clock in the afternoon one of the special patrol boats in the service of the navy left the navy yard at Brooklyn and set out for Hoboken. The boat was in charge of a Lieutenant and carried a detail of six sailors, all armed. In the meantime Immigration Inspector William Taylor, accompanied by several men from the Barge Office, also set out for Hoboken, where they found a large party of Secret Service agents awaiting them.

Drydock Owner Helps Officers.

J. G. Frelinghause, one of the owners of the drydock, had learned some time before that the raid was impending, and assisted the Federal authorities in their search for the men under suspicion. His firm has had the contract for most of the repair work on the German ships taken over by the Government, and although employing nearly 10,000 men, the work of picking out the enemy aliens was carried out with little confusion. As fast as the men were found they were taken to the patrol boat, which, when filled, departed for the Battery. There they were transferred to the ferryboat running regularly to Ellis Island. The patrol boat was not able to hold all of the suspected men at one time, and returned to the drydock for the others after disposing of the first batch.

Mr. Frelinghause refused to make a statement after the raid, referring reporters to Inspector Taylor.

"All that I will say is that since we obtained the contracts for Government work we have been scrupulously careful about the kind of men we employed," he said. He refused to confirm the fact that fifty-eight men were arrested, or to tell why the men had been taken into custody. It was learned from other sources, however, that a majority of the men were machinists and iron workers who had been employed in the engine rooms of the damaged ships. All of them, it was said, were of German birth, but it could not be learned whether they had permits to work in the barred zones.

It took the Government agents until nearly 6 o'clock in the evening to complete the work of rounding up the men, and while this was going on other Federal agents arrested the Captain of a railroad barge that had anchored during the afternoon at Army Pier No. 2, Hoboken. Neither the name of the barge nor that of the Captain was disclosed. The barge had the figure "8" painted on the hull, but this was the only sign of identification appearing on it. The Captain also was transferred to Ellis Island.

The Captain of the barge and the 58 men taken from the Tietjen-Lang drydock, upon reaching Ellis Island, were quartered with the 35 Germans arrested in the barred zones in Manhattan and New Jersey on last Wednesday. Twelve of the latter had been taken by the authorities from the Lackawanna Railroad piers adjoining the Government station at Hoboken.

$3,000,000 Lost In Waterfront Fires.

Although none of the Federal officials would make statements yesterday, it had become known several hours before the Hoboken raid that the authorities were determined to check the alleged increase in enemy alien activities at this port. Attention was particularly directed to the fact that in the last week the fires on the waterfront had caused damages of more than $3,000,000.

GERMANS SEIZE MOON ISLAND; TRAP 20 SHIPS

HELD FAST IN MOON SOUND

DRIVES THROUGH MINE FIELD

Ten Thousand Russian Soldiers and Fifty Guns Captured on Oesel Island.

BERLIN, Oct. 18, (via London.)—The German forces have captured Moon Island by a combined land and sea attack, according to an official statement issued tonight.

A previous official statement said that portions of the German naval forces had pressed forward through the minefield in the Gulf of Riga to the southern exit of Moon Sound. There was a short engagement with about twenty Russian warships, which later retired to Moon Sound.

The Russian naval forces in the Gulf of Riga have thus been trapped by the Germans. German naval units are lying in the eastern portion of Kassar Bay, north of Oesel Island, and are barring the passage westward.

The statement says:

Reclassification of the booty captured on Oesel Island has given the following results, up to the present: Ten thousand prisoners from two Russian divisions—only a few hundred men escaped to Moon Island; fifty guns, including some undamaged heavy coastal and field batteries; numerous arms, and other war material.

Portions of our naval forces pressed forward through the minefields in the Gulf of Riga to the southern exit of the great Moon Sound, whither about twenty Russian warships retired after a short engagement. The Russian batteries near Woi, on Moon Island, and on the Esthonian coast near Werder Island were silenced.

Others of our naval units are lying in the eastern portion of Kassar Bay and are barring the passage to the west.

Germans Sink Battleship Slava.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 18.—A naval battle has taken place in the Gulf of Riga between Russian and German battleships, the War Office announces. The Russian battleship Slava was sunk as the result of being hit several times beneath the waterline. Nearly all the members of the crew were saved by Russian torpedo boats.

An official communication issued this evening says that the centre of gravity in the naval struggle is the maintenance of communication between the Gulf of Riga and Finland, and that the Russian torpedo boats are continuing their endeavors to prevent the enemy from penetrating Moon Sound.

The War Office statement says:

After depriving us of control of Irbe Channel, the enemy at night penetrated the Gulf of Riga, where at dawn yesterday his naval forces were discovered by our patrol detachment, which was pressed back to Moon Sound by enemy cruisers and torpedo boats. Our ships of the line Graybdanin and Slava and the cruiser Bayan went out to meet the enemy in the Gulf of Riga and drove back his vanguard by their fire.

They soon encountered the principal enemy fighting units and engaged them. Among the latter were two dreadnoughts of the Grosser Kurfuerst type (25,000 tons.)

During the battle the enemy adopted the tactics of firing at distances beyond the range of our guns, his artillery range being much superior to the artillery of our old ships of the line. In spite of the clearly manifested superiority of the enemy, our ships defended the entrance for a considerable time, and only severe damage caused by the fire of his dreadnoughts forced us to retire into the waters of Moon Sound.

As a result of several hits beneath the waterline the Slava sank. Nearly all the crew were saved by our torpedo boats.

During this engagement our coast batteries at the entrance to Moon Sound dispersed by their fire enemy torpedoboats which attempted to approach our ships. Afterward the fire of one of the enemy dreadnoughts was directed on these batteries, and they were put out of action in a short time.

Another detachment of our naval forces in Moon Sound kept back fierce enemy attacks from the north in the rear of our combating forces. These enemy attempts did not succeed.

Simultaneously, a great number of enemy aircraft dropped many bombs on our ships and op the harbors of the islands still occupied by our detachments. We fought down one machine.

On the southwestern coast of Dago Island the enemy again landed some small detachments, but they were received by our fire and soon returned to their ships. Shortly afterward the enemy violently bombarded this landing place from a cruiser and a dreadnought of the Kaiser type.

Our patrols, as on days before, observed on the sea not far from Oesel and Dago Islands enemy ships of different types, among them dreadnoughts, accompanied by a great number of torpedoboats and patrolling ships. As many as fifty-five enemy ships were visible at times in this region alone.

The enemy operations on Oesel Island in the last twenty-four hours have ended in the complete occupation of the island. Before our retreat we destroyed everything of military utility.

On Tuesday night a Zeppelin flew over the town of Pernau, (on the Gulf of Riga, 100 miles northeast of the city of Riga,) and dropped bombs. Six houses were destroyed.

The Slava, built in 1903, was an old-type battleship of 13,516 tons, 397 feet in length, 76 feet beam, and 26 feet draught. Her main armament consisted of four 12-inch and twelve 6-inch guns, and her speed was eighteen knots. She had a complement of 825 men.

Three sister ships of the Slava, the Imperator Alexander III., Borodino, and Knyaz Suvorov, were sunk by the Japanese in the battle of the Sea of Japan in May, 1905. The Japanese captured a fourth sister ship, the Orel, which is now the Japanese Iwami.

The Slava was stationed in the Gulf of Riga as long ago as April, 1916, in which month the German Admiralty reported having dropped bombs upon her in that gulf, several hits and a fire being reported. Her men were involved in the disaffection in the Baltic fleet which followed the revolution, but later were restored to favor.

Predict Attack on Aland Islands.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18.—Naval and military operations against the Aland Islands possibly may be the next step in German strategy. Indications of such a measure are found in the strategical discussion of the Oesel Island campaign in German newspapers, which point out the desirability of sewing up the Gulf of Finland by acquiring the bases to the north as well as to the south of the entrance.

The Aland Islands, of which there are eighty, are in the Gulf of Bothnia, north of the entrance to the Gulf of Finland.

MAY CUT PETROGRAD LINE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Commenting on the German effort to cross the Dvina River and naval activities directed against islands in the region of the Gulf of Riga, Russian officials today expressed the opinion that the Germans would not be able to carry forward a drive against Petrograd this Winter. An official said it was more probable that the object of the Germans was to seize the Nikolai Railway at Vologoe, about midway between Petrograd and Moscow.

"By doing this," he said, "the Germans would cut Russia into two parts and isolate Petrograd. Should the Germans cut the Nikolai Railway there would be a famine in Petrograd during the Winter. The Germans can gain little by taking Petrograd itself.

WANTS CENTRAL AFRICA.

Substitute for Annexation in Europe, Says German Writer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 18.—Emil Zimmermann, in the Vossische Zeitung, has a long editorial on "German Colonial Politics in an English-American Looking Glass," in which he treats of German Central Africa as an important factor in peace negotiations.

"To facilitate the European situation," he writes, "Central Africa is of the most vital importance."

The highly complicated German economic position, Herr Zimmermann says, demands either the open door or the expansion of German land for cultivation. In Germany many still hold to the open-door theory, but this writer charges that England is fighting to abolish it.

"I recognize," he says, "that our Central African plans would be most painful to the Americans and English. A German Central Africa that develops steadily would be the natural ally of the Latin South and Central American States, and, together with the Arabian and Turkish powers, would make for a strong influence in the Indian Ocean. Just this would create an enormous modification in Germany's war aims on the European continent. If England and America are honest with their allies, they must support the idea of German colonial expansion, even if they object to it."

Herr Zimmermann says that if Germany cannot acquire room for its surplus population abroad it must seize it on the continent. He argues that if the overpopulation of Germany is not to become a permanent danger to Europe, the Allies must make Germany's intensive economic life possible through the open door or give her a large external territory, and this is his idea of the Central African policy. This, he asserts, would avoid all annexation on the continent of Europe, and would lead to a policy of understanding.

In his new book on Central Africa Herr Zimmermann says he has shown how that region could be defended by a colonial army of 50,000, but his ideas have been strongly opposed by the English and by President Lowell of Harvard University. When the Americans and English get excited over a German colonial army, he says, they should remember that the Belgian Congo army counted 17,000 natives. He asks what is to be attained by "unjustifiable" attack on German colonial policy.

"Every reasonable being even abroad," he adds, "must admit that the present conflict can only be settled if the German people are given more room, if not in Europe, then abroad. The English and Americans say they wish to relieve the tension in Europe."

Herr Zimmermann asserts that if they now oppose this idea they would plainly rather sacrifice French or Belgian territory than colonial. "Certainly the English and Americans have a keen appetite for Congo territory," he says. "Or perhaps the Anglo-Saxons really believe that a powerfully organized German Central Africa would shake the English world to its foundations." He asserts that this idea is exaggerated, as Germany is by no means a world conqueror.

"A big German colonial policy," he says, "is necessarily peaceful, as it has always been, because only through cultivation will the Germans learn colonization."

PROPOSES GREAT ALLIANCE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 18.—The Cologne Volkszeitung comments on a new book by von Scheller-Steinwartz, which proposes a solidarity of Continental interests. He puts the idea in concrete form and demands that after Germany has defeated all her enemies she should then stretch out the peace hand and reassemble the weakened nations about her as the "United States of Europe." The paper says this is a dream, as hatred against Germany is too deep.

The book says:

"France, bled to death by England, Russia, freed, and Italy, bleeding through her own madness, can recover themselves with the honest, friendly help of a strong Germany. A basis and understanding for the United States of Europe are thus formed by the natural interests of the States involved."

The writer argues that if England wishes to continue her "self-interested" politics she will become isolated. The paper remarks that this idea is fantastic, and that one must know little of the spirit of enemy countries to entertain such views. It concludes by saying that this plan will be possible in the future only if Europe decides to combine against the yellow peril and American competition, but especially against Japan and America. The paper argues that European countries will have too many other troubles at the end of the war to arm themselves against a Japanese-American attack.

TWO FRENCH SHIPS SUNK.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—One mercantman of more than 1,600 tons and one of less than that size were sunk by submarines or mines in the week ended Oct. 14.

By their recent operations the German naval forces have taken control of the Gulf of Riga and forced a fleet of twenty Russian warships to take refuge in Moon Sound, the exits from which are controlled by the German fleet of fifty-five or more ships. The Russian battleship Slava was lost in an ineffective effort to prevent the Germans from entering the gulf through Irbe Channel, between Oesel Island and the Courland coast.

With Oesel and Moon Islands already in German possession and the Russian land forces beaten, with the loss of 10,000 or more prisoners, the campaign has been one of rapid progress and marked results. By a quick movement the Russian troops were cut off before they could pass the mole connecting these two islands, and all but a few hundred, Berlin reports, were made prisoners.

The fact that the scene of operations is 300 miles from Petrograd leads Russian military observers to believe that the present invasion will not extend beyond a determined effort to win control of the Gulf of Riga and its approaches.

HID GERMAN DRUGS IN A DIPLOMATIC POUCH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Developments in the Ekengren situation are being watched here with keen interest, but without much apprehension of any very serious results. The attitude of the Swedish Minister in Washington, it is believed, is likely to undergo modification in view of the formation of a new Government in Sweden.

The whole incident has served only to strengthen the conviction that the utmost precautions are necessary to counteract German machinations, and especially to circumvent Germany's unscrupulous use of neutral agents. It is remarked here that Minister Ekengren himself may be above suspicion, but recent experience has shown British officials that even Ministers of neutral States may be made innocent victims of German wiles. Within the last few weeks a curious incident of the kind has come within the cognizance of the British Secret Service.

A South American, who for some years held a diplomatic post in Germany, recently arrived in London, bringing with him diplomatic pouches carrying the official seals. Through a variety of circumstances suspicion fell upon the traveler, and representations were made to his Minister in London, who had the pouches opened and discovered that they contained a large quantity of a special German product used in the treatment of a particular disease. It developed that the South American traveler had invested a small fortune in this product, expecting to sell it at a greatly enhanced price in his own country.

As this specific clearly did not come within the description of diplomatic dispatches, the Minister ruled that his subordinate must take amends by presenting his stock to British hospitals.

DISPERSE AUSTRIAN GROUPS

Italians Win in Skirmishes in Giudicaria and Dogna Valleys.

ROME, Oct. 18.—The official statement from General Headquarters today reads:

Along the whole front there was moderate artillery action, and local fighting was more noticeable. Large enemy parties were dispersed in the Giudicaria and Dogna Valleys.

On the Bainsizza Plateau the enemy suffered losses in patrol encounters, leaving prisoners in our hands. We promptly repulsed storming parties southwest of Selo on the Carso.

One of these occurred on last Saturday at the Dow elevators at the foot of Pacific Street in Brooklyn, and destroyed grain valued at $1,200,000. Another fire the same day caused a damage of $250,000 to the British-American chemical plant on Third Avenue and Flushing Bay, College Point.

Following these fires came the reports from Washington that a German agent, working with Germans in New York, had attempted to obtain a place with the Naval Intelligence Service, and that there had been an increase of enemy alien activities in other directions, and these cases added to the determination of the authorities to rid the city of all such dangerous characters, and to revoke the permits of all persons of German birth suspected of being in sympathy with the plotters.

The permits which it is now said will be withdrawn, were issued by the United States Marshal's office to enable the holders to continue at work in the barred zones. At the time they were issued it was hoped it would not be necessary to molest the thousands of persons of foreign birth who were apparently law-abiding, but a quiet investigation conducted by the Federal authorities was said to have disclosed that some had abused the privilege of immunity. It was also regarded as a significant fact that the number of permit holders was especially large in the areas where some of the fires had occurred. It was said last night that more than 200 suspects had recently been interned on Ellis Island, the work having been so quietly conducted that until the raids at piers and along the waterfront began, few persons knew of them.

A conference of Federal agents was held yesterday in the office of United States District Attorney Caffey, but it could not be learned if it related to the alleged determination to revoke permits.

"There is nothing new," said Assistant District Attorney Knox, "and as for the report that a German agent tried to find employment in the Naval Intelligence Service, I know nothing about it." Mr. Knox added that he had no additional information to give out about William Lewis Dupbar, the provisional Ensign, arrested on last Wednesday.

"I do not know what charge he is to be tried on," said Mr. Knox. "The report published in one of the morning papers that he is to be tried for treason was unauthorized."

DRAFT OBJECTORS GUILTY.

Son of Prof. Cheney Faces Two Years in Prison.

Ralph Edward Cheney, son of Dr. Edward Cheney, Professor of History in the University of Pennsylvania, and Louis C. Fraina, members of the Conscientious Objectors' Society, were found guilty by a jury in the United States District Court yesterday of conspiring to obstruct and defeat the selective draft law. They can be sent to Atlanta Penitentiary for two years and fined $10,000 each. Judge Robert P. Erwin, before whom the men were tried, will sentence them on Monday.

Cheney is 26 years old and married. Fraina is a Russian, 29 years old, and married. The two men registered for examination for military duty, but, although neither claimed exemption, refused to perform any kind of military service. They were arrested by United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy in a raid at the Labor Lyceum in East Fourteenth Street on the night of Sept. 27. Cheney was presiding at the meeting, and both he and Fraina made speeches considered by the authorities to be inflammatory and seditious. Cheney resisted arrest and caused a riot at the meeting.

PLAN FOR AIR SERVICE OF WORLD-WIDE SCOPE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 19.—The Daily Express says that as soon as the war is ended aerial navigation plans which are being drawn up by Lord Northcliffe's committee, appointed by the Government, will be put in operation step by step, and the ends of the world will be brought together by long-distance airplane service.

The Express says it has information that if favorable weather conditions prevail it is likely that the Atlantic will be crossed by an airplane before the end of this year. It understands that the flight will be made by way of the Azores, so that the journey may be broken.

The bridging of the Atlantic by airplane, it says, will be only the beginning of things. Plans are being laid for regular air service, not only to America, but to India, South Africa, and Australia. If they are carried out Melbourne will be brought within eight and one-half days of London; India, three days, and Capetown, four or five. The best line to Capetown may be one across the Sahara, but the winds of the desert raise obstacles to this route, and the route chosen is by way of Malta, Cairo, Khartoum and Victoria Falls.

The Express says that the machine which will be used for these world journeys will be of the type developed by Handley Page, will travel 200 miles an hour, will have multiple engines to avoid the necessity for descending if one engine gives out, will carry four or five passengers, and will be able to cover about 3,000 miles in fifteen hours. Two pilots will take turns at the wheel. There will be comfortable inclosed quarters, and the journey will not be more exhausting than a railway trip of similar duration.

N.D. JAY TO SERVE IN FRANCE

Vice President of Guaranty Trust Co. Appointed a Captain.

N. D. Jay, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, has been commissioned a Captain in the Quartermaster's Department, U. S. A., and will sail for France in a short time. Mr. Jay received his commission at the urgent request of Lieut. Col. Charles G. Dawes, who in civil life is President of the Central Trust Company of Chicago, and is now on General Pershing's staff.

Mr. Jay came to the Guaranty Trust Company in 1915 as manager of the bond department, and was promoted to a Vice Presidency in November, 1916. He is 34 years old. He is the 214th employe of the Guaranty Trust Company to enter the service of the United States in the present war. Before receiving his commission he had been an active worker on the Liberty Loan Committee.

GERMANS POUND BRITISH YPRES LINES

FRENCH HALT TWO ATTACKS

Repulse Germans on Aisne and Near Bezonvaux — Berlin Reports Success Near Hill 344.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—German artillery last night and today directed a vigorous fire upon British positions east of Ypres, the bombardment of the lines southeast of Poelcappelle this afternoon being particularly violent. The British guns continued their counterbattery work with good effect. There was no infantry engagement of importance on the Flanders front.

Yesterday the German aviators were very active in reconnoissance operations. Eleven of their machines were shot down, the British losing three.

An artillery engagement of considerable proportions developed yesterday northeast of Soissons, on the French front, and continued, with little intermission, today. There was brisk artillery fighting also on the Champagne and Verdun fronts.

French troops repulsed two German attacks—one on the Aisne, the other near Bezonvaux, in the Verdun sector. An official communication from Berlin reports the destruction of five French dugouts near Hill 344 (Verdun sector) and the capture of the garrison.

The text of the British afternoon report follows:

The hostile artillery was active during the night south of Ypres-Comines canal and in the neighborhoods of Zonnebeke and Broodseinde.

London troops made a successful raid last night in the neighborhood of Gavrelle. Several of the enemy were killed or made prisoners. Our casualties were light.

Otherwise there is nothing to report from the battlefront.

The official communication issued this evening says:

During the day hostile artillery shelled vigorously various localities in our forward and battery positions east of Ypres. This afternoon our positions southeast of Poelcappelle were heavily bombarded. Our own artillery continues its successful counterbattery work. Concentrated fire has been directed with good effect upon a number of targets.

Our patrols on the battle front brought in a few prisoners, but there has been no further infantry action.

On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report.

German Airplanes Shot Down.

Aviation: On Wednesday the fine weather produced great aerial activity. The visibility was excellent and enabled our machines to do a great deal of successful artillery work and photography. Ninety-eight bombs were dropped by our airplanes during the day on enemy billets and hutments.

The strong west wind and clear atmosphere were ideal for the enemy's artillery reconnoissance and fighting machines, which were active and very aggressive in the forenoon. Several flights were made at high altitudes over our lines, with the result that of the enemy machines brought down by our airplanes three fell in our territory.

In all eleven German machines were brought down by us, including one shot down by anti-aircraft gunfire. Four others were driven down out of control. Three of our machines are missing.

French Check German Attacks.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—French troops today repulsed a German attack against their positions on the Vauclerc plateau, on the Aisne front, and last night checked an attempt to rush their trenches near Bezonvaux, in the Verdun sector. Artillery actions are reported from the Champagne and Verdun fronts.

Following is the text of tonight's official report:

On the front north of the Aisne our troops repulsed an attack directed against our positions on the Vauclerc plateau. Artillery actions occurred near Maisons de Champagne, north of Souain, in the region south of the Monts and on the right bank of the Meuse, in the neighborhood of the Chaume Wood and Bezonvaux.

The afternoon report from the War Office said:

The night was relatively calm except on the front north of the Aisne, in the region of the plateaus, and on the right bank of the Meuse, in the sectors of Chaume Wood and Hill 344, where spirited artillery actions occurred. We repulsed an enemy attack near Bezonvaux and dispersed a patrol which attempted to approach one of our small posts in the valley of the Aire.

Artillery Battle Near Soissons.

BERLIN, Oct. 18, (via London.)—Artillery activity on the Flanders front increased yesterday, and was maintained last night and this morning, according to the report from Army Headquarters.

An artillery engagement which became intense yesterday in the region northeast of Soissons continued today, with only slight intervals, and there was a considerable increase of firing from the Aisne to the east bank of the Meuse, near Verdun.

Baden troops, in a surprise attack near Hill 344, destroyed five large dugouts and captured the members of the garrison who survived the attack, says the official communication, the text of which follows:

Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht—In the centre of the Flanders front the artillery duel was lively yesterday, and at Houthulst Wood and south of Passchendaele there was an increase in the firing, especially last evening and in the early hours of this morning. Reconnoitring detachments, advancing several times near Draeibank, were thrown back.

Between La Bassée Canal and the Scarpe and south of St. Quentin there were forefield engagements and also increased firing activity.

Front of the German Crown Prince—Northeast of Soissons the lively fighting activity which has lasted for days developed into an artillery battle, which since early yesterday has continued, with only slight intervals, from the Ailette region to Braye. Batteries in the neighboring sectors also participated in the duel.

From the Aisne to the eastern bank of the Meuse there was also a considerable increase in the firing at many points along the front.

On the northeastern front of Verdun Baden storming troops in a bold surprise attack pushed forward into the French trenches near Hill 344, east of Samogneux, and destroyed five great dugouts, bringing back the garrison as prisoners, with the exception of those who fell in the hand-to-hand fighting. In the evening the enemy made two counterattacks against the trench sections captured, but was repulsed on both occasions.

NEW AIR RAID ON NANCY.

Germans' Victims Civilians—11 German Machines Lost on French Front

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Eleven German airplanes were shot down by the French yesterday or driven to earth in the German lines in damaged condition, the War Office reports. Nancy was again attacked, this time by a squadron of thirty German machines. The announcement follows:

At about 6 o'clock yesterday evening thirty enemy airplanes made a new raid over Nancy and threw several bombs. There were some victims among the civilian population.

On Oct. 17 six German airplanes were destroyed and five fell disabled in the German lines.

Our aviators carried out several bombing sorties. Many projectiles were dropped on railroad stations at Courcelles, Thionville, Mezières, and Waimille, factories at Pagordange, and on numerous munitions depots and bivouacks.

RUSSIAN FAILURES RENEW BERLIN HOPE

It must not be believed that the Pan Germans have given up one iota of their program of conquest and compensation. As for the peace Germans, it must be said they remain undisturbed by the replies of Lloyd George and Asquith to Kühlmann's speech. They are convinced of the justness, even of the generosity, of their peace conditions, and expect a successful end of the war within the scope of Kühlmann's attitude.

Merchants Look for Peace.

When that end will come nobody at present ventures to predict. The only hope of an early peace your correspondent has discovered is in a quarter where usually in cases like the present the tendency would be to pessimism rather than optimism. This is among the hard-headed and worldly wise merchants of Hamburg and Bremen, who were considerably interested in the Reichstag's last session because they hoped that the bill providing a subvention to steamship lines would speedily be placed on the statute books, which was prevented, however, by unexpected events, foreign to the nature of the bill.

Russia—this is the trend of my informant's argument—has been utterly unsuccessful in all her military operations since the revolution began. How could she possibly improve under intolerable anarchistic conditions growing daily? The Russian people and Russian Army want peace. Peace is Russia's only salvation, as is apparent to everybody who wishes to see and does not close his eyes.

Now, continued the informant, Russia will have peace with or without the Entente, and the latter's obstinacy is bound only to increase Russian anger against it. Russia will make peace somehow.

"We trust to God," said the informant, "and to our U-boats to cause France's and England's obstinacy soon to make room for common sense.

It must be remembered that the Bremen and Hamburg people are the firmest believers in the final success of the U-boat war. This argument of clear-headed merchants who know the world may be of more than passing interest and certainly proves how deeply some Germans are convinced of final success.

As to England's suddenly emphasized determination to hold out as long as France desires to fight for Alsace-Lorraine, I was given an explanation from another quarter that is original if nothing else. While yet the war was not very old but the English were heartily sick and tired of the Belgian refugees and the British Government feared that the war spirit might be affected by this general feeling regarding the Belgians, The London Times said this informant was allowed to explain that Great Britain was not fighting for Belgium.

Even before the war British statesmen asserted in Parliament and in public that England would never go to war for the sake of reconquering Alsace-Lorraine for France. In fact, the latter question was never raised by them until this late day. Why? Because the U-boats, with their new methods, have practically so undermined England's domination at sea that she has become convinced of the necessity of retaining her sole stronghold on the European continent, where she hopes to paralyze the power of the new sea weapon.

"If the peace negotiations should not permit to England even a disguised protectorate over some parts of the Belgian coast, she could turn to France and say: 'No previous arrangement compelled us to help you reconquer Alsace-Lorraine. Now, in turn, we ask permission to remain in Calais until we are convinced that the U-boats have ceased to be a menace to the world in future'—meaning, of course, to England's domination at sea."

My informant reminded me that he was merely talking hypothetically or rather interpreting the English way of thinking, because he would not consider the reconquest of Alsace-Lorraine within the scope of possibility for one moment.

Suspects American Scheming.

From a Reventlow article in today's Deutsche Tageszeitung the following may be quoted on the same subject:

"The Entente seems to have decided to use the question of Alsace-Lorraine in a new shape to inveigle the United States as a third partner in this game. A few days ago we heard Wilson's friend House was coming to Europe again in the interest of peace. There are other messages from America indicating that the United States is in favor of an early peace. This is unwelcome news to the Entente, despite the terrifying stories of war preparations on the other side of the ocean. Washington evidently believes there will be no more trouble about Belgium and hopes, in conjunction with London, to tie Berlin down to a renouncement of all claims to Belgium.

"Thus, America would actually have reached her war aim, because Belgium was the catchword of her pretended moral indignation. This supposition granted, it does not seem very likely that the United States will make great sacrifices for Alsace-Lorraine. But it is on just such American sacrifices that France is building her hopes.

"Great Britain, now seemingly so unswervingly true to her alliance with France, would soon turn sympathetic ears to Washington if from thither came sounds of aversion against a continuance of war for the sake of Alsace-Lorraine alone. London thus might dessert her non possumus in all righteousness. However these things may shape themselves, the Belgian question remains the main issue."

PEACE OR A REVOLT, IS SOCIALIST THREAT

Reichstag Member Tells Wuerzburg Conference Crisis Must Come in a Few Weeks.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 18.—After the German Socialist conference at Würzburg had rejected by a vote of 284 to 26 a motion to bind the party to vote against war credits in the Reichstag, Herr Hoch, a member of the Reichstag, said on behalf of the Independent Socialists, that they were in favor of the country's defense and would only refuse to vote for credits as long as the Imperial Government failed to promise the adoption of the peace demands of the Social Democrats and make changes in the Constitution.

Herr Hoch added that the patience and strength of the people in all countries were coming to an end, and that the Government ought to understand that unless peace came within a few weeks revolutionary convulsions would arise from the masses.

Speaking of the Russian provinces of Courland and Livonia, Philip Scheidemann, the Socialist leader, said at the Würzburg conference:

"Union of these territories with Germany, which has been demanded repeatedly, cannot be contemplated."

Herr Scheidemann said provisional regulation of the affairs of the provinches had been effected in accordance with the resolution of the Reichstag Main Committee, which declared against annexation. Although Riga had German characteristics, he added, the Germans formed only a small portion of the population.

A resolution was submitted signed by 118 delegates, demanding the restoration of Belgium and protesting against division of Alsace-Lorraine.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18.—The proceedings of the convention of German Socialists at Würzburg reveal but slight prospects that the two branches of the party will be united. Professions of a desire to establish party unity are profuse, but almost always are accompanied by scolding of the opposite side, and are based on the assumption that reconciliation would be possible only by the submission of one wing to the dictates of the other.

At yesterday's session, Herman Müller of the Executive Committee said Alsace-Lorraine under no circumstances could be made a subject of discussion in the peace negotiations, and that these provinces could be wrested only from a completely defeated Germany.

VON BUELOW'S RETURN EMPHASIZES CRISIS

More Berlin Rumors That He Will Displace Michaelis—Prussian Franchise Reform Delayed.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 18.—Prince von Bülow, the former Imperial Chancellor, has returned to Berlin, according to the Lokal-Anzeiger. It is generally believed, the newspaper adds, that he will be offered his old post, in succession to Dr. Michaelis.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18.—The report that Dr. Michaelis, the Imperial German Chancellor, has offered Friedrich von Payer the post of Vice Chancellor, held by Dr. Karl Helfferich, is confirmed by the Clerical Germania and the Radical Tageblatt. The offer would imply the Chancellor's readiness to throw overboard Helfferich, as well as Vice Admiral von Capelle, the Minister of Marine, in order to save the situation.

News of these overtures to the Radical parties has not helped Dr. Michaelis in his parliamentary troubles. Germania, speaking for the powerful Clerical Party, says that the naval outbreak has convinced parliamentary circles that Michaelis lacks the requisite political judgment and must be replaced by an adroit politician and diplomat.

A solution of the crisis is expected soon after the return of Emperor William from Constantinople. The Tageblatt says opinion is virtually unanimous in political circles that a quick change of Chancellors is inevitable. The Vorwärts, organ of the German Socialists, says that even the sacrifice of a second subordinate in Dr. Helfferich, following the displacement of von Capelle, cannot affect its view that Dr. Michaelis is an impossibility as Chancellor.

The Conservative organs manifest displeasure at this appeal to the Radicals. The Tageszeitung says it cannot fail to impair the prestige of the Government.

The Prussian Diet reassembled yesterday, to be met by the news that the Franchise Reform bill, which the Emperor ordered submitted in time so that new elections could be held under the new system, probably would not be ready before December. At best only the formal first reading is expected before Christmas, and there is little chance that the debates can be concluded before the terms of the present members of the Diet expire.

The Germania says that the delay is due to the complicated studies connected with the reform of the upper house and the reshaping of election districts. The actual change in franchise rights has presented few difficulties.

The majority parties in the Diet, which are opposed to the idea of "suicidal" reform, are delighted at the delay. Herr Free of the Conservative Party said yesterday that there was opposition in Prussia to the Reichstag franchise.

A dispatch from Berlin says that the Prussian Herrenhaus (House of Lords) opened with a speech by the President of the Chamber, Count von Arnim-Boitzenburg, who referred to President Wilson's reply to the peace proposal of Pope Benedict as an attempt to sow discord between the German Emperor and the people, because, he said, otherwise the Entente would be unable "to fell the German oak." He added that the German people never would allow Bismarck's gigantic work to be undone, and that it was again the enemy, who had refused peace except at the cost of Germany's existence.

CALL FOR NEW STATESMEN.

German Methods Need Reform, Conrad Hausmann Urges.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 18.—Conrad Hausmann, Liberal member of the Reichstag, writes in the Berliner Tageblatt of "The Government of Tomorrow." He asserts that German domestic and foreign politics are inseparable and continues:

"The formation of a steady imperial government is now welded by world politics. An element of strength is demanded throughout Germany.

"There are three possibilities in the future: First, to continue steering in the same course, which is dangerous for the empire; second, government by the minority, which with a passive attitude by the majority would be the hardest blow for Germany; third, the possibility that a leading statesman should work together with men who have the complete confidence of the great masses of the people."

Dr. Hausmann says that only under these conditions can the war be continued with full force until the hour when the Entente shall be willing to make peace. He argues that the Government must make full confidence in the Crown and in the representatives of the people a basis for leadership and that this step should set in motion the full working force of officials and representatives of the people and army. Hausmann concludes that events have proved that the State needs new men.

CLAIMS GAIN ON PEACE.

Erzberger Says Zurich Move Opened Way for Discussion.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 18.—The South German Gazette reports that Mathias Erzberger said at Ulm that he had made his statement about peace to Editor Baumgarten in Zurich in order to get in touch with British peace agents.

"My sign was understood by England," he said, "and I was accorded the opportunity for discussion."

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 18.—The Rhenish Westphalian Gazette reveals the "simple and practical" solution of Germany's peace terms as advanced by Mathias Erzberger, namely, that Great Britain and Germany mutually participate in the enterprises of the other, each supplying an equal amount of capital.

VOICES ARGENTINE DISLIKE.

German Paper Quotes "a Diplomat" on Anti-American Feeling.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 18.—An Argentine diplomat, writing in the National Liberal Weser Zeitung of Bremen, says that, to grasp the policy of Argentina as it affects the belligerents, it is necessary to understand that the Pan American idea, as formulated in the Monroe Doctrine, does not meet with sympathy in Argentina, nor does the interpretation put upon it by America. This, he says, was the reason for the formation of the A B C combination, which America vainly tried to dismember.

The writer explains that conditions have changed since the world war began, and, owing to the submarine war, Argentina has been unable to import gold and so has been obliged to accept America's offer of help. This, he says, has split the A B C combination. The answer to President Wilson's proposition to the A B C, he continues, shows how much each State is still dependent on the United States. He asserts that Argentina feels no great sympathy for any of the belligerents, but that there is a certain racial sympathy for France, though not for England or America.

The Zeitung professes to believe that the active help of the Argentine Army against Germany cannot be counted on, since it must not be forgotten that it was organized, armed, and instructed by Germany, that its uniforms come from Germany, and that most of its officers are naturalized Germans, so that it could hardly be used against Germany unless new officers were found and the army reorganized.

It concludes by saying that the whole policy of the United States in dealing with the A B C nations has in view the capturing of the South American market immediately after the war. It will be remembered that the Germans have been counting on this market ever since the outbreak of the war, and have been giving great attention to instructing the youth of Germany in the Spanish language.

LOAN SALES HERE MAKE NEW RECORD

WHITMAN URGES SUPPORT

Issues Proclamation Calling on State to Observe Day Appointed by President.

For the first time since the opening of the campaign, subscriptions to the Second Liberty Loan yesterday exceeded the daily average of $62,500,000 fixed by the committee in its drive to obtain $1,500,000,000 in the twenty-four business days ending Oct. 27. Yesterday's applications amounted to $85,000,000, which brought the total up to $545,000,000. In the eight remaining days maximum efforts will be made to raise $955,000,000 more in subscriptions, so that this district might have its full quota when the books finally close.

The official figures of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showed a gain of about $56,000,000 for the day, the total for tabulated subscriptions being $416,576,850.

Several large applications were announced yesterday, among them one for $25,000,000 from the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., "the House of Twelve Partners." This is the biggest single subscription filed at any one time since the opening of the campaign. It is understood that the Morgan firm will make a further application later on. Drexel & Co., the Philadelphia office of the firm, reported a $5,000,000 subscription, making a total of $30,000,000. In the first Liberty Loan campaign the two houses filed subscriptions aggregating $50,000,000. Among the other large-sized subscriptions announced yesterday were $20,000,000 additional by the Central Trust Company, $10,000,000 additional by the Bankers Trust Company, $5,000,000 additional by the New York Life Insurance Company, and $5,000,000 by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company.

The Woman's Liberty Loan Committee made it known that Guggenheim Brothers had subscribed $2,000,000 through it, and that Mrs. Charles A. Stone, a member of the committee, had obtained a $1,000,000 subscription from the American International Corporation, of which Charles A. Stone is President. The Guaranty Trust Company reported the receipt of two subscriptions from Russia, amounting to $150,000.

Whitman Issues Proclamation.

Governor Whitman issued the following proclamation yesterday:

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK:

The President, in behalf of the Liberty Loan, has issued a proclamation designating Wednesday, the twenty-fourth day of October, as

and urges the people of the nation "to assemble in their respective communities and pledge to one another and to the Government that represents them the fullest measure of financial support."

The ready response to the first Liberty Loan call clearly indicated the intensity of feeling and the desire on the part of our people to aid their Government and assist the righteous cause to which our nation is committed.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Charles S. Whitman, Governor, do call the attention of the people to the urgency of the President's appeal, confident that New York State will again nobly respond, and that the answer will be an indication of the sincere and enthusiastic support of the Government and of our soldiers and sailors who stand ready to defend with their lives the cause of civilization and humanity.

Given under my hand and the Privy Seal of the State at the Capitol in the City of Albany this sixteenth day of October, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventeen.

CHARLES S. WHITMAN.

By the Governor:
WM. A. ORR,
Secretary to the Governor.

Urges Speed by Trade Committee.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank and Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee, sent a letter yesterday to the Chairmen of the 150 trade committees, calling their attention to the need of working with redoubled energy in canvassing the industries of the city. He said that while the committees had set out to secure subscriptions amounting to $529,000,000, they had thus far made returns amounting to only $51,000,000, or less than 10 per cent.

"I wish it were possible," Governor Strong said, "for me to give you at this time an expression of appreciation and satisfaction with the work your committee and other industrial committees have done in this Liberty Loan campaign, for I know it has been arduous and at times discouraging. The amount of subscriptions returned, however, which is the criterion upon which elation or discouragement can be based, indicates the necessity of my writing to you now only to request a redoubling of your efforts. The total returns from our industrial committees to date is less than 10 per cent. of what we feel must be returned if this Liberty Loan campaign in New York City is to be declared successful. I can account for this only in the thought that the magnitude of the task, as well as the imperative duty of citizenship, is not as yet thoroughly comprehended.

"Appropriations by Congress in this war year are in the aggregate nearly 80 per cent. of the total expenses of the Government over a period of a century and a quarter, and this terrific burden can be divided only between taxes and bond issues. I am told the pinch of taxation is militating against large subscriptions through the industrial committees. American citizens must realize, however, that we are in a world war, the hurt of which must come home to every man and woman in this country in one form or another, and that so far as finances are concerned, that hurt will grow commensurately with the unwillingness of the American public to subscribe freely for an interest-bearing obligation of the United States Government as against accepting increasingly burdensome taxation.

"I therefore petition you to increase your efforts for the success of the Liberty Loan, to give this campaign more of your time and more of your energy, and to gather about you a larger corps of assistants who can and will drive home to every man and woman in your industry the critical nature of the present situation and the individual duty that is apparent."

Banks to Be Open Evenings.

At a meeting of the Liberty Loan Committee yesterday a resolution was adopted requesting New York banks in sections where such facility would be a convenience to remain open in the evenings for handling subscriptions from those who do not find it possible to visit banks during regular hours. Walter E. Frew, President of the Corn Exchange Bank, announced that all the branch offices of his bank would be open Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of next week.

Directors of the P. Lorillard Company have voted to assist their 16,000 employes to buy Liberty Loan bonds by paying 10 per cent. of the cost of each bond subscribed for by their workers

Martin Vogel, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, and the only Government official who is a member of the Liberty Loan Committee, in speaking of the Liberty Loan, yesterday said:

"There is no question that this bond is the very safest investment in which any individual can invest his money. Further than that I predict, and I base my prediction on past history, that as soon as the treaty of peace is signed these bond will be selling at a large premium. If this Liberty Bond is not safe, then nothing is safe. The house, or the farm, or the bank book, or the furniture, or whatever other personal or real property you may own would be worth nothing if the Government defaulted in the payment of these bonds; for the Government then would be forced to tax the people on every bit of property they owned, so that your property would be a burden instead of an asset, and the only obligation that would stand out untaxed would be this Liberty Bond.

"Do not fool yourselves into the idea that the rich men and the banks can take care of this loan. If they are forced to do so, then the country will be in a serious industrial condition, for the banks will not be able to lend money in the ordinary course of trade and commerce. The banks are doing their share, and it is up to the people to come forward and do theirs."

Collector William H. Edwards of the Second Internal Revenue Office announced yesterday that under a decision wired to his office from Washington, he was authorized to accept Liberty Bonds equivalent to the amount of floor tax due as security in lieu of bonds given by surety companies. The collector said that the ruling afforded an opportunity to be patriotic and at the same time save money.

Bloomingdale Brothers announced yesterday that they had received subscriptions for Liberty bonds on Wednesday amounting to $12,000.

Herbert Quick, member of the Federal Farm Loan Board, issued a statement yesterday appealing to the farmers of the country to invest their money in the Liberty Loan.

A. B. Leach, Chairman of the Metropolitan Canvass Committee, which is endeavoring to make a systematic canvass of every man, woman, and child in the city, has asked the newspapers to announce that he was anxious to get volunteers who are willing to devote their spare time from now to Oct. 27 in the interest of the Liberty Loan.

12,000 Loan Speakers.

Liberty Loan speeches are to be made every night in every moving picture theatre covered by the four-minute men from now until the end of the campaign.

Twelve thousand speakers, including men prominent in all walks of life, have been enlisted in the cause. They have been speaking twice a week in theatres as official representatives of the Government, besides addressing audiences informally on many other occasions. This twice a week schedule now becomes a daily schedule for the last ten days of the campaign

Four minutes is the limit of a speech. Into this period, the speaker must crowd an explanation of the Government bond, and an appeal to patriots. A more detailed explanation of the loan couched in simple language, so that the man not familiar with investments can understand, has been incorporated in the four-minute man's bulletin. This is sent to speakers only, but these are serving also as a bureau of information, so that any man or woman wishing to ask questions regarding the Liberty Loan can get the answers by calling on a four-minute man.

More than 1,000 speakers enrolled in the League to Enforce Peace have placed themselves at the call of the Liberty Loan Committee, the Treasury Department announced tonight, and all have been asked by William H. Short, the league's Secretary, to make at least one speech on Liberty Day.

BOSTON'S TOTAL $43,514,000.

First Reserve District Has Subscribed $115,385,000 to Loan.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Liberty Loan subscriptions reported by banks in this city in the twenty-four hours ended at 9 A. M. today amounted to $10,762,000. This brought the city's total up to $43,514,000, while the grand total in the First Federal Reserve District was $115,385,000. Totals to date for some of the cities included in the committee's tabulation were:

Hartford, $6,631,000; New Bedford, $2,994,000; Worcester, $2,632,000; Springfield, $2,633,000; New Haven, $2,383,000; Waterbury, $1,650,000; Fall River, $1,438,000; Holyoke, $1,415,000; Lowell, $1,387,000; Manchester, N. H., $569,000; St. Albans, Vt., $512,000; Bangor, Me., $472,000; Burlington, Vt., $357,000.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in a statement made at the New England Loan Committee's headquarters, said: "We must all take as much of the present and all other issues of the Liberty Loan bonds as we can. The very credit of the United States is at stake on the success of the bond issues. People must remember this. It is imperative that every bond be taken; they must be taken; they will be taken."

Detroit Nears Her Quota.

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—Figures at Liberty Loan headquarters indicate that Detroit is leading the large cities of the United States, having already obtained more than $33,000,000 in subscriptions to the quota of $43,000,000. It is expected that Detroit will oversubscribe the quota next week and drive toward a $60,000,000 total.

Minneapolis District $40,000,000.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 18.—Subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan in the Ninth Federal Reserve District totaled $40,000,000 late today. The quota is $105,000,000.

CAPTURED U-BOAT TO AID WAR LOAN

German Submarine Arrives and Will Be Set Up in Central Park.

BRITISH TANK ALSO HERE

The U-C-5, a German mine-laying submarine which was captured by the British in 1916, and a British tank which has been through heavy action in France, have arrived in this country and will be used for exhibition purposes in aid of the bond issue.

The undersea boat, a small, new type of ocean pest, with no torpedo tubes and equipped for mine laying exclusively, is now partly in the hold of a big ship and partly on a barge, which will transport the German terror in three parts to the landing at 132d Street and North River, after which it will be placed on exhibition in Central Park, as a Liberty Loan advertisement. The tank will be used by the Red Cross in its campaign for funds.

After the three parts of the submarine have been lifted ashore by cranes, they will be shown in a great procession headed by a brass band on Saturday morning. Each section of the craft will be transported on a huge, specially contructed truck, drawn by forty-eight horses. The first truck will bear the bow of the boat, weighing thirty tons. The next will carry the mid-section, which weighs forty-five tons, and the third will carry the stern, a weight of thirty-seven tons.

Because of the great weight of the three loads, the route had to be tested to make sure of the strength of the pavements over which the load was to pass. Several city ordinances regarding traffic have been nullified temporarily to make it possible to reassemble the submarine on dry land in Central Park. The trucks will move south to Manhattan Street, across Manhattan Street to 125th Street, along 125th Street to Seventh Avenue, and on Seventh Avenue to 110th Street. Then the forty-eight horses will drag their loads, the greatest which have ever been dragged along New York streets, to the Sixty-sixth Street entrance to Central Park and from there to the site in the meadow, where the three parts are to be put together. Here Mrs. Guy Emerson, wife of the Director of Publicity of the Liberty Loan Committee, will re-christen it on Saturday, changing its name to the "U-Boat Bond."

A crew of Liberty Loan salesmen will be put on board, and the Kaiser's former sea terror will be transformed into one of the great factors in the Liberty Loan drive. After it has been docked in the sheep pasture, the U-boat will be opened to the public. Admission will be free to those displaying Liberty Loan buttons or otherwise proving that they are Liberty-bond holders. The Park Department has constructed a wooden stand, from which the submarine may be viewed.

The U-boat was sent to this country with the compliments of the British Admiralty. A great many difficulties had to be overcome, before the prize was released, to be used for this purpose. Lord Northcliffe had a great deal to do with overcoming the difficulties.

The submarine was captured by a British destroyer in the middle of July. The business of the U-C-5 was to find the sea lanes which British merchant ships were using and to sow them with mines. The regular German mine-layers were driven from the seas during the first week of the war. The ideal use of the mines was that of dropping them after the U-boat had been sighted and chased by a British warship, thus mining the course which the pursuer had to take. The twelve mines were carried in six tubes. After a mine was dropped, it went straight to the bottom of the ocean, but the impact of striking the bottom, separated the mine from an anchor to which it was attached. The anchor remained on the bottom, while the mine rose to within a few feet of the surface, the U-boat having in the meantime passed on out of danger from its own torpedo.

The U-C-5 is 110 feet in length, with a beam of eleven feet. Its displacement is 200 tons. As it was not intended for pursuing prizes, the least possible space was given to engines, and its normal speed above water was six miles an hour.

The tank, now waiting to be unloaded, which arrived with the original Flanders mud on it, will be exhibited in Central Park beside the U-boat. It is the first of the land battleships to be seen in this country.

PHILIPP DEFENDS GERMAN-AMERICANS

Governor Says They Are Buying Liberty Bonds, and Predicts Wisconsin Will Oversubscribe.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 18.—Governor Emanuel L. Philipp issued a statement tonight in answer to the report that pro-German influences were affecting the sale of Liberty Loan bonds in this State. The statement says in part:

"I resent the continued slanders which have been heaped on this State, many of them by well-intentioned persons who do not know the facts. In spite of any misrepresentation in Washington, which we must bear as a part of our burden during this war, we want it known that the nation need not fear the influence of pro-Germans in Wisconsin. We have a large German population, which, as a class, will rank with any other nationality for patriotism, not only in this State but in other States.

"In Oshkosh, a city with a large German population, the bulk of which is classed as German workingmen the Second Liberty Loan already has been oversubscribed. In Superior, the second city in the State, which has a population greatly augmented by persons of foreign birth, both Germans and Scandinavians, the quota has been oversubscribed. In Milwaukee, known as a German city, more than $12,000,000 was subscribed in the early days of the Liberty Loan campaign.

"I will be authority for the statement that Wisconsin will oversubscribe its quota of the Second Liberty Loan."

HEAVY LOAN DRIVE IN CHICAGO

Committee Confident That City Will Exceed Its Quota.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Subscriptions to the Liberty Loan bonds today increased to such a degree that those in charge of the campaign said they believed the Chicago quota would be more than filled by the time of the close of the "drive." A marked increase in the number of the small investors, buyers of the $50 and $100 bonds, was noticeable. As the result of the "flying squadron's" labors their total sales were brought up to $21,000,000.

Among the larger single subscriptions were one by the National City Bank of $1,000,000, and another of $1,096,400 by the Board of Trade, representing subscriptions among the members.

DES MOINES TAKES $5,580,350.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 18, 1917.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Des Moines's subscription for the Liberty Loan on the first day of the campaign was $5,580,350, or 72 per cent. of the entire quota.

LAFAYETTE YOUNG, JR.

Cleveland's Total Grows Rapidly.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—Under the renewed impetus given the campaign by several addresses of Secretary Baker in support of the Liberty Loan Cleveland's subscriptions were increased by $6,000,000 during the twenty-four hours ended at noon today, bringing the total to $29,313,200, nearly half the minimum quota of $60,000,000. The Fourth Federal Reserve District now has subscribed $105,000,000, more than one-third of the minimum quota.

Syracuse Passes $10,000,000 Mark.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Subscriptions for the second Liberty Loan in Syracuse passed the $10,000,000 mark, two-thirds of the city's estimated quota, today, when the First National and the Trust and Deposit Company of Onondaga announced that they would each take $3,000,000 of the bonds. At the same time Directors of the City Bank, as individuals subscribed $600,000. Sales of bonds at industrial plants are exceedding records in the first Liberty Loan campaign.

Hartford's Quota Already Passed.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 18.—This city's total in Liberty Loan subscriptions is $12,000,000, which surpasses the city's quota. The final total will be nearly $20,000,000.

Maryland's Total Above $30,000,000

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18.—A total of $30,700,000 had been subscribed in Maryland to the Liberty Loan up to late this afternoon. The minimum for Maryland is $30,000,000.

statement issued by the Treasury tonight:

"Official reports on subscriptions totaled $827,174,650 up to the close of business yesterday, or about $127,000,000 more than was reported at the close of the previous day. Estimates based on the customary daily increases of the official figures and unofficial reports from various parts of the country led to the belief tonight that between $1,500,000,000 and $1,750,000,000 had been subscribed.

"The official figures follow: Boston, $95,800,000; New York, $389,390,000; Philadelphia, $28,345,000; Cleveland, $95,300,000; Richmond, $34,470,000; Atlanta, $8,669,050; Chicago, $91,279,000; St. Louis, $7,354,350; Minneapolis, $25,500,000; Kansas City, $7,197,000; Dallas, $6,830,000; San Francisco, $39,040,150.

"New York went over the $500,000,000 mark, an unofficial estimate from there tonight being $560,000,000.

"Chicago reported a whirlwind campaign and that district's total is thought to be above $300,000,000. Detroit sent a telegram saying that $33,500,000, or 76 per cent. of its quota, was subscribed and that by Saturday night it surely would have an oversubscription. With another week to work, it was declared, the city's total will be very large.

"The Minneapolis district continued to move on toward a $50,000,000 total. St. Paul telegraphed that it would raise $15,000,000 by Saturday night.

"The Cleveland district doubtless has come above the $100,000,000 mark. The city itself has subscribed more than $30,000,000. Pittsburgh has subscribed a slightly larger amount, and Columbus some $3,800,000.

"Increased subscriptions by New England States have come in fast this week and no doubt the Boston district, too, has upward of $125,000,000. Meagre reports from other States indicate that the $2,000,000,000 mark is being rapidly approached and probably will be reached by Saturday night."

A regiment which subscribed for almost $250,000 in Liberty bonds in half a day, in which every officer, noncommissioned officer, and 80 per cent. of the privates are bondholders, is the record of the 343d Infantry of the national army, now stationed at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill.

The purchase of more than $30,000,000 worth of second Liberty Loan bonds by the commissioned and enlisted personnel of the army is one of the remarkable incidents of the campaign, and the 343d Infanty is the banner organization of the army in this respect. Colonel Charles R. Howland, its commander, now in Washington on official business, thus tells the story of his whirlwind campaign:

"There are a great many men of foreign birth in my command, Russians, Hungarians, Slavs, Lithuanians and others, some of whom cannot speak intelligible English. They are largely from the steel mills and stockyards of Chicago, which makes the regiment's record all the more striking.

"We opened the campaign on a rainy day. I cut morning drill short, called the officers together and mapped out a plan of action. By noon the officers had bought bonds worth more than $25,000 and before drill at 1:30 P. M. the company officers called their noncommissioned officers together, and before they had finished every sergeant and corporal and most of the privates were bondholders."

PRINTING DELAYS WAR BOND ISSUE

No Cause for Worry Because Securities Have Not Been Delivered.

TASK TAXES FACILITIES

Government Printing Plant Was Overwhelmed—Every Precaution Taken to Safeguard the Issue.

There is no reason for alarm among large or small investors in the first Liberty Loan because the actual coupon bonds have not been delivered to them. The sole cause for the delay lies in the gigantic physical task of producing the bonds in the Government plant in Washington. Both the Federal Reserve Bank in New York and the Liberty Loan Committee offer every assurance to investors that there is no mystery in the delay, that neither financial loss nor inconvenience need be involved in it, and that it should not result in the slightest hesitancy in purchasing the bonds of the new loan—particularly as the latter are being sold over the counter like so much merchandise.

That there has been misapprehension because of the slowness in distributing the bonds is recognized generally among those agencies pushing the present loan. For that reason they are eager that the public, particularly the small buyer not familiar with financial matters, should understand what a tremendous task has been involved in the production and the distribution of the bonds, and should realize that failure to receive them to date on the part of any investor neither involves loss of the first interest due Dec. 15, nor affects in any way the readiness with which his investment may be converted into the new issue of 4 per cent. bonds at the proper time.

It was pointed out that some 9,000,000 bonds had to be printed and since they are four-sheet issues, that means that 36,000,000 pieces of paper must be engraved. The work is among the finest of the printer's art, requiring well trained technical experts and needing, of course, to be safeguarded at every step. Huge as is the Government printing plant, it was not prepared for so staggering a task when the bond issue was decided upon. Feverish organization and extension of resources, however, was undertaken and today there are 6,000 persons at work day and night producing bonds.

Both the plates and the paper used in printing the Liberty Bonds are so sacred and so intricately safeguarded that the Government could not consider intrusting outside concerns with any part of the task, even had they been able to assume it. Many other lines of war endeavor which require printed matter have met with the same vexatious but unavoidable delays in getting material, and most of them have suffered more than the Liberty Loan because its work has had preference.

While the Government plant was working at high pressure to produce the bonds of the first issue, it was decided that the second loan could be floated more readily if the bonds for it could be ready to hand over the counter. For that reason the work was interrupted while single sheet temporary bonds of the new loan with only four interest coupons attached were struck off and rushed to the Federal Reserve Districts. These bonds eventually will have to be exchanged for the "pamphlet bonds" with interest coupons for 25 years attached.

Bankers here believe that much of the unrest and dissatisfaction among small investors is due to their failure to comprehend that the interim certificates which were issued to them are for all practical purposes as good as the bonds themselves. These can be sold, hypothecated and, in general, used just as can the bonds they represent. Likewise they can be used directly next month for convertion into the 4s of the present issue so that to exchange them for the 3½ per cent. bonds of the first loan and then to exchange the latter for the new 4s entails double work on both the subscriber and the Government.

The bond issue department of the local Federal Reserve Bank is anxious for the public to understand that it is amply able to handle the distribution of both bonds and interim certificates and that, had they arrived on time from Washington, they long ago would have been in the hands of all subscribers. The department has a force of more than 200 engaged in the work and could deliver $40,000,000 worth a day if it could get them. In other words it could already have delivered $500,000,000 worth if it possessed them. The total distribution through the Reserve Bank in this district was $593,987,000 in addition to which $23,844,650 was furnished by special allotment, a total of $617,831,650. Thus nearly 31 per cent. of the entire issue was taken through the Federal Reserve Bank of this district.

The total subscriptions in the district aggregated $1,186,788,400, received from 978,959 subscribers through 1,040 banks. Thus far the Federal Reserve Bank has delivered about $180,000,000 worth of bonds in this district and is prepared, if it can get them, to deliver the remainder within 14½ days. In any event it is assured that before the first interest day—Dec. 15—deliveries will have been completed.

Exact figures on the delivery of certificates to date were not available at the bank yesterday, though it was promised they would be compiled by today.

CAMP UPTON'S TOTAL $890,000.

Soldiers Will Appear in Movies to Boom Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Oct. 18.—With the Liberty Loan campaign in full swing in the New York division, a total of $890,000 has been subscribed to date by the soldiers. The Liberty Loan Committee is especially pleased with the number of individual subscriptions. Practically every man who is able to do so has bought a bond. In the ammunition train of the 302d Engineers, which numbers eighty enlisted men, sixty-three have subscribed for bonds.

In connection with the Liberty Loan campaign the first review of men in the Seventh Division was held today, when subscribers from the 304th Field Artillery regiment and the 152d depot brigade, headed by the 304th Artillery band, marched past a battery of motion picture cameras.

General Bell's declaration that a singing army is a fighting army was put into practice last night, when Harry Barnhart, formerly leader of the New York Community Chorus, and at present the Camp Upton representative of the Committee on Supervision of Music in the Army and Navy, conducted the first community "sing" here. A large camp fire was lighted on the sides of Hill 77, around which 2,000 soldiers grouped and under the direction of Mr. Barnhardt sang many of the old, familiar tunes.

To avoid misunderstanding and useless correspondence, Major General J. Franklin Bell has announced his policy in regard to religious holidays. Permission will be granted to men to leave the camp on national holidays. Since Christmas is not a religious holiday with Jews and because it has been represented to him that the Day of Atonement, Sept. 29, was the most important religious holiday of the Jewish faith, General Bell granted a holiday from noon on Sept. 25 until reveille on Sept. 27. It is not his intention to grant any further religious holidays. "General Bell's refusal to grant a religious holiday to Jews," reads a memorandum issued from the Chief of Staff's office, "on Sept. 16, 17, and 18, notwithstanding the War Department had given him authority to do so, was solely for the purpose of avoiding the establishment of a precedent which would require the granting of the very numerous requests for religious holidays which he anticipated."

SENTENCED TO BUY BONDS.

Liquor Selling Clubs Must Subscribe to the Liberty Loan.

FREEPORT, Ill., Oct. 18.—Judge A. L. Sanborn of the Federal Court imposed novel sentences on the Germania Club and Owls Nest of Rockford today when the organizations pleaded guilty to selling liquor without paying a Federal tax.

In addition to fining the Owls Nest $100, Judge Sanborn ordered it to purchase $200 in Liberty bonds. The Germania Club must buy $500 worth of Liberty bonds and pay a $100 fine.

May Use Estate Funds for Bonds.

The first application for permission to invest funds of an estate in Liberty Loan bonds was granted yesterday by Surrogate Fowler. The petition of the Union Trust Company asking approval of an investment of $83,950 from the estate of Mrs. Magdalena Herrmann, who died in 1913 leaving more than $200,000, said: "This loan, for the purpose of prosecuting the war against Germany and by reason of the safety and security of the investment and its income yield and insurable features, would be an investment greatly to the advantage of the estate."

LONDON STRENGTHENS AIR RAID DEFENSES

Increases All Safeguards Against Possible German Attacks During the 'Hunter's Moon.'

LONDON, Oct. 18.—With the approach of the "hunter's moon," which is expected to be at its brightest next Tuesday, London is preparing so as not to be caught napping by German air raiders. While the damage in the recent raids turned out to be comparatively negligible, the fact that the Germans apparently had no definite objective and dropped bombs promiscously anywhere they could has resulted in all possible precautions being taken, such as the placarding of every available shelter, improving the system of police warnings, and increasing the defenses in such a manner that the Germans may do the least damage and also get an unhealthy reception if they should by chance break through the anti-aircraft barrier.

King George and Queen Mary, accompanied by Princess Mary and Prince Albert, today toured the East End and inspected the air raid shelters provided in that section, where thousands of poor families live. The royal party went through many buildings, including warehouses and factories, and also several tunnels.

SAYS HYLAN SUITS WILL BE PRESSED

Moss Declares He Believes in Tammany Candidate's "Absolute Integrity."

DENIAL BY HUGHES'S FIRM

Takes Issue with Judge Hylan—Says It Acted for Defendant in Dunn Suit.

Frank Moss, counsel for Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, in the libel actions begun by him against The World and The Globe as a result of articles bearing on Judge Hylan's relations with the Black Diamond Automobile Company, announced last night that those suits would be pressed to trial as rapidly as possible.

"The time was selected for throwing these libels at Judge Hylan so near Election Day as to make it very difficult for him to enforce legal remedies within that short time," said Mr. Moss. "The story has been broken into parts and strung along on various days, so that the physical labor of dissecting it and preparing proper papers in his behalf is very great.

"I am gratified to find that the press generally has not followed the lead of The World in the circulation of the libels—and even when enrolled against Judge Hylan in the Mayoralty campaign is not taking part in stabbing him in the back.

"When Judge Hylan asked me to accept his retainer in these suits, I was glad to do so, for in the years I have known him, I have heard nothing but good of him. He is well known in Brooklyn, and was elected to his important judicial position by a large majority of the entire electorate in Kings County. He has been one of the active men in civic movements in Brooklyn for the bettering of conditions of life and business and has denounced the grabs in the field of high finance and city railroading which now have so many eminent defenders.

"It is very clear to me that his alleged connection with Goslin, the swindler, is false, and that the repetitions of the libels by these papers and their candidate after Judge Hylan's denials have been published with convincing evidence, shows the spirit which juries recognize when they give verdicts for libel and slander. The repetition of these libels and slanders by newspapers opposing candidates and speakers will be dangerous.

"I believe in Judge Hylan's absolute integrity and that these attacks will react in his favor. This I say freely, although I intend to vote for that other candidate, William M. Bennett, who was hit below the belt in the primaries of my party by the very same forces that are now trying to ruin Judge Hylan's name in order to elect the candidate whom they now need. Cheerfully I shall render my services to Judge Hylan in the defense of his name and honor and will press his case as rapidly as I may be able to proceed."

In a statement made on Wednesday night by Judge Hylan in denial of the charge that he had represented Alfred R. Goslin, the noted swindler, and his aid, Charles M. Dunn, in strike suits, Judge Hylan declared that his name had been used by Goslin and his Lieutenants as that of their attorney of record without his personal knowledge. In connection with this it was said by Judge Hylan that Dunn had taken advantage of the law firm of ex-Governor Charles E. Hughes—Hughes, Rounds & Schurman—in the same manner in one of these suits. This was denied yesterday in a statement issued by A. L. Richards of that firm—now Hughes, Rounds, Schurman & Dwight. Here is the statement:

"In April, 1905, an action to recover $250 was commenced in the Municipal Court of the City of New York, Borough of Brooklyn, Third District, in which the plaintiff was Charles M. Dunn and the defendant was Fernando Benner. The defendant in this action was represented by our firm. This action, according to our records, was discontinued in October, 1905, and in the same month a second action for $250 was commenced by Charles M. Dunn against Fernando Benner in the same court. In this action, also, we represented Mr. Benner. We have never at any time represented Charles M. Dunn."

Fernando W. Benner is agent of the office building at 6 Church Street.

"I cannot understand," he said last night, "how Judge Hylan could make such a statement. He must have known that Hughes, Rounds & Schurman represented me, and not Charles M. Dunn. His statement is ridiculous."

Mr. Benner said that he had been agent of the office building at 132 Nassau Street when Goslin and Dunn made the office of Lippman & Ruck in that building their headquarters.

"I took no pains to conceal that I did not like the kind of business Goslin and Dunn did, and perhaps that was the reason they acquired from somewhere—I cannot remember the details now—a promissory note I had given. It was on the amount of this note that Dunn brought suit."

Mr. Benner was asked if, when the case was up in court, Judge Hylan had appeared on the other side.

"I do not think that I was ever called upon to make a personal appearance in court, and so I cannot say about Judge Hylan," Mr. Benner replied.

At the office of Hughes, Rounds, Schurman & Dwight Mr. Richards said that all he cared to say regarding the case was contained in his statement.

SLAVS STAND BY MITCHEL.

Mayor Tells Them Fight Here Is Part of the Great World War.

Mayor Mitchel addressed a delegation representing the Slavonic race headed by Professor Michael I. Pupin of Columbia University at his headquarters in the Manhattan Hotel last evening.

"I am very grateful to you for your support," the Mayor said. "I understand what a difficult and bitter contest this is, and I am keenly alive to the fact that all the candidates on the Fusion ticket and particularly myself need the support of all those who are deeply convinced that we need the election of those who are loyal to our Government in this crisis and those who are convinced that we must maintain a decent government in this city. Your sympathies are first with the United States, the land of your adoption, and next with the countries and with the peoples from which you are sprung, whose liberty you hope to see established with the same ideals of democracy as ours guaranteeing the liberty of nations to live peaceably with their neighbors. You hope, therefore, that anything which is calculated to break down the efficiency of the United States Government, even if it may be the weakening of a great municipal government like New York City must be fought bitterly. Therefore, I am very grateful to you, and it is indeed encouraging to receive the assurance of your active help."

Speaking yesterday afternoon before the Commerce Club in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, Mayor Mitchel commented on the fact that his Tammany rival, Judge Hylan, had been invited to address the club, but had not come. Mayor Mitchel said Judge Hylan did not even write his own speeches.

"I know why he didn't appear," said the Mayor in his speech. "He never does appear when he's got to look men in the face and answer questions. Judge Hylan does not answer questions because he cannot answer questions. He does not make speeches because he cannot make speeches. He does not know municipal business. That is why his speeches are written for him by somebody else and why he phonographically reproduces them from the platform.

"When somebody asks him questions he stutters and stumbles and drops his glasses and turns to proceed with the reading of his speech. I refer to this because I am here to answer your questions and because I believe that no man is fit to offer himself as a candidate for Mayor, much less occupy that office, unless he is prepared to discuss the conduct of that office."

QUEENS GREETS MAYOR AT 3 BIG MEETINGS

Attacks on Hylan, Hearst, and Murphy Cheered—Says Opponent Dare Not Answer.

Mayor Mitchel carried his fight for reelection into the Borough of Queens last night, speaking at three large meetings in Long Island City, Flushing, and Jamaica. In all he attacked his Tammany opponent, Judge Hylan, for not repudiating Hearst and Cohalan.

In St. Michael's Hall, Flushing, an attempt at heckling was made. The Mayor, upon being introduced, said that he was glad to be in Queens.

"What did you ever do for Queens?," shouted a man in the back of the hall.

Mayor Mitchel straightened up, and shaking his finger at the man who had asked the question, said:

"If that is a specific question, I will answer it. My name is not Hylan."

"Once in a long while even Hearst can tell the truth," he said. "In a campaign some years ago he pictured Murphy in stripes and called him and his district leaders a band of looters. He told the truth then. Today he and Murphy have united behind Mr. Hylan.

"I do not claim that all those opposed to me are chargeable with disloyalty. I believe the great body of Tammany Tall, and others who will be deluded into voting for Judge Hylan, despite what he represents in this campaign, are loyal to the flag and to the country. I have never claimed a monopoly of loyalty and patriotism, nor can anything that I have ever said be twisted into an inference that I have charged with disloyalty the great mass of loyal American citizens of German birth or parentage."

Mayor Mitchel spoke along the same lines to an audience of 800 in Hettinger's Hall, Long Island City. This meeting was held under the auspices of the Fusion Committee of the Bar of Queens County of which Eugene V. Daly is Chairman. Eugene L. Young presided. This was the Mayor's first speech of the evening. The audience was sympathetic and cheered him for almost a minute when he appeared on the platform and again when he concluded.

The last speech of the evening was at Episcopal Hall in Jamaica before an audience of 500. Controller Prendergast and Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson, Mayor Mitchel's running mates on the Fusion ticket, spoke at the meetings in Queens.

LEAVES HYLAN FOR MITCHEL

French-Canadian Club Swings Over for Patriotic Reasons.

The French-Canadian Democratic Association, 423 West Forty-seventh Street, notified the City Democracy last night that, although it had passed resolutions indorsing Judge Hylan, the members had retracted the resolutions and decided to support Mayor Mitchel. At a meeting Wednesday night a resolution was adopted stating:

"We have now become convinced that disloyal elements supporting the candidacy of John F. Hylan are opposed both to the welfare of the Democratic Party and the safety and security of our city."

The Fusion Committee filed on Wednesday night, the last night for filing petitions, independent petitions for Mayor Mitchel, Controller Prendergast, and Robert Adamson, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, each containing 15,000 signatures. For Ransom, Lyons, Hopper, Morgan, and Marks, the candidates for county offices, the petitions contained 8,000 signatures each, while petitions for judicial candidates contained 15,000 signatures each. Emory R. Buckner, Chairman of the Mitchel Campaign Committee, said that all the reports he had received indicated that the Socialist vote this Fall would be extremely heavy and that it would draw mostly from the Tammany ticket.

"The Socialist sentiment is rising fast, and, with Hylan now out of the race," he said, "it is either Mitchel or Hillquit. Republicans now realize that Bennett stands no chance of election, and they are swinging back to Mitchel. Hylan, the deaf-mute candidate, not only refuses to answer Mayor Mitchel's questions but also refuses to answer questions from any one in his audience. He has been advised by his campaign managers that a deaf-mute campaign is all that can prevent his complete undoing."

Mayor Mitchel received a letter yesterday from Professor John C. Hibben, President of Princeton University, offering to come to New York and speak in the Mayor's behalf.

SAYS MITCHEL MEN SPEND 'VAST SUMS'

ASKS ABOUT CONTRIBUTIONS

William M. Bennett, Republican candidate for Mayor, charged at four meetings in Brooklyn last night that backers of Mayor Mitchel had used large sums of money to buy the support of leaders of the Republican organization.

"Not content with trying to steal the Republican nomination for Mr. Mitchel," he said, "his backers are now trying to buy with their vast sums of money the support of the Republican organizations in all the boroughs. I receive reports daily that money in large quantities is being offered to the Republican election district Captains all over the city. The next administration will have the spending of $1,250,000,000. Is this the reason why the attempt was made to steal the nomination for Mr. Mitchel? Is this why, since the primaries, money has been spent in such vast quantities in a frantic attempt to buy up the election?

"The Mitchel forces will spend between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000, or enough to elect a President. Now, while I am on this subject, I would like to ask Mr. Mitchel again how he justifies the contribution of $5,000 made by ex-Senator William H. Reynolds in 1913 to his campaign fund, which appeared in the report of the Mitchel Campaign Committee filed with the Secretary of State at Albany. I would also like to ask Mr. Mitchel how much more Mr. Reynolds and how much Mr. Bailey, Mr. Greve, and other real estate speculators contributed to his campaign fund in that year. How much have they contributed this year, and how much are Mr. Dodge, Mr. Childs, and Mr. Perkins contributing?

After the brazen attempt to steal the Republican nomination for Mr. Mitchel at the Republican primaries, the people are entitled to know the source of the money that is now being offered to the Republican election district Captains in an attempt to buy their allegiance away from the regularly nominated Republican candidate for Mayor."

Mr. Bennett spoke at Arion Hall, Arion Place near Broadway; the Central Brunch of the Y. M. C. A., Ashland Place and Hanson Place; White Eagle Hall, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-third Street, and Borough Park Republican Club, Forty-third Street, and Twelfth Avenue. He was well received by good-sized audiences at all these meetings.

EAST SIDE SOCIALISTS PARADE WITH HILLQUIT

For more than three hours and for many miles all over the east side last night 15,000 men and women surged through the streets, accompanying an automobile in which rode Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor. It was Hillquit Night, and for the meetings at which the candidate and others on his ticket spoke much preparation had been made; but the street demonstrations were impromptu.

Although no policemen accompanied the procession, there were but two cases of disorder—a fist fight and a small shower of stones which broke two windows in an Eighth Street trolley car in East Tenth Street, when the motorman tried to plough his way through a crowd that solidly blocked the street.

Heartened by a statement from Charles F. Murphy yesterday afternoon that the Mayoralty race had narrowed down to Hylan and Hillquit, the party adherents turned their long march into a triumphal procession. Mr. Hillquit was obliged often to stand in the car and wave his hat to his followers, and each time they broke into yells of delight.

The candidate spoke first in Forward Hall, 175 East Broadway, where police reserves fought back the crowd while Mr. Hillquit told the audience inside that the Socialist ticket would win if all worked hard for it until election day. He took for his text the lot of the wage earner and declared the administration's plan of buying and selling potatoes was a tardy adoption of the Socialist belief that the municipality should buy foodstuffs on a huge scale and distribute them to the people at cost. He insisted that the Socialist scheme had been ridiculed as visionary and impracticable and then, at last, adopted by the City Government.

When Mr. Hillquit emerged he found 7,000 persons in the street to give him a noisy welcome. No preparations had been made for a parade of more than the little string of campaigning automobiles, but the crowd rushed ahead and closed in behind, accompanying him up East Broadway, through Grand and Pitt Streets, then along Avenue C to the side entrance to Public School 64, at Tenth Street and Avenue B. By the time Mr. Hillquit had concluded his plea for the local Socialist candidates the crowd had grown so great that police reserves had to threaten with their night sticks to force a way for stalled trolley cars.

Growing noisier, the demonstrators hurried downtown with the candidate. Next Mr. Hillquit appeared on the stage of the People's Theatre at the Bowery and Spring Street, where he assured the audience that particularly on the east side of Manhattan, in the Bronx and in certain parts of Brooklyn there was a Socialist stampede.

The candidate wound up his night of campaigning at a reception at Little Hungary in East Houston Street, where he said the same bosses who oppressed the workers were supporting the Tammany candidacy of Judge Hylan.

ELECTION BOARD ARRESTED.

Action Taken After Alleged Fraud in Jersey City.

Joseph M. McCarthy, Assistant Prosecutor of the Pleas, who has been investigating alleged frauds in the recent special election in Jersey City to fill a vacancy in the Board of City Commissioners, last night caused the arrest of an entire Election Board of four members in the Second District of the Second Ward. According to the returns, that ward gave to James F. Gannon, whose election has been declared, 1,550 votes, while it cast for the other candidate, John Warren, but 72 ballots.

The arrested board members are William S. Mulcahy, Patrick J. Connolly, Edward Sheary and Jeremiah Casey. The first two named are Democrats and the others Republicans. John Warren, independent candidate for City Commissioner, who was defeated on the face of the returns, stood guard last night and the night before with several friends, over the vault in the City Clerk's office in Jersey City, because physical evidence had been discovered of a plot to enter the vault where the ballots were stored.

Opposes Racial Political Groups.

In refusing yesterday to approve the incorporation of the Armenian Democratic Club, Inc., Supreme Court Justice Whitaker said: "This court will not approve the formation of a political organization which has for its purpose or in any way tends to the segregation of citizens or foreign birth or descent into distinct and separate political groups. Such organizations tend to retard the complete and effective Americanization of the entire body of our citizens."

HILLQUIT OR HYLAN IS MURPHY'S GUESS

Tammany Boss Gets Reports of Great Increase in Socialist Candidate's Strength.

NOT ON EAST SIDE ALONE

Democratic Fusion Mayoralty Campaign Committee Increased to 1,000 Members.

Aroused by the inroads on Tammany's strength which the Socialists are making on the lower east side, Tammany leader, Charles F. Murphy, as a means, it was thought, of stampeding voters of an anti-Socialist trend of mind in the Mitchel and Bennett camps into supporting John F. Hylan, came out with the flatfooted assertion yesterday that the Mayoralty race from now on is between Judge Hylan and Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor.

Mr. Murphy took as text for his statement a straw vote taken in his own district, the new Fourteenth, and the district of Samuel S. Koenig, leader of the Republican forces in Manhattan—the Sixth. In Mr. Koenig's district the poll showed Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, to have received within thirteen votes of a majority of all the votes polled. In Murphy's own district he got approximately 30 per cent. of all the votes. Mr. Murphy was asked yesterday if he did not find this drift toward socialism surprising.

"No," he said, "it does not surprise me. I have seen it coming. The race today is between Hylan and Hillquit. In my opinion the Socialists will take more votes from Mitchel than they will from Hylan. The drift has been on for some time. In the general election last year the Socialists polled thirty votes in my district. In the special election a few months later when Tom Smith was elected to Congress they polled 39, of a total of 380 votes cast, for their candidate for Congress."

Mr. Murphy was asked to what he ascribed the growth of Socialist sentiment.

"I don't know to what to ascribe it," he said. "All I know is that the vote is there. And it isn't on the east side alone; it's all over town."

The Tammany boss was in such a jovial mood that the reporters asked him if he had seen the questions fired at him by Mitchel.

"No," he replied with simulated seriousness, "I am resting."

A moment later Mr. Murphy smiled broadly when told that Emory R. Buckner, Mayor Mitchel's campaign manager, had said the Hylan libel suit would come to trial on Nov. 6.

"Yes," said Murphy, "I should not wonder, and Hylan will get the verdict, too."

"Will it be as much as 200,000 votes?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"I wouldn't be surprised if it was one vote for every dollar Mr. Hylan sued for."

The aggregate of libel suits brought by the Tammany candidate against newspapers which have printed disclosures regarding his connection with the Black Diamond Automobile Company is $300,000.

Last night the campaign managers of Morris Hillquit made public a statement which echoed the claim made by Murphy that the Mayoralty race was between their candidate and Mr. Hylan.

"The Mayoralty choice is between Hillquit and Hylan," the statement read in part. "We have been fully aware of this for two weeks. The Tammany leaders were made aware of it when they received inside reports from their district leaders ten days ago, which confirmed in every way our own information.

"Neither Mitchel nor Bennett can possibly win. Powerful elements in the electorate which supported Mr. Mitchel four years ago are now working vigorously against him. In addition he has no organization in Brooklyn, where nearly two-fifths of the total vote in the city will be cast this year. Mr. Bennett with an organization behind him in only one borough and with no issue save the fact that he was counted out fraudulently in the primaries, is likewise out of the race. It is becoming more and more apparent as the days go by that the question the voters will be called upon to answer at the polls is whether they want a man for Mayor who, like Mr. Hillquit, meets all issues frankly, or one like Mr. Hylan, who is intensively silent on all the issues."

It was announced at the headquarters of the Democratic Fusion Committee last night that owing to increased activities in the Mayoralty campaign it had been determined to increase the Hylan Campaign Committee to 1,000. Former Assistant Corporation Counsel William P. Burr is Charman of the committee. Among the added members are: Former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, Edgar M. Cullen; George Gordon Battle, Augustine J. Rower, William Wirt Mills, Bird S. Coler, George J. Ryan, Andrew S. Hammersley, John C. Heintz, John Godfrey Saxe, C. Augustus Haviland, Senator Salvatore A. Cotillo, and Herman A. Metz.

MAYOR REVEALS PAST OF WHITNEY

attorney for the company, he failed to put in any answer to his own suit, and secured judgment by default.

7. That in a similar manner Turner secured judgment against the company in Turner's suit.

Judgments Assigned to Goslin.

8. That at a subsequent time both these judgments were assigned to Alfred R. Goslin, a notorious swindler and confidence man, who was called in to "reorganize" the Black Diamond Company.

9. That Goslin was mixed up in a number of shady transactions with Charles E. Turner.

10. That at the time Judge Hylan was running for Justice of the Municipal Court he received and cashed four checks made out by Goslin and by Goslin's stenographer for a total of $950.

11. That Judge Hylan wrote a letter in his own handwriting to Goslin, inclosing a "note" and thanking him for his interest in Hylan's behalf.

12. That Goslin, through various agents, notably his stenographer, Anna Irene Magher, Charles M. Dunn, and Edgar A. Whitney, instituted a number of shady suits against corporations and individuals.

13. That in all these suits the records show the name of John F. Hylan as attorney of record.

14. That in a number of these cases the papers are missing.

15. That in one case where the papers are missing, the court record bears the notation "Taken by Hylan, 1,030 Gates Avenue," and some one has drawn a line through these words.

16. That Judge Hylan denies that he was actually attorney although attorney of record, and contends that some one used his name without authority.

17. That on March 18, 1906, The New York World printed a story involving one of these suits, and stated at that time that John F. Hylan was the attorney of record.

18. That at no time since 1906 until this morning did Judge Hylan make any denial to the fact then publicly printed.

These are the principal facts which have been presented to me and to the public up to this morning.

Judge Hylan's Defense.

Against this array of facts is:

1. Judge Hylan's declaration that his suit against the Black Diamond Company "was a perfectly proper business transaction."

2. His declaration that he never saw Goslin.

3. His declaration that he never acted as attorney for Goslin or the known agent of Goslin.

4. The affidavit of Charles E. Turner, Hyland's officemate and business familiar, that Hylan never knew Goslin, and that the checks sent to Hylan by Goslin and cashed by Hylan were in payment of a debt which Turner owed Hylan.

5. The affidavit of Edgar A. Whitney, the plaintiff in one of Goslin's shady suits, that at the time of this suit he had not met Hylan and that Hylan was not his attorney.

"As to whether Judge Hylan ever saw Goslin, this is a matter of detail. Judge Hylan has not denied that he took Goslin's money, and that he wrote a letter to Goslin thanking him for his interest in Hylan.

"As to whether Judge Hylan ever acted as attorney for known agents of Goslin, he has already admitted and Goslin's agent has already sworn that he did act as attorney for one of Goslin's tools, namely, Charles B. Turner. Judge Hylan may or may not have acted as attorney for Goslin's agent, Whitney. It is admitted and sworn to that he did act as attorney for Goslin's agent, Turner.

"As to the two affidavits, one of Turner and one of Whitney, which have been offered to the public in Hylan's defense, I shall content myself with reciting the record of both gentlemen.

"Turner swore in an affidavit made on April 11, 1906, that he was used by Goslin in connection with a swindling mining suit, and that Goslin gave him $200 with which to skip out of the city when things got too hot for him. He is hardly the man to be used by Judge Hylan to prove that Judge Hylan never had any indirect dealings with Goslin.

Takes Up Whitney's Case.

"This morning Judge Hylan and Frank Moss, Judge Hylan's counsel, presented the public with an affidavit from Edgar A. Whitney.

"In 1904 Whitney was arraigned in General Sessions on a charge of bookmaking.

"In 1908 he was convicted on a charge of grand larceny, although this conviction was reversed.

"In 1912 he was arrested again on a charge of grand larceny preferred against him by the New York Credit Men's Association.

"In 1917, he makes an affidavit to prove the fitness of a candidate for Mayor of New York City. Going back a little further into Edgar A. Whitney's record, it appears that in 1901, Whitney was the star witness in the trial of Wardman Glennon of the Police Department, for neglect of duty in not suppressing a disorderly house.

"Previous to this trial, on Aug. 10, 1901, Whitney made a confession to Justice Jerome which was the basis for the Glennon trial. In this confession, he admitted that he had taken money to use his connections with the Parkhurst Society to tip off the police when illegal resorts were to be raided.

"The morning Sun of Aug. 11, 1901, contains the extremely interesting information that

Whitney was under cross-examination by Frank Moss, the counsel of the Parkhurst Society, for six hours, and told all he knew of the system by which a certain ring in the Police Department and the Department of Gambling held together.

Mr. Moss said that the result of the examination was satisfactory.

"As counsel for the Parkhurst Society in 1901, Frank Moss learned enough about Edgar A. Whitney to prevent him from placing much credence in any affidavit that Mr. Whitney might make.

"Mr. Moss is now Judge Hylan's counsel. It is curious that Mr. Moss should permit Whitney's affidavit to be offered to the public without explanation or apology.

"The developments this morning in the exposure of Judge Hylan's past are no less revolting to the people of this city that what has gone before.

Questions for Hylan.

"I now ask Judge Hylan what he has to say concerning the latest revelations of his professional conduct which detail the fact that he attempted to charge his wife's cousin $2,280 for collecting a judgment of $3,786.

"I ask him to explain why he tried to force his wife's relative to take stock in the Black Diamond Company with the [illegible] under left over after Hylan had deducted this amazing fee.

"I ask him why his wife's cousin was forced to seek out another lawyer to collect from Judge Hylan the money which Hylan has already collected.

"I ask him why it was necessary for his wife's cousin to go to the Supreme Court for an order requiring Judge Hylan to show cause why he should not give an accounting.

"I ask Judge Hylan why, after his own client had taken legal steps against him, Judge Hylan found it wisest to settle the matter out of court by paying to his client $1,375, which he had held out of the moneys originally collected.

"After the Black Diamond Company had placed Judge Hylan in a position of trust, he sued that company, through a dummy, and secured judgment by [illegible].

"After his wife's cousin had placed Hylan in a position of trust, Judge Hylan collected money due his client, and forced him to go to the courts to secure what Hylan had already collected.

"On what possible theory should the people of New York elevate to the position of the greatest trust a man with this record behind him?

Anthrax Victim Dies in Bellevue.

Max Rosenbaum, a peddler living with his brother Harry, at No. 538 East Sixth Street, was removed from his home to Bellevue Hospital yesterday morning suffering from anthrax, and died there in the afternoon. Rosenbaum was the sixth victim of anthrax taken to Bellevue Hospital recently. Of the five taken there in the past one recovered and four died.

CHARGES MAYOR AIDED BAD FOOD SELLERS

Hylan Asserts Armour & Co. Were Shielded From Prosecution by Mitchel Appointees.

In a speech which he read before an audience in Cooper Union last night the Tammany candidate for Mayor, Judge John F. Hylan, declared that Mayor Mitchel had not lived up to his pre-election pledges to prosecute those food corporations which were caught selling decayed food to the people. On the contrary, asserted Judge Hylan, Mitchel's appointees protected Armour & Co. from prosecution for illegal practices.

The Cooper Union meeting was all that could be desired by a Tammany man. Every speaker was greeted with cheers as some popular Tammany candidate was mentioned, or with boos and hisses at the name of the Mayor. Even the names of Roosevelt, Hughes, and Taft were hissed and hooted. Judge Hylan read his speech because, he said, he was afraid of being "misquoted by the subsidized press."

"Armour & Company," he said, "has as its representatives upon the Fusion Committee of Two Hundred and Fifty, Samuel McRoberts, a director of this company, an officer of the National City Bank, and one of the most important of the Rockefeller group of financiers. An interesting chapter of the Mitchel administration will be found if you examine the prosecutions of Armour & Company for violations of the food and health laws.

"These violations were of a serious nature. This company was caught offering for sale as food for the people of this city rotten pigs' ears, rotten eggs, rotten beef liver, and rotten oxtails. When these cases were brought to trial we find the brazen spectacle of the former attorney for Armour & Co., Mr. Lamar Hardy, prosecuting his old client as the corporation counsel of this city. But even more astounding is the fact that Tony A. Hardy, the Corporation Counsel's brother, is the counsel for the defendant company.

"The activities of the Hardy brothers in defense of Armour & Co. and the activity of Samuel McRoberts, a Director of Armour & Co. and a Director of the Mitchel-Prendergast Fusion Committee, though not a resident of New York City, is very significant. It is significant because in his speeches in 1913 Mayor Mitchel repeatedly gave his pledge that he would prosecute to the limit of the law these base offenders who were selling rotten food to the people of our city. Does Mr. Mitchel regard this as the fulfillment of his campaign pledge? This is an example of the way in which he has kept all his pre-election pledges."

Judge Hylan pledged himself to take over the public utilities, to reduce the taxes, and raise the wages of the workmen in municipal-owned corporations. He promised to conserve the value of the city's piers by building a municipally owned terminal railway.

U.S. ARMY & NAVY BAZAAR

Auspices of

Grand Central Palace
Oct. 27-Nov. 3

DO YOUR BIT

FOR YOUR OWN BOYS AND DO IT NOW!!

The proceeds of this Bazaar, in which the principal American War Relief organizations are participating, will go for War Relief work among our soldiers and sailors at the front, and their families at home. The Army and Navy Field Comfort Committee will send to our Boys thousands of comfort packages containing tobacco, cigarettes, pipes, toothbrush, tooth paste, shaving cream, chocolate, etc. All money received is and will be in the custody of Edward S. Moore of Guaranty Trust Co., Treasurer of the Committee, and Guaranty Trust Co. is the depositary.

This U. S. Army and Navy Bazaar will be one of the biggest events of the year. It will be considerably more than the name "Bazaar" implies. Entertainment of many sorts, with the foremost theatrical and operatic stars, will be provided.

WE NEED YOUR CO-OPERATION!

WE NEED MORE DONATIONS OF CASH AND SALEABLE MERCHANDISE!

WE NEED MORE VOLUNTEER WORKERS. INQUIRE AT HEADQUARTERS, 12 E. 46TH ST.

It is apparent to persons interested in war relief work that a malicious, persistent propaganda inspired by anti-patriotic interests is being waged against the principal American War Relief organizations. Rumors intended to retard the progress of the U. S. Army and Navy Bazaar are repeatedly circulated. A report designed to injure this big American war relief work has just gained ground to the effect that the U. S. Army and Navy Bazaar is to combine with a foreign relief Bazaar, and will not open on the date scheduled. This is ABSOLUTELY UNTRUE. The U. S. Army & Navy Bazaar WILL OPEN Oct. 27th.

RUSH GETS RECOUNT ON 'GLARING ERRORS'

The Anti-Tammany Candidate Against McAvoy for Supreme Court Expects to Win.

POINTS TO FAULTY ADDITION

Says Totals on Many Tally Sheets Were Transposed, to His Disadvantage.

Alleging that he was deprived of at least 2,000 votes through "glaring errors" at the primary election, Thomas E. Rush, Surveyor of the Port and former Tammany district leader, who was an independent candidate for the nomination for Supreme Court Justice in the First Judicial District against John V. McAvoy, the regular Tammany candidate, obtained an order yesterday from the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for a recount of the ballots. The recount proceedings will begin this morning at the Board of Elections in the Municipal Building and will continue day and night until completed.

Mr. Rush has had representatives making an inspection of the tally sheets as returned by the Election Inspectors as well as other data, and he said last night that serious errors had been found in district after district. In the Seventh Assembly District alone, Mr. Rush said, it had been found that 1,000 votes had been counted for Mr. McAvoy to which he was not entitled. In this district Mr. McAvoy got 637 votes and Mr. Rush 396, according to the returns filed with the Board of Elections. At the bottom of the tally sheet, however, Mr. Rush said, some one had inserted the figure 1 opposite the figures 637 in the McAvoy column, thus making McAvoy's vote in the district read 1,637.

"In every single Assembly District in both Manhattan and the Bronx," said Mr. Rush last night, "the tally sheet totals show errors in additions. In twenty-six districts the errors favor Mr. McAvoy and in five districts the errors favor me. On what I have before me at this time I am able to show a gain of approximately 2,000 votes for myself, and this before any ballot boxes have been opened."

On Oct. 9 Mr. Rush applied to Supreme Court Justice Whitaker for an order for a recount. Justice Whitaker directed the opening of the ballot boxes, but his order imposed conditions not acceptable to Mr. Rush and he appealed to the Appellate Division for a full recount. On Wednesday the Appellate Division granted Mr. Rush's request and ordered the Board of Elections to begin a recount at once.

The First Judicial District takes in the thirty-one Assembly Districts of Manhattan and the Bronx. The returns from these districts, as officialy tabulated by the Board of Elections, gave McAvoy 30,508 and Rush 17,448, a majority of 13,120 for McAvoy. There were 2,319 void and protested ballots, Mr. Rush said last night that it would be shown that 90 per cent. of these void and protested ballots should have been counted for him.

"I am making no charges of fraud at this time," said Mr. Rush last night. "The ballot boxes will tell their own story. Meantime, I wish to direct public attention to the bungling tabulation of the returns. A recount of the votes cast in the Republican Mayoralty contest resulted in a change of less than 1,000 votes in the entire city. Without opening a single ballot box I am able to show in two boroughs approximately 2,000 votes credited to Mr. McAvoy to which he is not entitled."

In transposing the Assembly District totals to the county totals, Mr. Rush said, errors were made in a number of districts. He said he did not accuse any one in the office of the Board of Elections of making these errors, but that a full investigation would place the blame where it belonged.

"One illustration," said Mr. Rush, "of how these errors were made is shown in the Eighteenth Election District of the Fifteenth Assembly District, which is my own district. The official vote was Rush, 22; McAvoy, 0. The county returns give this vote as McAvoy, 22; Rush, 0. There are innumerable transpositions of this character, all in this Assembly District and all operating to my disadvantage. The official returns from the Fifteenth Assembly District on primary night, as certified by the Board of Elections, was: Rush, 1,007; McAvoy, 417. The result in the Fifteenth District as it now appears on the tally sheet at the Board of Elections is: Rush, 980; McAvoy, 439. The totals are the same. On primary night the returns from McAvoy's own district, as certified, were: Rush, 878; McAvoy, 843, a total of 1,721, showing that I had beaten McAvoy in his own district. The tally sheet at the Board of Elections appears at present as follows: Rush, 780; McAvoy, 837, a total of 1,626. Ninety-five votes have disappeared somewhere.

"A peculiarity of the vote, as shown on the tally sheets, is that the vote in the Rush-McAvoy districts, where the real battle raged, where the interest was keenest, and where both candidates for the nomination had complete working organizations, is considerably less than in many of the downtown districts, where there was not nearly the same interest in the outcome. In the Twelfth Assembly District, which is Charles F. Murphy's home district, McAvoy received 2,312 and I received only 421, a total of 2,733. In the First Assembly District, where Tom Foley lives, the vote was: McAvoy, 2,118, and Rush, 326, a total of 2,444. Both these districts show a much larger vote than that cast in either Mr. McAvoy's district or mine."

The recount of the vote for the nominations for Supreme Court Justice and for Borough President of Queens cast at the recent Democratic primaries proceeded yesterday without incident. At the close of the count for the day ballot boxes from twenty-eight districts had been examined. No substantial gains were made by any of those who asked the recount.

Eight more election inspectors of the Bronx were indicted yesterday, charged with "knowingly and intentionally falsifying the result of ballots cast in an official primary election on Sept. 19, 1917." This makes twelve inspectors indicted in Bronx County. The inspectors indicted on Wednesday were arraigned before County Judge Gibbs yesterday and held in $1,000 bail each for pleading on Monday. The bail was furnished. The indicted men are Patrick G. Gavagan of 3,405 Olinville Avenue, Bertrand Conway of 3,310 Olinville Avenue, William T. Dugain of 627 Magenta Street, and John J. Hermann of 761 North Oak Drive. The first two are Democrats and the other two Republicans.

The election district where the men were acting as inspectors is the home district of John J. Knewitt, Republican County Chairman and a Commissioner of Taxes. There was a contest between him and Otto W. Holmgren for County Committeeman, and following the Bennet-Mitchel inspection of the ballots, Holmgren complained of fraud to District Attorney Martin.

RIEGELMANN WINS BROOKLYN RECOUNT

Unofficial Reinspection of Ballots Cuts Lead Over Bird S. Coler From 1,262 to 830.

The completion of the unofficial reinspection of the ballots at the Republican primaries for the nomination for Borough President of Brooklyn last night cut the lead of Edward Riegelmann, but left him a plurality of 830 over Bird S. Coler. The first count gave his lead as 1,262. The re-inspection at the headquarters of the Brooklyn Election Board, was ordered by the Supreme Court after both candidates asked for an investigation of charges of fraud. The candidates agreed before the reinspection began that the man shown to be the winner should take legal steps, unopposed, to have his name placed on the ballot.

About 200 erasures were discovered on ballots examined on Wednesday, the opening day of the recount, but not many were found yesterday. Congressman Harry Howard Dale, Chairman of the Law Committee of the Democratic County Committee of Kings, said last night that the erasures affected all the candidates from Attorney General down and appeared to lack fraudulent intent.

"An experience of more than twenty five years in election matters leads me to believe that the erasures show no evidence of widespread fraud," said Mr. Dale.

Mr. Coler had not determined late last night whether he would go into court and seek a ruling on ballots voided either by erasure or by crosses being marked in front of the names of both candidates. A friend of his said that unless there should be reason to believe, after the inspection of the ballots had been concluded, that enough frauds had been committed in favor of his rival to change the result, the contest would not be carried beyond the present proceedings.

ELECTION OFFICERS PLEAD GUILTY

Four in Brooklyn Admit Turning Over Mayoralty Ballots to a Republican Club Head.

As a result of the investigation conducted by District Attorney Harry E. Lewis into the charges of fraud in the recent primary contest between Mayor Mitchel and William M. Bennett, indictments were found yesterday by the Kings County Grand Jury against four inspectors of the Eighteenth Election District of the Twelfth Assembly District in Brooklyn. There are four counts in the indictments, and the accused pleaded guilty to the fourth count, which charges that they violated the election law in turning over the ballots to John D. Gunther, President of the Twelfth Assembly District Republican Club, who was not an election official.

The men indicted are John F. Kearney, Democrat, of 399 Sixteenth Street; Paul Dunbar, Democrat, of 571 Sixth Avenue; Albert Bildner, Republican, of 412 Fifteenth Street, and Thomas Jones, Republican, of 388 Fifteenth Street. County Judge Lewis L. Fawcett deferred sentence at the request of the District Attorney and fixed bail at $1,000 in each case.

"What we want," said District Attorney Lewis to Judge Fawcett, "is to get the 'man higher up' who is responsible for these frauds. I will accept the plea of these men upon condition that sentence be deferred until such time as they have testified before the Grand Jury, if necessary, and in the event of further indictments, of the trial of the men whom they may implicate."

BALLOT MISSION IN LONDON.

Preparing to Take the Vote of New York Soldiers and Sailors.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The commission appointed by the Secretary of State of New York to take the vote of New York soldiers and sailors in the coming election has arrived, and is establishing headquarters for the distribution of ballots in the trenches and on the high seas. The commission brought a large number of ballots, collapsible ballot boxes, and other election paraphernalia.

Owing to the primary contest, New York City's ballots have not yet arrived, but a member of the commission is now on his way with them. The marked ballots will be rushed to the Secretary of State as soon as possible.

ASKS SIMS ABOUT U-BOAT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Navy Department cabled to Admiral Sims today for a detailed account of the encounter Oct. 16 between a submarine and an American destroyer, in which the destroyer received the first hit scored by the Germans against an American warship. The brief statement given out last night contained all the information that has reached the department, with the exception of the name of the vessel, which is withheld for military reasons.

From the fact that the destroyer was able to make port with only one killed and five slightly wounded, officers here believe that the torpedo probably struck her far forward, so that the narrow forward bulkhead held and kept out the sea. The construction of these vessels is so light that if one were hit amidships she probably would break in two.

SEND 40 DIVISIONS TO OPPOSE ITALIANS

Central Powers Depleting Eastern Forces to Defeat Cadorna's Plans.

BAINSIZZA A POINT OF PERIL

Enemy Experts Regard It as the Most Dangerous of All the Fronts of Europe.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—According to a semi-official dispatch reaching Washington today from Rome the situation along the Italo-Austrian front has forced the Austrian and German Governments to withdraw forty divisions from the eastern front for use in reinforcing the Austrian troops now operating against Italy.

This may have been done in response to a second appeal from Austria, so far as the German transfer of men is concerned, as it was learned several weeks ago that the Vienna Government, despite the fact that a considerable number of German, Bulgarian, and Turkish units had been sent to the Italian front, had called on Germany for additional reinforcements.

Evidently Berlin, as well as Vienna, has come to a full realization of the importance of the Italian drive which General Cadorna has so successfully conducted and has recognized the importance of trying to prevent the Italian army from gaining vantage points of great strategic value from which a drive might be launched against Vienna next Spring. A portion of the dispatch reaching Washington from Rome today was made public as follows:

"The Italian command has received information that the Austrians and Germans are carrying on the withdrawal of forty divisions from the eastern front to be brought to the Italian front.

"The presence of new German, Turkish, and Bulgarian units at this front has already been noticed. The greater part of these troops have been directed toward the Bainsizza Plateau, which is openly acknowledged by both German and Austrian military critics to be the most dangerous of all the fronts in Europe."

ITALY FACES A COAL FAMINE.

Almost None for Hotels and Homes —Our Mines Are Her Only Hope.

Producing no coal within her own territory, Italy depends for it and many of her other supplies upon the outside world, which now virtually means the United States. England requires all her shipping for her own purposes. The situation is how so grave that there is almost no coal for private consumption, and few furnaces will be lighted this Winter in either Italian hotels or private houses. Even the military operations are hindered.

Italy has already accomplished a great deal by limiting consumption of all kinds of supplies, reorganizing imports and foodstuff distribution, fixing maximum sale prices, and introducing a system of rationing for the population in many cities.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 18.—The debate at the reopening of Parliament on the condition of the country developed statements to the effect that the army, strengthened by its series of victories in enemy territory, was making satisfactory progress, while the power of the Austrians was steadily decreasing; that the navy was keeping untiring watch along the coasts, and that supplies were pouring in from across the sea.

Other achievements of the Ministry which were emphasized were the strengthening of the country's diplomatic position by the Foreign Minister's visits to Paris and London and the favorable developments in the economic situation, wages having advanced with the great increase in industrial activity due to the satisfaction of war needs.

MINERS YIELDING TO GARFIELD PLEA

WHITE GOES TO PERSUADE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Following a series of conferences here with Dr. H. A. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, and the receipt of many telegrams from labor leaders in the coal fields of the central competitive group, where many miners are on strike, John P. White, President of the United Mine Workers, who has been co-operating with the Fuel Administration, left tonight for Indianapolis.

"I am of the opinion," he said, "that the whole matter will be straightened out within a few days and that the men will return to work."

Reports received during the day at the offices of the Fuel Administration from labor leaders endeavoring to end the strikes were referred to as encouraging, and confidence was expressed that Mr. White's mission would prove successful. It is understood that he is prepared to talk "straight from the shoulder" to the miners and warn them that it is their patriotic duty to keep up maximum production.

Frank Farrington, President of the Illinois Union, wired today that he had urged the men in his district to return to work, and that the situation was more favorable. All of the leaders, it was said, were co-operating in this effort.

Dr. Garfield maintained the position today that he would not be hurried or have his hand forced in determining whether an increase should be granted over the prices named by President Wilson for coal at the mine, and thus make it possible for the operators to meet the request for higher wages made by the miners. It is understood that his decision will be reached before Nov. 1, and the feeling was general here that the labor leaders would be able to keep the situation in hand until that time.

No comment was made today by Dr. Garfield concerning reports that he contemplated commandeering mines and placing them under Government operation. That this would be done on a large scale is not believed in most quarters here. While Dr. Garfield probably would not hesitate to exercise the power of commandeer in connection with some mines, if conditions warranted such drastic action, it is considered extremely doubtful if such a crisis will be faced.

It was pointed out today that a radical element among the miners was, perhaps, responsible for much of the trouble, and that the great task ahead for the present was to prevent the strike fever from spreading. The situation, however, was left "up in the air" pending the negotiations which Mr. White will hold at first hand with the miners.

Dr. Garfield today accepted the invitation of the National Coal Association to address the mass meeting of coal operators in Pittsburgh on Oct. 23.

Illinois Miners Yielding.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Frank Farrington, President of the Illinois Federation of Miners, has telegraphed all local unions to return to work at once and await the action of the Government on the promised increase in wages. He warned the local unions that they had violated the agreement reached at Washington with Fuel Administrator Garfield regarding an increase of wages. He told them that their conduct would, "in addition to bringing about Governmental punishment, also bring down upon their heads the condemnation of the public, now badly in need of coal."

Mr. Farrington later issued a statement declaring that the mine workers were beginning to understand the futility of trying to force Dr. Garfield's hand on the wage increase and were gradually returning to work. He said that he expected most of them would be back at work on Monday.

Illinois mines produce normally 400,000 tons of coal a day, but the total output yesterday was only 6,000 tons. Many Chicago homes and business houses were out of coal today. The office of John E. Williams, Fuel Administrator of Illinois, was flooded with complaints from consumers whose demands for coal had been turned down by the dealers. The latter have supplies sufficient for from two to five days more, and practically no coal is arriving from the mines.

Fred W. Upham, head of the largest distributing company in Chicago, said that he saw no reason to alter his prediction that within a few days business in Chicago would be paralyzed by the lack of fuel. Even the gas company, which ordinarily maintains large surplus supplies, has only a few days' supply on hand.

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association today telegraphed Dr. Garfield that miners who refuse to work are as guilty as soldiers who refuse to fight.

CLINTON, Ind., Oct. 18.—Miners of the Clinton field, in mass meeting today, voted by a large majority to return to work tomorrow. William Mitch, Secretary, called attention to the telegram received yesterday from Dr. Garfield, Fuel Administrator, advising that the powers of the Government would be used to keep the mines going if the men persisted in violating contracts.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 18.—The strike of 35,000 coal miners in the southwestern district, embracing Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas, which was to have begun tomorrow morning, has been deferred pending negotiations with the Operators' Association, which were resumed tonight.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 18.—Coal shipments into St. Louis and nearby towns had ceased today, and large factories are threatened with an early shutdown.

SEE COAL SHORTAGE, BUT NO FAMINE HERE

A. H. Wiggin Opens Office as State Aid to Garfield and Will Hear Complaints.

The first step taken by the Government to relieve the coal shortage in New York State was the opening yesterday of an office of the United States Fuel Administrator in Room 2316, at 61 Broadway. The office is in charge of A. H. Wiggin, President of the Chase National Bank, whom Dr. H. A. Garfield, United States Fuel Administrator, appointed to take charge of the investigation in this State.

Committees to receive and investigate local coal supply complaints are being appointed by Mr. Wiggin in each of the sixty-one counties of the State. Each local county committee consists of the community's most representative business men, but no one connected with the coal trade in any way is on any committee.

Officials of the New York Coal Administrator's office have spent all their time so far in the work of organization. They expect to spend the next month or six weeks in hearing and investigating complaints of persons who cannot obtain coal or who think they are being overcharged. These complaints will be invited from the consuming public, from the retailers, from the wholesalers, and from the collieries and mine owners.

Most of the complaints so far received by the New York officials have been regarding the shortage of coal rather than regarding the price.

As soon as the State has been completely organized, and as soon as most of the individual complaints have been investigated, public hearings may be held, to which mine owners, railroad officials, wholesalers, and retailers will be summoned.

At the office of one of the large wholesale coal sales organizations, the subsidiary of one of the coal-carrying railroad companies, it was said yesterday that the organization's officials did not believe that there was a "coal famine," the implication being that the present seeming coal shortage is largely due to distribution.

At the office of a large coal-carrying railroad it was said that the railroad had practically no reserve coal supply and was dependent on certain collieries from week to week. An official of this railroad said that the reason the road was experiencing trouble in getting coal seemed to be due to a shortage of freight cars to haul it and also a shortage of labor at the mines.

One of the largest retailers, on the other hand, asserted that, in his opinion, the shortage was due partly to increased consumption by the more prosperous public and by the munitions factories, and partly to hoarding by the prosperous middle class in coalbins and cellars. This retailer, however, did not seem to think there could be severe suffering among the city's poor this Winter through lack of coal.

"I myself employ an investigator to give coal to families who cannot afford to pay for it, and will continue to do this throughout the Winter, no matter what happens," he said. "If the suffering is serious, most of those who possess coal, whether they are dealers or householders, undoubtedly will be willing to share what they have with their less fortunate neighbors."

ORDER GENERAL STRIKE AT SUBMARINE PLANT

Unions Call Men Out, Demanding Recognition and Their Scale of Wages.

The labor troubles of the Lackawanna Bridge Company, now building the plant of the Submarine Boat Corporation at Port Newark Terminal, assumed a new aspect yesterday when a general strike order was issued. Officers of the Newark Building Trades Council said that the general strike order would remain in effect until the bridge company paid standard union wages and recognized the union. Six hundred men were at work when the strike was declared and the company expected to put several thousand more at work within a week.

When asked by General Superintendent Peterson if the trouble could be straightened out if a guarantee of union wages was given, one of the union officials said that nothing short of recognition of the union would suffice. President William Lyons of the Building Trades Council, referring yesterday to the statement that the union's men were interfering with Government work, said:

"They shout patriotism at us. We are just as patriotic as any of them. It would be different if we were making unreasonable demands. All we ask is that the Lackawanna Bridge Company shall do what every other concern in this city does—pay union wages and recognize the local unions."

ACQUITTED OF DRAFT PLOT.

Germer and Ten Others Freed by Michigan Jury.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 18.—Adolph Germer of Chicago, Executive Secretary of the National Socialist Party, and ten other persons were acquitted by a jury in the United States District Court here this evening of conspiracy against the selective draft. With the exception of Germer, all the defendants were residents of this city. Nine were members of the Socialist Party.

The charge was the preparation and circulation of literature which the Government held was intended to induce young men not to register. The jury found that this was not the purpose of the literature, and that there had been no conspiracy. In his charge to the jury Judge C. Sessions made it clear that socialism was not on trial.

MAY BRING SHIPS FROM THE PACIFIC

Officials at Washington Discuss Plan for Relieving Shortage of Atlantic Tonnage.

WOULD USE PANAMA CANAL

Could Commandeer 150,000 Tons on West Coast Immediately—Supplying France a Pressing Problem.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—There has been discussion of late among certain officials, according to a report today, of moving 150,000 tons of American shipping from the Pacific trade into the transatlantic service in order to increase the available tonnage for immediate use pending the time when the vessels now building begin to come off the ways in great numbers. At least that amount, it is said, could be commandeered at once for use between the United States and France, and it could be quickly transferred through the Panama Canal.

A survey of all available tonnage controled by the Allies in the Pacific has been made, it is understood, in order to determine just how much could be spared without interrupting the necessary channels of Pacific Ocean commerce which contribute to the war. The United States has been credited with approximately 400,000 tons, but all of that is not suitable to the transatlantic service. Great Britain has over 1,000,000 tons in liners and tramps, and France about 220,000 tons. Japan has about 1,000,000.

Several conferences have been held recenty by Secretary Baker, Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, and Herbert Hoover, Food Administrator, over the question of supplying the needs of the army and relieving conditions in France. It is possible that the use of some of the American tonnage from the Pacific will be decided upon. The officials, however, have refused to discuss the talks they have had. While conditions in France are not entirely to the liking of officials, it is understood that nothing like a real crisis has been reached, and that a survey of shipping facilities make it positive that the situation will be met.

Suggestions have been heard concerning a plan to pool the shipping facilities of the United States and its allies under a central transportation director or organization, in order to obtain the greatest efficiency. This would not require the United States to enter the interallied chartering plan, but would provide for a system that would tend to lessen waastage. This, however, is little more than a theory at present. It is possible that it will be matter of discussion at the Allied War Conference to be held in Paris, but no official intimation has even been given in that connection.

OUTLINES CHARTERING RULES.

The Chartering Committee of the United States Shipping Board has announced its first set of rules, which outline the main points of its policy in regard to charters of American and neutral vessels.

The committee ruled that there should be no increase in charter rates over those prevailing when it took charge last Monday. No charter will be approved for more than a single voyage. All charters must provide for the return of the ship to an American port. The committee decided to approve no charters for neutral vessels trading in the Pacific except on condition that, at the conclusion of the voyage approved, the vessel is brought around to the Atlantic. It aims, however, to bring about this transference with the least possible disturbance of traffic.

Submission of charters made for all American steamers commandeered by the Government to the Chartering Committee is mandatory under the Shipping Board's order. The committee's control over neutral tonnage trading to and from American ports, however, is none the less complete, and is going to be exercised on the same basis as for American steamers. Its control of neutrals is made effective by the fact that without the approval of the Chartering Committee no Captain of a neutral ship can get clearance papers from any port in the United States, nor, since the British authorities are working in entire harmony with the American, can he get bunker coal or supplies anywhere in the world.

The rate problem is still by far the most important matter before the committee, and in this it is proceeding cautiously. Shipping men expect that rates will have to come down decidedly, both charter rates and package rates. In the meantime information received indicates that the Shipping Board has made up its mind that the big profits from the present rates shall benefit the Government instead of the individual shipowner. A number of shipowners have been informed from Washington that their ships, now requisitioned, are to be operated by them henceforth for Government account, the owners acting merely as agents. Whether they will receive 10 per cent or 5, or some intermediate figure, as an operating fee apparently has not yet been determined.

DE PINNA

The regulations governing the dress of girls from 4 to 14 years are very strict, and limit the choice to a few simple styles of tailored coats, suits, blouses and dresses.

The smartness of De Pinna models is due to the care used in selecting, from the vast number submitted by the best designers abroad, the very few that meet the De Pinna standards of simplicity combined with elegance.

When models are accepted by us, we go further and bring from abroad the identical fabrics which contribute so much to the smartness of the originals.

Girls' Dress Coats—Designed for the more formal occasions—attendance at concerts, dancing school and afternoon wear. In velvet, wool velours, broadcloth, suede velours and Heather Homespuns. Sizes 4 to 16 years. $35 to $110.

Tailored Dresses—for immediate wear—to be worn with these Coats, in velvets, navy blue or white serge, imported wool plaids and other selected fabrics. $15 to $55.

SUGAR SHORTAGE IS SERIOUS HERE

HOUSEHOLDERS MUST SAVE

Rapidly Dwindling Supply Is Causing Concern to Local and Federal Authorities.

New York is looking into the bottom of the sugar bin and unless there is more economy there may be a famine before the beet sugar crops from the West and the Cuban crops begin to come into the market. Some of the larger stores have only a limited supply on hand and in many of the small retail stores the supply is used up and the dealers are dependent upon what small amounts they can get from their wholesalers. In most of the stores yesterday sugar was retailing in small lots at 11 cents a pound, but some sales were reported at 15 cents.

Henry Moskowitz, the newly appointed Commissioner of Markets, said last night that there was a very serious shortage. He will confer today with refiners, wholesalers, and retailers for the purpose of getting at the actual available sugar supply and to work out a policy of action. The Department of Markets sent out yesterday seven investigators. One of these went into a district where the population is largely Italian and Greek. He found that in four stores in James Street, two in Cherry Street, one in Oak Street, three in Madison Street, and one in Pearl Street there was no sugar to be had.

Another investigator found similar conditions in stores in Henry Street, Pike Street, and Madison Street. In one store the proprietor said that he had not had any sugar for three weeks. In a store at 82 Monroe Street sugar was selling at 12 cents a pound. The small supply was soon exhausted at that figure. A grocer at Market and Monroe Street had only twenty-five pounds on hand.

In most stores where the supply was not exhausted sugar was sold only in three-and-a-half-pound packages, and only one package to a customer.

James H. Post, Chairman of the American Refiners Committee of the Federal Food Administration, said that every person should try to reduce the consumption of sugar. The shortage is not local, he said, for reports from all parts of the country tell of the lack of sugar. This is due, it is said, to the fact that the refineries cannot obtain sufficient supplies of the raw material, which will not arrive for another six or eight weeks.

The question is one of supply and demand and is not one of price. The local and Federal authorities intend to do all in their power to prevent the extracting of high prices and they appeal to patriotism to prevent any one taking advantage of the situation.

John McE. Bowman of the National Food Administration, said that there will be a cutting down of the use of sugar in some of the hotels and restaurants and he suggested that icing on cakes and the use of ice cream be limited. Economy of the latter would save butter fats as well as sugar.

Those of the refineries that have not shut down are said to be working at far less than capacity. They are dividing their product as equitably as possible among the wholesalers, who are in turn endeavoring to make a fair distribution to the retailers. It is probable that within a few days the Food Administration may take action in the matter. The Government is controlling the supply of raw material and distributing among the refineries.

Relief will come from the Western beet sugar crop, which comes into the market from Utah, Colorado and Michigan. It is said that much of this supply will be absorbed in the West. The Louisiana crops will probably be the next to reach this market and will arrive next month. This will be followed by the moving of the bumper crops from Cuba and this can be expected to arrive about the first of the year and with its arrival the market will be fully relieved and the supply will, it is believed, be normal.

President Babst of the American Sugar Refining Company said that during the next two or three months there will be inconvenience and annoyance to consumers and manufacturers. This condition, he said, was incident to providing stores for our own armies and those of our allies.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—There is enough sugar in Boston to meet ordinary demands, dealers said today, provided it isn't gobbled up by persons, temporarily frightened by the situation elsewhere, who are trying to put in sugar stock to carry them over the holidays. In most retail stores purchases were limited to two-pound lots at 19 cents. Many establishments refused to sell over two pounds unless persons bought other groceries valued at 50 cents.

Crowds stood in line for hours at many stores during the day, waiting to buy.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Oct. 18.—There was not a pound of sugar in any wholesale grocery house here today and dealers said it was impossible to either obtain a consignment or ascertain when

MAYOR ASKS RIGHT TO MARKET FOOD

WANTS ALDERMEN TO ACT

Asserts City Must Have This Power to Relieve the People Who Are Pinched by High Prices.

Mayor Mitchel believes that a time of emergency, as contemplated by the newly passed State food law, has arrived and he sent yesterday to John Mitchell, President of the New York State Food Commission, a request that the city be allowed to exercise its newly acquired power to purchase, store, and sell food to the people. The Mayor sent also to the Board of Aldermen a request that it transmit a similar request to Mr. Mitchell, as required by law, and asking that body to declare by resolution that such an emergency exists.

The action of the Mayor is the first step in carrying out the plan for reducing the prices of foodstuffs and to prevent the exploitation of the consumers, a plan for which the Mayor has fought ever since the war made the food question acute.

"For a long time this city has been trying to get from the State Legislature the right to buy food direct from the producer and sell it to the consumer through such channels as from time to time seem wise," the Mayor wrote to Commissioner Mitchell. "The Legislature refused to make direct grant of this power to the city, but in the recent State Food Commission law authority was given to the commission, of which you have been made Chairman, to consent to this exercise by the city of power to buy, store, and sell food and fuel through such agencies as it may determine."

The Mayor said that no citation of market quotations need be given to demonstrate the advance in prices of the necessities of life in the last three years. He spoke of the burden now imposed upon wage-earners and other classes, and expressed the belief that "there seems no power of relief in sight save through the operation of the power conferred upon the city by the law." He continues:

"Furthermore, in view of the constant rise in prices during the current year, it is clear that a similar emergency, indeed one far more acute, is likely to exist as soon as Winter sets in.

"For these reasons I, as Mayor, do hereby certify to you that both 'an actual and anticipated emergency on account of the deprivation of necessaries, by reason of excessive charges and decreased purchasing power,' exists, and apply to you for consent to the exercise by the City of New York of the power to purchase, store, and sell to its inhabitants food and fuel, as provided in Section 14 of the State Food Commission law.

"I am transmitting simultaneously to the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen a request that they adopt and transmit to your Commission the resolutions required by the Statutes.

In his letter to the Board of Estimate the Mayor points out the efforts that have been made to get an adequate and effective Department of Markets. For three years, he said, the Legislature "either blinded to the approaching crisis, or influenced by the pernicious lobby maintained by the food monopolists, denied the power requested by the city."

"Last Winter conditions became so acute that they caused widespread and vigorous agitation," he continued. "Delegations of distressed men and women came to the City Hall and demanded relief. My sympathy went out to them, and I stated then that the City Government had no legal power to act. I informed them that I had made repeated efforts to secure that power, and that I would continue to make such efforts. With the concurrence of the Board of Estimate I made application to the Legislature to authorize the city to buy and sell food at cost. This application the Legislature denied when in regular session.

"Finally this year, after three years of effort on the part of the city administration and due to the pressure of war conditions and to the impact of public opinion, the Legislature, in extraordinary session, enacted a bill which has become statute law and which contains a grant of power sufficient to secure some accomplishment. This new law, known as Chapter 813 of the Laws of 1917, confers power upon the city, with the consent of the State Food Commission, by such law established, to purchase, store, and sell to its citizens food and fuel. In view of the constant rise of prices during the past Winter and in view of their present level, it is clear that an emergency exists sufficient to justify application by the city to the State Food Commission for permission to exercise the power to buy and sell. * * *

"I now request your honorable board to adopt, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 813 of the Laws of 1917, a resolution stating that such a necessity for the purchase, storage, and sale of food has arisen in this municipality.

Commissioner Moskowitz, who will be the city's agent for the purchase and sale of food, opened an office yesterday in the Municipal Building.

Must License Each Sugar Shipment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Exporters of sugar who have endeavored to defeat the rulings of the War Trade Board by making many small shipments may feel the heavy hand of the law upon them. The Board tonight issued a statement charging that exporters were seeking to take advantage of the regulation permitting the exportation of twenty-five barrels of sugar or less in any single shipment without requiring individual licenses. Until otherwise ordered by the Board, no shipments of sugar except those destined to Canada and Newfoundland will be allowed to leave the country without a specific export license for each shipment.

Speed Up Pacific Fisheries.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Oct. 18.—As the outcome of conferences between representatives of the Food Administrations of Canada and the United States, steps are being taken to speed up the Pacific Coast fisheries of both countries. J. McAdoo of Tacoma, United States Pacific Coast food representative, is in Ottawa discussing with the Canadian Fish Commission plans for joint effort.

Food Campaign Begins Tonight.

The New York Campaign for Food Conservation will begin tonight with a mass meeting at Cooper Union and be followed tomorrow noon by a war-wives ad war-mothers demonstration at Union Equare. Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the Food Administrator, will be one of the speakers. Others will be State Food Commissioner John Mitchell, Commissioner Henry Moskowitz of the City Food Commission, Dr. Katharine B. Davis, and Health Commissioner Haven Emerson. At least 10,000 wives and mothers of soldiers are expected at the mass meeting in Union Square, when food conservation pledges fill be signed.

TO ORGANIZE MINERS' UNITS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Organization of coal mining regiments from miners already in the national army for service in France is under consideration by Secretary Baker. To ascertain whether such units would be acceptable, in view of France's delicate labor problems, informal negotiations are being conducted between American Government officials and members of the French High Commission.

National army men would be assigned to the mining regiments only by a volunteer basis, but Government officials in touch with the unions believe most of the 15,000 miners taken on the first draft call would offer themselves for the special service. The plan does not contemplate withdrawing any men from civil employment.

Army officers do not look with favor on most schemes for using men drafted for fighting service in labor units, but this particular proposal is understood to have received special consideration, owing to the shortage of coal in France and the scarcity of miners.

Ten Guilty as German Smugglers.

Charged with conspiracy in smuggling rubber medical goods from this country to Germany by way of Holland, eleven men were arraigned yesterday before Judge Thomas I. Chatfield in the United States District Court in Brooklyn. Ten of the prisoners pleaded guilty and were remanded until next Tuesday for sentence. The other pleaded not guilty and was held for trial. Ten of the accused men were members of the crew of the Belgian relief ship, Gothland. The other is Louis Tinck, proprietor of a sailors' boarding house at 512 West Twenty-fourth Street.

while many of the retailers in some commodities might be operating with old stocks yet, that condition of affairs did not apply to flour. The retailers were getting it under the new schedule of prices.

This was proved, it was said, by the fact that in September the flour supply had reached a point where there was a real danger of a nation-wide flour famine. In New York City, about Sept. 15, Mr. Hoover said, the supply on hand was insufficient at one time for thirty-six hours, and it was found necessary to commandeer 400,000 barrels intended for export and distribute it for local consumption.

The whole country at this time, he said, did not have on an average more than one week's supply on hand, due partly to heavy exports and the slow movements of the wheat under the price regulation. The crisis now has been passed, Mr. Hoover declared, and flour was being supplied in plentiful quantities at the new prices resulting from the Government rate of $2.20 a bushel for wheat to the consumer, and the strict regulation of millers and elevators.

The baking industry has not as yet been placed under license, but that may be the next step if the proposed standard loaf of bread to be recommended by the Food Administration does not bring about the results desired. A report on experiments which have been carried on will be issued within a few days.

Must Apply for Licenses.

Dealers in fundamental foodstuffs who will be obliged to take out Federal licenses to do business after Nov. 1, as indicated in the President's proclamation issued Oct. 8, are required to make requisition at once for application forms without further notification by Federal authorities. These forms are being issued upon request by the law department, license division, United States Food Administration, Washington.

All wholesalers, brokers, and commission men handling the foodstuffs specified in the President's proclamation must be licensed, without regard to the volume of their business. Retailers, whose gross sales do not exceed $100,000 per annum, are excepted by Congress, but this exemption does not apply to wholesalers or to persons doing both a wholesale and retail business. There are certain other minor classes of exemptions set forth clearly in the proclamation.

Every effort will be made by the Food Administration to bring about economies in the retail trade, and a special trade will be made to the class of patrons who telephone even small orders and demand delivery service and credit. Such "luxuries," it was said, worked a hardship on all consumers under the present system, as they increased overhead charges, which were spread over the entire trade and were not borne solely by the class of patrons demanding them. The representatives of the retail organizations at a meeting here promised to co-operate in this effort, and the Food Administration believes much can be accomplished.

The Statement.

Mr. Hoover made this statement:

"The Food Administration considers that, subject to co-operation from the farmers anr the retailers, the corner has now been turned in high prices, and that most of the essential commodities should, one after another, continue to show reductions between now and the end of the year. The Food Administration has no control of either the grower or his organizations, nor of the great majority of retailers. The foundations have been laid for regulation of the intermediate trades, and where these regulations have come into force the trades are co-operating finely and considerable results are evident in the wholesale prices. The millers especially are playing the game well all over the country.

"The current prices at which flour is being sold at the mill door in cotton bags vary somewhat with the locality and freight charges on wheat, Toledo showing the lowest prices at $10 for first patent, and $9.70 for second patent; the highest being Buffalo at $10.70 for first patent, and $10.70 for second patent; Minneapolis being $10.60 for first patent, and $10.46 for second patent, and shows a large reduction under August prices.

"The regulations on the distribution of wheat and the manufacture of flour were put into force the middle of September.

"The average retail price on first patents in 796 cities on Oct. 13 was $13.77, or from $1.50 to $2 per barrel higher than is warranted by the price being made by the millers. In other words, the retail price has not wholly responded to the reductions made by the millers.

Bean Harvest Doubled.

"The bean harvest this year is estimated by the Department of Agriculture at approximately 7,000,000 bushels in excess of last year or nearly double last year, and promises an abundant supply. The growers' associations in prominent bean producing States are holding beans for from 13½ to 15 cents per pound as against an average price realized by the grower last year of 8 cents per pound. There has been 100 per cent. increase in the Manchurian bean crop and it is now estimated at 2,000,000 tons. Owing to shipping shortage practically the only outlet is to the United States, and these beans will flow into the American market from December on much below the prices now being demanded for American beans.

"The corn harvest this year is 600,000,000 to 700,000,000 bushels over last year, and will be generally available about the end of November. The price of corn rose to $2.30 per bushel in July and now stands at $1.90 per bushel in Chicago. New corn is quoted in Chicago at $1.13 per bushel for December and indicates nearly a forty per cent. drop in the price of corn meal when the new corn is generally available.

"The very large corn supplies from the new harvest, together with the larger supplies of barley, velvet beans, cottonseed, peanut and soya bean meal, all promise much cheaper cattle, hog and poultry feed, and will enable the production of beef, pork, poultry and dairy products at much lower levels of cost to the farmer than today, and his earnings can be maintained with lower prices of products. The packing, cold storage and other manufacturing and wholesale distributers in these trades are in course of regulation.

Beef Higher at Retail.

"Beef already shows some tendency toward reduction in wholesale prices, but these have not been so far reflected in the prices quoted by the retailer. The price of beef at the packers' door is 14½ cents per pound, as compared with 16 cents in the month of July, while the average retail prices of round steak in 796 cities is 31 cents per pound, against 27 cents per pound in July, thus showing that retail prices have increased while wholesale prices have decreased.

"In the matter of potatoes, we have a harvest 59 per cent. in excess of the crop of last year. The price at the loading points varies from $1.50 to $2.80 per hundred pounds, depending on the section where grown and the cost of getting them to market. The price, which is somewhat higher than at this period last year, is due to a tendency on the part of the producer to hold the potatoes for higher prices than last year, despite the greatly increased crop, and to the temporary inability of the railroads to furnish equipment sufficient to move from many sections the quantity available at this time. The average price of potatoes delivered in the markets has closely followed the price which the producer has received, plus the cost of distribution to the market. The larger supply of cars and the large harvest warrant lower prices later in the Fall.

Retailers Put Up Sugar.

"Beet sugar prices are being controlled by the manufacturers upon a basis that should reach the retailer from 8 to 8½ cents per pound, depending upon the locality. Sugar to confectioners from best factories is now being restricted and a temporary shortage in the Northeastern States gives no warrant for the advances by retailers to over 9 cents per pound. For this allows a fair margin upon the prices paid by them for cane sugar they are now selling. In any event, the rise in retail prices of sugar during the last three days in the Eastern States is solely due to the advancement of these prices by retail dealers in the face of a short supply, and does not bear any relation to the prices at which these sugars have been purchased. The price of new Cuban Porto Rican and Hawaiian harvest in December will maintain the beet level as soon as it is available. The beet level is 1¾ per cent. below August prices, and without the concerted action of beet manufacturers and the refiners of cane sugar, prices would now be up to 15 cents owing to the short supplies during the next few weeks.

Seek Substitutes for Lard.

"In order to provide equally good substitutes for lard and cooking fats, the Food Administration is arranging for the import of larger supplies of cocoanut, palm, nut, and soya bean oils. This should also affect the prices of soap.

"Since the Food Administration came into existence on Aug. 10 a great deal of exertion has been required to remedy food situations growing out of the over-export and short supplies of the 1916 harvest.

"There were no reserve stocks in practically all of the main staples with which to enter the new harvest year, and, in fact, in some of the principal staples the exports had proceeded to such lengths that there was an absolute undersupply of our own necessities during the last two months.

"On top of this situation, various factors have interfered with the early arrival of the new harvest. The farmer, in preparing for a 30 per cent. increase of Winter wheat acreage in the face of the shortage in agricultural labor, has prevented the free marketing of many commodities, and in addition to these difficulties there exists through the country, owing to the large coal and munitions shipments, a considerable car shortage. Resulting from these causes, there have been periodic shortages in first one commodity and another, in one locality in the United States after another, and a large part of the energies of the Food Administration has been absorbed in securing a distribution and a redistribution of existing supplies in such a manner as to keep the country generally supplied with foodstuffs, and but for the co-operation of the railways in meeting first one emergency situation after another, we should have had local famines in one commodity after another in a great many sections.

Authority Limited.

"Furthermore, the authority of the Food Administration does not extend over combinations of growers and producers at one end of the chain, nor does it extend over the great majority of retailers at the other end. The distribution chain lying between, that is, the warehouse, wholesalers, commission men, and manufacturers of the prime commodities, has required a great deal of study and development for its proper regulation, and these regulations are now coming into force.

"It is necessary, in order to secure a large production, to maintain fair and remunerative prices to the producers. While their expenses have increased during the last year, the prices demanded for certain commodities are not warranted. The intermediate handling trades to the retailer's door are being placed under regulation; they are co-operating well with the Food Administration, and speculation and profiteering are now generally a thing of the past.

"The retail situation is one of extreme difficulty, owing to the expensive methods of handling and the lack of authority to the administration to effect regulation, except to those doing a very large business. Conferences have been held in Washington during the last week with the representatives of the principal retailers' associations in discussion of constructive methods of reducing costs, waste, and exorbitant charges in the trade.

"The associations have undertaken to use their every endeavor to ameliorate prices. They need the co-operation of the consumers in reducing the number of deliveries, and their success in all measures will rest largely upon the support they receive from local authorities."

PUSH HOTEL CAMPAIGN.

Paul B. Boden and William Childs, Jr., Join Hoover's Forces Here.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—To further its campaign for economy in hotels and restaurants, the Food Administration has obtained the services as voluntary aids of Paul B. Boden and William Childs, Jr., of New York.

It was announced today that some restaurant owners had complained that they could not offer suitable substitutes on the proposed "meatless" Tuesdays and "wheatless" Wednesdays, and the Food Administration is working on this problem. A list of 3,100 clubs that have dining rooms nas been compiled and food economies will be urged on them.

CLINGS TO MURDER HABIT.

Judge Recognizes Slayer as One He Convicted 25 Years Ago.

Judge John F. McIntyre, in General Sessions, yesterday identified a prisoner arraigned on a charge of manslaughter as the same defendant whom the Judge had assisted in convicting of murder 25 years ago. The prisoner, Henry Devine, proprietor of a saloon at Water Street and Peck Slip, had pleaded guilty to killing his bartender a year ago. Then the Judge looked closely at Devine and asked:

"Aren't you the man I convicted of murder twenty-five years ago, when I was an Assistant District Attorney?"

"Yes, I was convicted of murder in the second degree and sent away for life," replied Devine. It was learned by the Judge that Devine had served 22 years of his sentence and was paroled three years ago. Devine's only excuse for shooting his bartender was: "He made fun of my dog." He was remanded for sentence.

In the same court the trial of Walter Hill, a negro, was begun yesterday. He is charged with killing Policeman Robert M. Holmes, also a negro. Holmes was shot to death on Aug. 8, in front of 13 West 138th Street.

DEFERS DISCUSSION OF POPE'S PEACE PLAN

Lord Robert Cecil Denies That Britain Has Been Negotiating with Vatican.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons today, Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Blockade, denied that negotiations for terms of peace had taken place with the Vatican or any of its agents or with any other religious organization.

Just previous to this, Lord Robert had been asked whether the British Government intended to send any reply to Pope Bendict's peace note. His response was a request that notice be given of the question. It had not been officially announced, he added, that Great Britain had adopted as its own reply the reply sent by the United States.

"The clear and powerful reply of President Wilson," explained Lord Robert, "was not the result of any consultation of the Allies, and I do not propose to comment on it in answer to the question."

WOODS NAMES NEW AID.

Henry J. Case Made Sixth Deputy Commissioner, a War Office.

Police Commissioner Woods announced yesterday that he had appointed Henry Jay Case, his private secretary, as Sixth Deputy Commissioner. This office was authorized by the last Legislature, the salary being $6,000 a year, and will last during the period of the war. The new Deputy will have supervision over all war orders relative to the Police Department, and during the absence of Deputy Commissioner Lord, who is on his vacation, will have charge of the Traffic Squad.

Commissioner Case is a Spanish-American war veteran and served with the Third New York Infantry during the war. He is a former newspaper man, joining the staff of The Evening Post in 1899 and remaining on that paper for a number of years.

Harvey C. McClintock, who was the property clerk at Police Headquarters, will succeed Mr. Case as secretary to the Commissioner.

HOURLESS SPEEDS TO WORLD'S MARK

RUNS DISTANCE IN 2:02

Special to The New York Times.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 18.—August Belmont's imported French colt Hourless came into his own this afternoon when he defeated Wilfrid Viau's Omar Khayyam and gained the American three-year-old championship in a setting that surpassed anything in the history of the American turf. By his glorious victory, in a truly run race over a mile and a quarter, in which Father Time suffered as severely as did Omar Khayyam, the picturesque horse of the current year wiped out the two defeats administered to him by Omar Khayyam earlier in the season.

The swift rush that humbled his rival stamped Hourless as one of the most remarkable horses that ever looked through a bridle. He finished the route in 2:02, clipping a second and four-fifths from the track record and establishing a new world's mark for a race of that distance around two turns.

Broomstick was credited with 2:02 3-5 for a mile and a quarter at Brighton Beach, but when those figures were lowered by Whisk Broom II. at Belmont Park general criticism followed the announcement of the time of two minutes.

There was no questioning the superiority of Hourless. It was recognized by the crowd of 20,000 persons that jammed every nook and corner of the Maryland State Fair track. Grizzled followers of the thoroughbreds are responsible for the statement that no such demonstration had been seen or heard on an American race track as that which greeted the success of the French-bred colt over his rival that claimed England as his home.

Butwell Loses Mount.

In every respect the contest was sensational and in marked difference to the struggle in the Realization at Belmont Park when Omar Khayyam gained the verdict by a nose in a tilt that developed into a quarter of a mile sprint. One of the incidents that amazed the crowd was the last-minute change of jockeys. Jimmy Butwell, who had ridden Hourless in all his previous races, was summarily deprived of the honor of riding the Belmont crack, and the mount given to Frankie Robinson, a popular idol here and a lad who greatly enhanced his reputation by the manner in which he handled the winner. Robinson restrained the impetuous Hourless until the last eighth of a mile, and then, with one electric rush, he swept by his formidable antagonist and gained the decision which placed him at the head of his division by a clear length.

The feature of the contest, that appealed to the racegoers was that after the horses had crossed the finish line no room was left for doubt as to the merits of the contestants on this particular day. Omar Khayyam had given the best that was in him, had run faster than ever before in his career, had made the pace with the evident idea of killing off his sturdy competitor, and at the finish was himself forced to give way to a new Hourless—a horse in perfect condition and ridden in a manner that enabled him to demonstrate his speed and stamina to the best advantage.

The trainer of Omar Khayyam asserted that his horse was carried along too fast at first and, therefore, was unable to do himself justice, but the fact remains that Hourless followed closely the pace set by Omar, and that after the first quarter of a mile he was running just as fast as the leader, but was under a pull until Robinson let him down for his supreme effort in the stretch. Omar Khayyam was game to the end, but there was no matching the superb Hourless, as he simply devoured ground when Robinson let him have his head and showed the public what a great horse he is.

Never in the East and in all probability in any part of this country has there been enacted such a scene as followed the struggle of these two great thoroughbreds for supremacy. Nearly every stride of the race was watched with feverish anxiety by the thousands, many of whom had made long journeys to enjoy the thrills of this crucial test.

Crowd Surges on Track.

When that test came in the last eighth of a mile the crowd broke forth into a tremendous roar that seemed to emit and echo the names of both contending champions. When Hourless had crossed the line a decisive victor there was no restraining the impulse of the racegoers. Hats flew high in the air, people hugged each other in joyful delirium, and before the horses had turned to return to the judges the crowd had broken bounds and the unique spectacle was presented of a mob surging on the track to surround the victorious thoroughbred.

Following this unrehearsed demonstration was another that gave the official sanction of the State of Maryland to the sport of Kings. While cameras recorded the inspiring scenes, and those nearest to him reached forward to congratulate Trainer Hildreth, Governor E. C. Harrington of Maryland stepped down from the stewards' stand and voiced the sentiments of the crowd in a speech in which he presented the gold cup, emblamatic of victory, and which was donated by Edward B. McLean as a memorial trophy in his father's name. The Governor congratulated Mr. Belmont on having the greatest horse, and also Mr. Viau on having one nearly as great. He had a few words of praise for Hildreth, and then told the crowd that it was fortunate to have seen the greatest race ever run in Maryland, and perhaps the greatest ever run in the world.

With the Governor as guest of Senator Richard A. Johnson, President of the Maryland State Fair Association, were General Kuhn, who is in command of Camp Meade, and General Nicholoson. Mr. McLean was present to see the race for the historic trophy that he had garnered from relics of past racing in far away India, and sportsmen from all over the country were in the throng that joined in praise of the new champion.

Owner Unable to See Race.

Owing to the postponement of a week August Belmont was denied the happiness of seeing the vindication of the horse he bred. He is on the ocean, and will learn of the success by wireless. Perry Belmont was there to represent the family, and in the clubhouse contingent were many New York sportsmen. Among those who made the trip from the metropolis were: Schuyler L. Parsons, Edgar Gibbs Murphy, J. T. Walters, Foxhall P. Keene, Dr. Dowd, Jesse Lewisohn, John Scholl, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Loft, James Butler, and Andrew Miller.

For these New Yorkers who are accustomed to taking their racing almost as seriously as the Englishman takes his pleasure the enthusiasm of the inhabitants of the sporting State of Maryland was as inspiring as it was astonishing. Even for Maryland the event made a red letter day. One of the ancients recalled only one day in history that compared with it. That was in 1877 when the race among Parole, Tom Ochiltree, and Ten Broeck attracted 10,000 persons to the old Pimlico track and that was the occasion when Congress adjourned for the day to see the victory of Parole.

The opportunity far eclipsed that of forty years ago. From noon until the hour set for the big encounter trains from Baltimore, Washington, and Philadelphia came in quick succession, each loaded down with racing enthusiasts. At least 1,000 automobiles added their quota so that long before the time for the first race there was not an inch of space on the stand or lawn that was not covered by human beings. The crowd was so dense that two races before the championship the infield was thrown open and several thousands tramped across the track to gain vantage points on score boards, flower beds, hurdles, and any other stand that raised them above the ground.

In order that every one present should have a chance to support his fancy with his money special mutuel machines were in operation all the afternoon on which only bets on the Omar Khayyam-Hourless race were accepted. The money poured into these machines so that when the horses were dispatched $71,000 had been wagered on the result. It had been expected that the previous victories of Omar Khayyam would establish him favorite, but Hourless had gained so many friends in his recent workouts that he was an odds on choice at the close of speculation.

Soldier Boy Rides Loser.

In the preparations for the expected success of Omar Khayyam Everett Haynes, who has been drafted, was sent for to ride the Viau candidate. The lad was at a training camp in Oklahoma, but received permission to make the trip East and arrived this morning ready to do his bit for the turf. Butwell had been posted as the rider of Hourless early in the day, but after he rode Mr. Belmont's Massa, which was beaten in the first race, Hildreth announced that he would put up Frank Robinson instead of the regular rider.

There was a long wait before the champions emerged for the test. Omar Khayyam was sent for a warming-up gallop through the stretch, while Hourless was walking in stately fashion to the paddock. Cheers greeted the spin of the English horse, but few noticed Hourless, which was wrapped in blankets. Interest became more intense as the crowd was kept in suspense while the horses were receiving their finishing touches in the paddock.

With a pony ridden by a patrol judge in hunting costume in the lead the rival candidates appeared and more cheers greeted them as they strode past the stands and judges. Hourless aroused the greatest admiration. His beautiful brown head was held high over arched neck and he looked fit to compete for show honors. Omar, behind him, stepped so daintily over the track that he scarcely made an impression in the soft dirt. He was in a playful mood and kicked up his heels as if to show that he was brimming over with life and only wanted a chance to run.

Slowly the pair walked down the chute to the starting point, and by the time they arrived there was a tenseness in the attitude of the crowd that could almost be felt. No sooner had they wheeled and reached the line than a shout rent the air. It was the old cry "They're off," but never had it been uttered with such intensity. Before it died away it was followed by another shout that Omar was leading, and then it was seen that the race was to be run from end to end.

Haynes let his mount have his head from the start, and he dashed so quickly down past the judges that a sprint race seemed to be in progress. Omar's speed was remarkable as he cut out a lead of a length and a half in the first quarter of a mile, but it was not nearly so wonderful as the manner in which Hourless kept in close touch with him. As they passed close under the eyes of the spectators in the stands it was noticed that Robinson had a tight hold of Hourless, yet under the pull he did not allow his competitor to gain more ground unnearly around the first turn. Stretching his handsome neck still further Omar Khayyam drew away a little more until there was a length of open daylight between the pair.

Robinson in No Hurry.

Robinson still kept a restraining hand on his mount, but let out a link nearing the end of the backstretch. He closed ever so little and then dropped back again so that a shout arose that he had shot his bolt and was beaten. Never were critics more astray, for, rounding the far turn, Hourless began to move up in sinuous style and crept nearer and nearer to Omar, who was still maintaining his smooth, tirelonless stride. The single spurt was all that he brought into play, and it was then that it was seen that Hourless still had a full length to retrieve.

There had been no letup in the pace, but, instead, as he straightened his horse out, Haynes swished his whip over Omar's ears and the gallant horse responded with a spurt that for a moment made it appear that he was going to leave his rival far behind. It was only for a moment that the admirers of the English horse were flattered, for, as if in answer to the spurt, Robinson let Hourless run free for the first time.

Then the magnificent reserve power of the Belmont champion became evident. He cut down the lead with mighty strides, until at the eighth pole his dark body ranged alongside of the chestnut. It was near, but not near enough, and Robinson drew his whip to put him to the real test. Two cracks were sufficient, for Hourless leaped forward and in a few strides had settled the issue. At the sixteenth pole his head was in front, and was in front to stay.

Omar Khayyam was struggling gamely, but no effort of his could withstand the meteoric rush with which Hourless took the coveted lead away at the critical time. Running straight and true as an arrow, Hourless gained at every jump, and as he passed the judges there was just a glimpse of daylight between his tail and the nose of the former champion.

Crowd Cheers Horses.

The cheers that broke forth then were almost deafening and were renewed when the great time made was hung out on the board. The crowd was almost hysterical in their praise of the winner, and as Robinson came back to the stand to weigh in he was surrounded by an admiring throng. The stage had been set for his victory and a bouquet of American roses was presented to him as soon as he left the stand.

Trainer Sam Hildreth, who finally was rewarded for his faith in Hourless, was surrounded by a crowd of well wishers on his return to the clubhouse. The usually taciturn man was beaming with joy, and said:

"I would rather have won that race than any other that I have saddled a horse for. Robinson rode a well-judged race and had Hourless in his lap all the way. If we had gone out to race Omar off his feet we would have killed him. Wasn't he a wild devil all the way?"

Richard Carman, who prepared Omar Khayyam, found fault with the pace his horse had been asked to travel in the early stages of the race. He said that he had given instructions not to go to the front unless the pace was very slow. He still believes he has the best horse and is anxious for another race.

Haynes said that Omar Khayyam was running freely all the way and that he thought he had the race won at the head of the stretch until Hourless made his great effort.

Many of the spectators left after the big race, but those who stayed behind took little interest in the other events and insisted that they had witnessed the race of the century.

JOHNSON READY FOR WAR.

American League Head to Offer Services on Monday.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—B. B. Johnson, President of the American League, said tonight that he had arranged to meet Adjtant General McCain of the army in Washington on Monday, at which time he would formally offer his service to the Government. The league executive said he did not know whether his services would be accepted, but that he was anxious to be in any capacity, without compensation.

"I am sincere in my intention," Johnson said, "and I sincerely hope that I shall be accepted for any duty, whether in this country or in France.

In anticipation that Johnson's services will be accepted, it was announced that the annual meeting of the league, usually held in December, will be held a month earlier to settle the season's business. The meeting will be held in Chicago.

After dividing the winners' share of the world series spoils, the victorious White Sox made a liberal purchase today of Liberty bonds. Pitcher Joe Benz invested his entire share—$3,666—in bonds, while other members of the club bought amounts from $100 up.

President Johnson said "Billy" Evans and "Silk" O'Loughlin, the American League umpires in the series, invested the $1,000 they received in bonds.

James C. Dunn, President of the Cleveland Americans, announced that the sixteen members of the club who will invade Montgomery, Ala., to play a series of games at Camp Sheridan, the army cantonment, have been instructed to report at Montgomery on Nov. 1. The players, who volunteered to make the trip, will play as many games with the soldier teams as are desired.

BOSTON PLAYERS JOIN NAVY.

Barry, Shorten, McNally, Shore, and Lewis Enlist as Yeomen.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Manager Jack Barry of the Boston American baseball team and four of his players who enlisted as yeomen in the naval reserves were today called for active service and ordered to report for duty Nov. 3. All are rated as first-class yeomen.

Manager Barry and Chick Shorten have been assigned to the enrolling office here. McNally and Ernie Shore are assigned to the first district paymaster's office. Duffy Lewis has not yet received his assignment, but it is believed he will be sent to the Mare Island Navy Yard.

GHOST WALKS IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Members of the world's champion White Sox team today received checks for their share of the receipts from the world's series amounting to $91,733. Each of the twenty-five players eligible to share in the money received a check for $3,669.

Most of the players planned to leave during the day for their homes in various parts of the country, though a few who it is said have accepted offers to appear in vaudeville remained here to complete arrangements for their season on the stage.

Manager Clarence Rowland will accompany President Charles A. Comiskey on his annual hunting trip in the woods of Northern Wisconsin.

Moore Defeats Heal.

Two former champions at three-cushion billiards met last night at Thum's in an Interstate Three-Cushion League match and, after a fifty-four-inning tussle, the score was, George Moore, 50, and Hugh Heal, 32. Both players made high runs of 7. On the night before Heal defeated Moore by the score of 50 to 48.

Think Fitzsimmons Fatally Ill.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Physicians attending Robert Fitzsimmons, former champion heavyweight pugilist, ill of lobar pneumonia in a hospital here, said tonight there was small hope of the patient's recovery. Fitzsimmons was appearing at a suburban theatre until yesterday, when his condition became suddenly worse and he was rushed to a hospital.

TROTTING RECORD FALLS IN ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Oct. 18.—The establishment of a new world's record for a three-year-old trotter by Miss Bertha Dillon and the defeat of St. Frisco by his old rival, Mabel Trask, featured the racing card today at the Lakewood track.

The new record was made in the second and final heat of the Matron Stake for three-year-olds, when Miss Dillon trotted the heat in 2:03¼. The purse was for $5,851.50, the largest offered so far at the meeting. Harvest Gale and Worthy Volo divided second and third money.

Mabel Trask won in the free-for-all trot against her old rival, St. Frisco. In the first heat the chestnut mare won by a nose. In the second heat she broke badly on the last turn and St. Frisco cantered in. In the third heat St. Frisco took the lead at the start and maintained it until the last quarter, Mabel Trask winning by half a length.

Peter June, the favorite in the two-year-old class, broke badly in the first heat, and in the second heat held the lead until the stretch, when Ruth Mainsheet passed the brown filly and won by a length.

The 2:08 class trotting went five heats and was not finished. Straight Sail won the first heat, Peter Chenault the second, and Fifty and Bacelli the third and fourth. Busy's Lassie and Miss Perfection were eliminated from the fifth heat by the rules. The race will be finished as the first event of the program Friday.

SUGAR TRADE GOLFERS PLAY

Sixty Members Take Part in First Tourney at Essex County.

Engaging in the first tournament of their organization, sixty members of the Sugar Trades Golf Association competed for four prizes at the Essex County Country Club yesterday. Under the guiding wing of Lewis P. Henry, the expert golfers had such an enjoyable time that it was unanimously voted to make the organization a permanent affair and also two tournaments are to be arranged for next season.

Prizes were to be had for the best net score for the morning round of eighteen holes, for the afternoon net, for a Kickers handicap and for the best selected eighteen holes net of both rounds. J. Lounsberry had the best morning net with 97, 20—77 and was closely followed by J. E. Turner, with 108, 28—78, and C. A. Crawford, with 85, 17—78. The best net of the afternoon was won by C. B. Riggs, whose card showed 91, 20—71. H. L. Scott who had 83, 20—73 was second best in the afternoon.

Three players tied for the Kicker's handicap at 79. They were J. W. Lemkau, John Bruyn and W. R. Bassett. There was another tie for the special prize offered by Samuel Lee for the best selected eighteen holes between H. L. Scott and M. Schiller, each of whom had 78.

YALE CLUB GOLF THURSDAY.

Annual Tourney to be Held Over Siwanoy Links.

Despite the absence of scores of its athletes at war, members of the Yale Club are manifesting a keen interest in the annual tournament of its golf association that promises to make the event fully as successful an amateur sport event as that of last year.

The Yale Club tournament will be held next Thursday over the links of the Siwanoy Club at Mount Vernon. The play will be continuous through both morning and afternoon for thirty-six holes. Prizes will be awarded for the best gross thirty-six and the best net thirty-six and for each of the best net eighteen holes.

There are numerous good players in the golf association of the Yale Club, and the competition is expected to be especially close and interesting. The committee in charge of the tournament comprises Arthur E. Walradt, Howard A. Palmer, J. Gavegan, George Chappell, and Charles C. Paulding. Entries are being received and other details of the event arranged by Mr. Paulding at the Yale Club.

EVANS TO PLAY OUIMET.

Golf Leaders to Meet in Match at Braeburn.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Harry L. Ayer of the Braeburn Country Club, announced today that Francis Ouimet, Western amateur golf champion, probably would be granted leave of absence from Camp Devens to meet Charles W. ("Chick") Evans, national amateur and open golf champion of America in an exhibition match at Braeburn Oct. 27. Evans has telegraphed that he will be here on that date. Mr. Ayer said he believed the military authorities would permit Ouimet to take part in the match, the proceeds of which will be given to the Camp Devens Athletic Equipment Fund.

City College Freshmen Victors.

LEONARD IN RING TONIGHT.

Lightweight Champion to Box Jack Britton at Harlem S. C.

Everything is in readiness for the ten-round bout between Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, and Jack Britton of Chicago, formerly welterweight titleholder, which will be held at the Harlem S. C. this evening. The boxers finished their training yesterday and both are reported in excellent condition. Reports from Britton's training quarters are to the effect that the Chicagoan has had little difficulty making the required weight, 139 pounds one hour before entering the ring, and will box Leonard with an advantage of about five pounds in his favor.

Leonard weighs about 135 pounds, and reports himself in splendid shape for the bout, which will be the most important he has taken part in since acquiring the lightweight title. The Harlem lad is confident that he can stop his older and more experienced rival, although Britton is generally conceded one of the best defensive boxers in the ring today.

Indications point to one of the largest crowds of the season for the bout, and the seating accommodations of the Harlem S. C. will be taxed to capacity. A heavy advance sale is reported by the officials of the club, and there are a number of tickets which the club management has withheld from public sale, which will be put on sale early this evening. The entire lower floor is reserved for box seats, and the seats in the upper tier are reserved. The contest will be refereed by Billy (Kid) McPartland.

Other bouts arranged for this evening are:

New Polo A. A.—Harry Martone vs. Barney Adair. Ten rounds.

Freeport S. C., Long Island—Tommy Madden vs. Jamaica Kid. Ten rounds.

POLLARD PLAYS AT BROWN.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 18.—It was the Brown 'Varsity versus Pollard at the daily workout of the Brunonian football squad held yesterday afternoon. For the first time this year, Pollard, last year's All-America half back and mainstay of the near champion Brown eleven, got into togs and played in a scrimmage. After fifty minutes' hard work the 'Varsity was able to push over two hard-won touchdowns. The scrubs, with Pollard in the backfield, fought the first string team from first to last.

In spite of the ineligibility of his star half back, Coach Robinson feels that he has an aggregation which will have to be counted in at the final division of spoils. With decisive victories over Rhode Island State, Johns Hopkins, and Holy Cross, the Brunonians are now ready to meet the last hard propositions on their schedule. Boston College is to be the opponent Saturday, and with both teams seeking the championship a battle royal is bound to ensue.

Charlie Huggins, veteran trainer of Brown elevens, is in a sad mental state on account of the many injured men under his care. Gordon, the star punter, has a lame back; Albright, first string half back, has an infected foot; Weeks and Sinclair, the two 'Varsity ends, are out of the game for another week; Crabb and Bowman, first choices for the guards, are also out temporarily.

With these injuries, Brown's chances in the coming battles with Colgate, Syracuse, the Second District Naval Reserves, and Dartmouth are greatly diminished. Head Coach Robinson is by no means discouraged. He feels that a real Brown team will go up against the Boston eleven, even though some of the regular men are on the bench.

COLUMBIA PERFECTS PASS.

Metcalf Teaches Players New Formations for Game.

Coach Metcalf gave the Columbia 'Varsity backfield and end candidates a long workout in both the offensive and the defensive of the forward pass yesterday afternoon. After drilling the same men in running back punts, Metcalf and Tom Thorpe, his assistant, watched the first and second lineups run through plays from the various formations. Houlahan did some fine punting, getting forty yards against the light breeze. Howard Miller tried kicking drops from the thirty-yard line. The 'Varsity scrimmaged with the second eleven, but used only straight bucks through guard and tackle.

During the earlier part of the afternoon Coaches Metcalf and Thorpe spent nearly an hour taking off some of the rough edges on the freshman eleven. Paul Garraguis, the high school star swimmer and tackle on the yearling team did not report yesterday, taking a rest after Wednesday's long scrimmage with Stuyvesant High School. On account of the poor showing of the ends, three backs have been shifted to the flank positions in an attempt to bolster up the wings.

McCabe, the veteran from last year's 'Varsity, who has been declared ineligible for football because of heart trouble, has been chosen to coach the freshmen. The yearling team will play De Witt Clinton today in the first game of their 1917 season.

NEW STAR ON N. Y. U. TEAM.

Yancsik Makes Good Showing in Violet Backfield.

With the approach of the Wesleyan game activities of the New York University football squad are increasing. Not only did the squad have the regular football drill yesterday on Ohio Field but Coach Wall held a blackboard signal drill in the gymnasium. At the regular outdoor practice later a stiff scrimmage was staged.

The 'Varsity kicked off to the freshmen, who fumbled the ball. On the first play the regulars carried the ball over the line. On two subsequent attempts, when the ball was put in play on the 20-yard line, the regulars again crossed the line on the initial play. During the rest of the afternoon both teams were put on the defensive alternately for the purpose of developing a defense for forward pass and open formation plays.

Coach Wall was especially pleased with the work of Yanosik, a newcomer at football, but for three years a member of the Violet gymnasium team and last year's Captain. Yanosik was in the back field and did some brilliant running with the ball. In all phases of the game he displayed much agility and speed.

In the scrimmage the 'Varsity did not play against the usual freshman-scrub combination but only against the freshmen. This was done to develop team work and plays among the first-year men in preparation for their first game on Saturday. This game will be preliminary to the Wesleyan game and will be against Erasmus High School at 1:45 P. M. As freshmen are debarred from 'Varsity athletics this year, a special schedule has been arranged, and is as follows: Oct. 20, Erasmus, at home; Oct. 27, Commerce, at home; Nov. 3, Kent School, at Kent, Conn.; Nov. 10, Cullum Hall, at West Point.

CHAMPION VICTOR IN N. Y. A. C. RING

Archie Walker, State Title Holder, Defeats Eisenstadt in Amateur Bout.

Archie Walker of the Irish-American A. C., holder of the New York State and Metropolitan championship titles at 108 pounds, last night demonstrated that he is in no danger of losing his laurels, when he easily won his preliminary bout in the 110-pound class of the New York Athletic Club's first formal amateur boxing tournament of the season. Fred Eisenstadt, unattached, opposed the champion and Walker so easily outclassed his rival that the judges unhesitatingly gave him the award after three interesting rounds.

Members of the club turned out in force to witness the bouts, and they were treated to a series of interesting contests in four classes. The number of entries received was unusually large, and it was nearly midnight before the final bout was ended. Several knockouts were scored, two coming in the 110-pound division, in which the victors were Paul Richman, Clark House A. A., and F. J. Mesit, St. John's Club.

The quickest knockout of the evening came in the first bout of the 120-pound class, when H. F. Sloane, Bronx Church House, scored a decisive victory over Charles Bisso, unattached, in thirty seconds of the first round of their bout. A hard left-hand blow to the body, followed by a right to the jaw, sent Bisso down for the count. In the 140-pound class Irving Riese, Radio Sporting Club, knocked out William Doyle, Washington Heights Catholic Club, in the second round of their scheduled three-round exhibition.

The summaries:

110-Pound Class.—Wm. Murphy, East Side House, defeated Andy De Coursey, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision; E. Altman, Dominican Lyceum, defeated Jean Goll, Union Settlement A. C., three rounds, judges' decision; Archie Walker, Irish-American A. C., defeated F. Eisenstadt, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision; John Baum, Tompkins Square Park A. C., defeated Jean Mase, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision; Paul Richman, Clark House A. A., defeated John McGuire, unattached, two rounds, referee's decision; Dave Hamins, Clark House A. A., defeated Thos. McKee, unattached, four rounds, judges' decision; F. J. Nesbit, St. John's Club, defeated Joseph Marinaro, St. Gregory's Lyceum, one round, referee's decision.

120-Pound Class.—H. F. Sloane, Bronx Church House, defeated Charles Bisso, unattached, one round, referee's decision; F. E. Zellner, Trinity Club, won from E. Polack, unattached, by default; A. Hirschberger, Union Settlement A. C., defeated H. J. Feuciale, Medford A. C., two rounds, referee's decision.

130-Pound Class.—A. Stollack, East Side House, defeated Joseph Hasner, National A. C., three rounds, judges' decision; J. Bernstein, unattached, defeated M. Schwinger, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision.

140-Pound Class, Novice.—M. Feinman, unattached, defeated Ed. Bisso, unattached, three rounds, judges' decision; Max Lipson, unattached, defeated M. Eisenstadt, West Side Y. M. H. A., three rounds, judges' decision; L. Reise, Ran S. C., defeated William Doyle, Washington Heights C. C., two rounds, referee's decision.

TO RACE YALE FRESHMEN.

Harriers of Harvard, 1921, Will Tackle Blue's Runners.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—Harvard and Yale freshman cross-country teams will meet on the morning of Nov. 17 at Belmont, over a six-mile course. The Harvard Athletic Committee has approved the meet, but opposes a contest between the 'Varsity harriers of each college, and has set its foot down against sending a team of Crimson runners to the intercollegiate meet later in the month.

The freshman cross-country schedule follows: Oct. 27, Andover, at Andover; Nov. 3, Wakefield High, at Wakefield; Nov. 10, Providence Technical High, at Cambridge; Nov. 17, Yale, '21, at Belmont.

GEORGETOWN LINE IS SORE.

Bruised Forwards May Have Hard Work to Hold Lehigh.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—With a green, inexperienced eleven Georgetown is to tackle the strong Lehigh team Saturday at South Bethlehem, Penn., and the best expected here is a small score by the Pennsylvanians.

Georgetown's line took a beating last Friday at Springfield, Mass., every man suffering from severe bruises and contusions as a result of that game. The heavy Springfield attack was stopped, but it took all the Georgetown men had to do it. During this week Coach Exendine has been unable to have any scrimmages, the forwards being too stiff and sore to admit of it.

F. TINNEY AND J. J. CORBETT

"Doing Our Bit" Lacks Principals, But Is Morally Regenerate.

DOING OUR BIT, an extravaganza in two acts and seventeen scenes. Dialogue and lyrics by Harold Atteridge; music by Sigmund Romberg and Herman Timberg. At the Winter Garden.

PRINCIPALS: Frank Tinney, James J. Corbett, Ed Wynn, Herman Timberg, Charles Judels, Frank Carter, Henry Lewis, Sam Ash, Andrew Harper, James Clemons, Chilson Ohrman, Sylvia Jason, Ada Lewis, Vivian Duncan, Rosetta Duncan, Roma June, Leah Nora, Virginia Fissinger, Vera Roehm, and the Cansinos.

There are, to be sure, several principals. Frank Tinney is there, with his dry, laconic comment; and, as running mate, he has acquired James J. Corbett, who owes him seventy cents, which Frank pursues from 8 o'clock sharp until 11 o'clock flat. He acquires seventy dollars incidentally; but that scarcely interests him. What he wants is the seventy cents from James. The amount of conversational small change over this matter of seventy cents is amazing. And it is often amusing.

Then there is Chilson Ohrman, who is very sedate and charming, and sings a high and dry soprano. Ada Lewis works in couple with Charles Judels. Ed. Wynn does several turns at the solo pun, and is quite delightfully amusing in the bachelor suite of a wartime hotel, wholly run by Winter Garden girls. Herman Timberg (not to be confused with Sigmund Rom of the same name, who write the music with him)—Herman Timberg, as we were saying, both dances and sings contortionally. Sam Ash sings so well that his many recalls threatened to flat the hour of 11 still further. And the Cansinos did two really marvelous Spanish dances.

And yet the Winter Garden show this year runs rather to chorus. Moreover, the chorus has taken to cover. It is on the order of a popular magazine cover—or it would be if popular magazine covers had a little more clothes on. Still, for the Winter Garden, it is cover. In brief, though the show lacks principals, it is something unprecedented in clothes.

It is rather difficult to describe those clothes. Some are Winter evening clothes that (owing no doubt to the wartime shortage of material) run very scant about the back. That is what is meant perhaps, by "Doing Our Bit." Others seem to be rather September Morning clothes. But they are always clothes. And they are always as splendid and varied in coloring as they are audacious, indeed revolutionary, in cut.

Incidentally, the young women who wear them are of a quite surprising shapeliness, youth and good looks. It is really admirable, the discretion exhibited in selecting them, costuming them, and deploying them in dance and song. One squad was of violin girls, who played quite charmingly as they danced. The leader, probably named Marian Glover, had very unusual beauty, grace, and temperament.

It may be added that the two acts have seventeen scenes, all of them spacious and several very handsome and colorful.

And that is about all.

Oh, no! The burden of this report was suggested by a conversation overheard in the lobby. One man said: "It seems to me that this show lacks principals." The other was lost for a moment in ponderous thought. "It seems rather to me," he said at last, "that it has altogether too many." The trouble is that they are all moral principles."

If one reckons the leader of the Violin Girls, probably named Marian Glover, as one of the principals, the verdict seems, on the whole, ungracious.

Benefit for Belgian Babies.

A concert for the relief of the Belgian babies was given in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon by an organization styled the Belgian Royal Concert Trio. The members are Miss Daisy Jean, who plays both violoncello and harp; Jan Callignon, bass baritone, and Gabrielle Radoux, pianist. Miss Jean played a sonata in A for the 'cello, by Boccherini, and a group of harp pieces by Belgian composers. Mr. Callignon sang in both French and Flemish, his songs including a number of Flemish folksongs, and Miss Radoux played pieces by Benoit and Dubois. The audience was moderate in size; not what is the case of the Belgian babies merited.

'On with the Dance' for the Republic

"On with the Dance," a drama by Michael Morton, is announced for production at the Republic Theatre on the night of Monday, Oct. 29. The cast is headed by John Mason, Eileen Huban, William Morris, Julia Dean, and Edward Abeles. "Peter Ibbetson," now at the Republic, will be moved to the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, where it will continue until Nov. 12. "The Land of the Free," at present at the Forty-eighth Street, will accordingly be withdrawn on Oc. 27.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

William Faversham began his season in "The Old Country" last night at the Lyceum Theatre, Rochester. The play is a comedy by Dion Calthorp, and will be brought into the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre on Monday, Oct. 29.

Douglas Fairbanks arrived in New York Wednesday from the West, and will leave again tomorrow for California. He appeared yesterday at Lord & Taylor's and McCreery's as a Liberty Bond salesman.

The students of the Washington Square Players School of the Theatre will give performances tonight and tomorrow night at Camp Upton.

MUSIC NOTES.

Special music has been arranged by Pierre Monteux and David Mannes for the "Rosemary" pageant, to be repeated on Thursday and Friday evenings, Oct. 25 and 26, at the Metropolitan.

Agide Jacchia will lead a week of grand opera at the Brooklyn Academy, beginning next Monday, Oct. 22, with "La Boheme," for the benefit of the Italian war sufferers.

Alice Capen of Boston gave the first of the Brooklyn Institute's evening lectures at the Academy last night on "Hawaiian Music."

The Trio de Lutece will appear in place of the Flonzaley Quartet on Saturday evening at Washington Irving High School.

Elizabeth Rothwell has cancelled her concert at Aeolian Hall next Monday afternoon on account of severe illness.

Joseph Bonnet, the French organist, will give five historical recitals at the Hotel Astor, starting Nov. 12.

Spirit of All the Allies Behind Coming Bazaar.

The efforts which are to be made to introduce the new spirit of fraternity with the Allies into "Hero Land," the Allied War Relief Benefit, to be held at the Grand Central Palace beginning Nov. 24, became manifest at the first meeting in the interest of the bazaar held yesterday at the Ritz-Carlton, when Major Ian Hay Beith spoke before several hundred women who have the affair in charge.

"We must go forward together," said Major Beith. "If we move apart through overconfidence or differences of view or through petty jealousy our labor is wasted. The whole of the enemy's insidious underground machinery is at work today endeavoring to sow seeds of dissension among the allied forces. When the American flotilla came over to England it took over certain duties from the British flotilla which was hard worked. The Germans said that the Americans were going to do all the work, and that it was the intention of the British flotilla to quit work until the end of the war, leaving the American forces to bear the burden. While I was there Admiral Bailey told me to knock in the head this poisonous suggestion of any conflict between the American and the British sailors. He wished this message to be passed on. It is up to us here to show that we are together."

More than 5,000 preminent men and women are now actively engaged in carrying out the details of "Hero Land," which is to be the most elaborate war relief undertaking the United States has yet seen.

NEW BARRIE PLAY PRODUCED

London Papers Praise "Dear Brutus" as Stage Fantasy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Barrie's new play, "Dear Brutus," produced at Wyndham's Theatre last night, sets forth the problem as to whether people, if given a second chance in life, would be any happier for it. The second act passes in "the wood of a second chance," where the problem is worked out. Visitors to the wood are given their second chance, but they find in the end that they are altered. The play gets its title from the lines in "Julius Caesar": "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are underlings."

The Chronicle describes the play as a delicious little fantasy full of elfish wit and human tenderness. The Daily Graphic says it will live as a classic among exquisite fantasies.

NEW JAPANESE MISSION

Coming to Devise Means of Closer Business Relations with Us.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Word reached Washington today that the Economic Mission which is being sent to the United States by the Japanese Government probably will arrive in this country in about two weeks. The commission is composed of five prominent officials selected for their ability in the finance or economic field, and also four business men actively identified with large financial and industrial interests of Japan. They will study financial and economic conditions here and devise means, if possible, for closer business relations between the United States and Japan, especially with respect of the Far East.

Baron Tanetaro Megata, the first student sent to the United States by the Tokugawa Shogunate and the first Japanese graduate of Harvard, heads the mission. His appointment was received from the Emperor, an indication of the importance attached to the mission's undertaking. He is an authority on financial subjects and for twenty-five years, following his graduation from Harvard in 1874, held various high positions in the finance department.

Other members of the mission are Baron Bunkichi Ito, Secretary of the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, and son of the late Prince Ito, Japan's famous statesman; Osamu Matsumoto, Secretary of the Department of Finance, an expert on international exchange and finance; Takunosuke Sakaguchi, also of the Department of Finance; Dr. Saiji Hishida, Secretary and Interpreter in the Bureau of the Korean Governor General, who for a number of years has compiled the annual reports of the Korean Government, which have been published in English; Umekichi Yoneyama, Director of the Mitsui Bank; Yoshitaro Yamashita, Director of the well-known firm of Sumitomo, and the son-in-law of Baron Tziu; Genjiro Matsumoto, director of the Yasukawa Mining Company, and Shogo Koike, director of the Kuhara Mining Company.

SABIN TO BE TREASURER.

Accepts Appointment for War Camp Ammunition Service Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Charles H. Sabin of New York, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, has accepted appointment as Treasurer of the national fund for the war camp community service.

At a national conference here next Tuesday delegates from all parts of the country will discuss the need of making camp surroundings such as to contribute to the morale of the American soldiers. At a meeting of the National Committee, of which John M. Willys is Chairman, final plans will be made for the nation-wide campaign to raise "three dollars for each soldier and sailor" to provide for the men all the forms of proper recreation.

Red Cross Theatrical Day Postponed

Red Cross Theatrical Day, on which performances are to be given simultaneously all over the country for the Red Cross, has been postponed from Oct. 26 until Dec. 7, so as not to divert attention from the Liberty Loan campaign. More than 250 theatre managers have volunteered to give their entire receipts to the Red Cross on that day, and a number of prominent actors have promised to contribute their salaries.

AMERICAN LETTER STARTS PEACE TALK

SHALL WAR STOP OR GO ON?

No Peace Till World Is Made Safe, Says Britisher—Start Peace Ball Rolling Now, American Urges.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

LONDON, Sept. 19. — Letters from friends in America propound questions that cannot always be answered directly or categorically, but often furnish texts for interesting discussion on points of view fresh from home sources. One of these questions I took with me today to a luncheon and tossed it into the midst of the post-prandial discussion, in which an Englishman internationally known, a diplomatist and a newspaperman participated. The extract from the letter was:

I have noticed of late—and possibly it is significant—that peace seems to be the subject chiefly discussed when representative statesmen of the different countries at war speak for the public. It is a terrible discredit to the intelligence of this generation that a war such as the present one must be continued at such cost. Still, I suppose, it is necessary and must be continued until each of the nations involved has put itself in such a position that it can speak effectively as a nation concerning its foreign relations.

This, of course, is already possible in the United States, France, and England, and I assume in Italy. I fancy it would be a very simple matter to make it so in fact in Austria and Hungary, but apparently the German people still have no determining voice concerning their foreign policy. Possibly, if that matter could be brought home to the German people, it might help bring about an early understanding. In the meantime, while we in America regret the conditions, I believe that every one feels that the harder we hit the sooner will the war be over.

The passage was read aloud, and the substance of the ensuing conversation is given herewith:

Germany and Democracy.

Englishman—It's no use trying to import democratic ideas into Germany from the outside. It only makes the Germans ugly and perverse. Any democratic movement must come from within.

First American—And there is good standing ground for the contention that the typical German genius for industry and commerce needs to be yoked up with a strong centralized Government. I for one believe that German militarism has provided inspiration, organization and driving power for German trade conquest. The fact that the Germans believe this makes it hard for them to accept democracy. And what a mess Russia has made in the name of democracy!

Second American—Add to militarism the part played by it in Germany's industrial greatness and subtract the damage done to Germany by the war, and what have you got left to the credit of that militarism?

First American—Coming back to the question of peace parleying, there is no stopping until Germany's defeat is accomplished. The longest way around is the shortest cut across.

Englishman—Look at the map. If peace were made on any terms that we could conceive of Germany's accepting, a Mitteleuropa would be automatically set up that would be world-dominating. Even if Belgium were restored, there would still be a German holding control of Austria-Hungary, Poland, West Russia, all the Balkan States, and Turkey, all the way to Bagdad. It is unthinkable.

Second American—Could Germany long hold such a combination? Either she would be selfish and drive her temporary allies into other affiliations or, being unselfish, would fail of her purposes. I can't conceive of Austria and Turkey staying under Germany's harrow with the Entente Allies constantly tempting them. Maps are not empires, and treaties cannot transform heterogeneous peoples into loyal States.

Englishman—You overlook the power of a victorious oligarchy.

A Friendless Germany.

Second American—Victorious in what? War maps? Germany won't have a single friend. She will be financially bankrupt. Never did a ruined and wasted people begin a new career with such poverty of substance and credit.

First American—But there will be the Hohenzollern dynasty, unbroken militarism, and a triumphant army.

Second American—If my information is correct, the democratization of Germany has been going on apace among the soldiers in the trenches, and is today an accomplished fact. Never again will the young manhood of the country permit itself to be flung into the holocaust of war by the caprice of a sovereign. The present Kaiser may not be dethroned, but the Crown Prince will never succeed him as an autocrat. If William II. should die tomorrow, the issue of autocracy versus democracy would be settled in Germany.

Englishman—I should like to think that the leaven has been working to that extent. But as a fact is there any prospect of Germany's coming to her senses? And if so, what is the impelling reason?

Second American—With all modesty, I reply, America's entry into the war.

Englishman—I proudly admit America's potential resources, but is the inevitable delay not too great to affect Germany's present state of mind?

Second American—I call Lord Northcliffe.

First American—A good witness.

Englishman—His articles have made a deep impression, but he could do more good if he were here with his whip in his hand. But let us return to Germany. We are all agreed in England that we must go on at whatever cost until future generations are freed from the menace of militarism.

Second American—Have you counted the cost?

Englishman—It will be great.

Counting the Cost.

Second American—Even so, can you be sufficiently assured of the result that you desire to spend the irreplaceable manhood of England and France so lavishly? Can you tell me specifically just how you propose to force Germany to her knees even at the end of such sacrifices?

Englishman—I will give you an illustration. I once asked a man familiar with the subject if two ships of the same size going in opposite directions at the same speed should meet head on, stem to stem, what would happen. "The surviving ship would be the one that had on board officers and men with the most grit and staying power," he replied. That's the way England counts on winning against Germany.

Second American—Mere deadweight power of resistance is not enough against highly skilled militants, who are also thoroughly disciplined in their civil relationships. Sitting tight in the good old British way won't necessarily win. You've got to fight with hands, feet, claws and teeth. And you've got to be resourceful against people who never sleep. Perhaps in the past you took too much British bulldog for granted and did too little hustling.

Englishman—We have accomplished great things in putting an army in the field.

Second American—To come back to the questions raised by my correspondent, is there nothing to do but go on, regardless of the cost?

Englishman—I ask you if Germany—the real Germany—has any idea of anything but a "white peace" from the Entente point of view? Is there any element in Germany worth considering that has the faintest notion of a peace that we could accept with honor, safety and decency?

Starting Point for Peace.

Second American—Everything must have a beginning. I do think that some proposal might come out of the heart of Germany that the Entente Allies should not dismiss with a scornful imputation of base motives—some proposal, in short, that might serve as a starting point in a serious peace discussion. I don't think it is at all necessary to a vigorous prosecution of the war that a wish, a thought, or even a definite concept of peace should be regarded as an act of treason. I distinctly think that the Germans have the better of us there on the psychology. Nobody can accuse them of lack of war vigor, but they shout their peace desires from the housetops.

First American—There may come a time when peace can be discussed, but it is not now.

Englishman—To talk peace is to play Germany's game.

And so the discussion ended.

Seeing America First

has been a delightful revelation to many Americans who used to think that they could attain travel en joyment only by means of an ocean liner.

Seeing the American label first has been just as pleasant a surprise to many who used to think that superior champagne could reach them only via an ocean freighter.

So, all 'round, America has come into her own, and hereafter, war or no war, people will see this American wine first.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1917.

A BROOKLYN LAWYER.

In the documented study of a too long obscure Brooklyn lawyer, which The World is publishing as a serial, the various chapters are of curious interest; they form in the mind a general and strong impression. The strange misfortune, coincidence, or habit which brought him into association with shady promoters, the ingenuous defenses of him by men of doubtful or not at all doubtful reputations, the receipt and cashing of checks from an arch-swindler, whom he thanks for his interest in his behalf, but never met, he says, the tenuous explanation by a person of whom a Justice of the Supreme Court has said that there is "strong reason to suspect" that he was in a conspiracy to defraud men "apparently tools" of the arch-swindler GOSLIN, bring at the least the feeling that the Brooklyn lawyer kept choice company. If the affidavit of GOSLIN is not to be trusted, GOSLIN'S checks payable and cashed by the Brooklyn lawyer create a presumption. It is hard to believe that a clever crook like GOSLIN made checks to a man he did not know. GOSLIN was not in business for the good that he could do, except to himself.

Whatever the fact of this particular transaction, or of others, accepting as truth of Holy Writ all the apologias, defenses, and timely custom-made affidavits he relies on, we see a lawyer who by fate or disposition or transcendental guilelessness was close to the hunters of easy money, chevaliers of industry, gull-catchers. We see him involved in a series of acts of dubious import, as we see him now defended by persons of dubious character. The type of the petty lawyer, the nurser of a difficult income by shift and device, falling easily by necessity, or a certain moral carelessness, or obtuseness into practices skirting narrowly or passing boldly the standard of legal ethics, is familiar enough. Whether Judge HYLAN is or was a man of that type, or whether, giving generosity full rein, we assume that he is the victim of ignorance, of a beautifully trustful nature, of too little knowledge of men and the wiles of crooks and the ways of business, what qualification has he to be Mayor of New York? Have pleayune, mean affairs taught him the art of administration? Is a man who, on the most charitable interpretation, has been associated virtuously with tortuous operations and actions, with the milking of the public by chicane, who has been mixed up with malodorous persons and affairs—is such a man, take the worst or the best view of him you can, fit to be Mayor of New York?

If he is not to be judged by the company he used to keep, what shall be thought of his intelligence, his discrimination, his knowledge of men? What sort of appointments to office, what sort of administration is to be expected from him?

And not merely by his associates, but by his own conduct as a lawyer is he to be judged. A lawyer who collects a judgment of $3,780, offers to give his client $1,500 of the amount, tries to get him to invest $500 of that in a company he is organizing, and only on the institution of a lawsuit is made to pay some $1,500 more, a lawyer who tries to charge his client, a relative by marriage, $2,280 for collecting $3,780, that lawyer is, by the grace of Mr. HEARST and Mr. MURPHY, to be Mayor and preside, a strange figure, over the Board of Estimate and Apportionment!

Judge HYLAN may explain, if he can, as best he can, this and the other queer doings with which he is charged. The cumulative effect upon the public, the effect, begetting rage and despair, among his supporters, remains. No candidate like this, no candidate so helpless in the present, with a past of such littleness, has appeared before in the rich annals of Tammany, that nursery of strange statesmen. Why did the choice fall on such a man? Judge HYLAN'S nominators will not tell.

KAISER AND SULTAN.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 17.—A dispatch from Constantinople says the Sultan of Turkey has conferred on the Kaiser the diamond star of the Iftichar Order, Turkey's highest war decoration, and that the Kaiser presented to the Sultan the star and chain of the Hohenzollern Order with diamonds.

The martyred dead of "Scio's rocky isle," for centuries unavenged, the victims of Turkish massacres in Herzegovina's glens, of Turkish atrocities in Bulgaria's rocky fastnesses, the hosts freshly slain in Armenia, upon the one hand; and upon the other the shades of all the millions who lie in graves upon the battlefields of France, Belgium and Poland, of Galicia and Rumania, of Macedonia and Mesopotamia, and of thousands who have been sent unwarned and unknelled to burial beneath the waters of the sea, looked upon this strange, astounding scene. These two men, in their unapproachable supremacy as the world's greatest destroyers of human lives, with hands drenched in blood, blood enough in all literalness to incarnadine the seas, affixed each to the breast of the other an order of highest distinction, symbols and testimonies of exalted rank in the terrible art they practice and do not shudder at.

ALEXANDER BORGIA should have been there to confer his blessing upon this twain, who have so far surpassed him that his deeds of horror dwindle to mere peccadillos.

TOO MANY LOAN SLACKERS.

The Chairman of the Minneapolis district tells THE TIMES that that district is not backward or deficient in its Liberty Loan subscriptions, and that when the returns are all in there will be no cause for complaint. We are glad to hear it. Minneapolis did not feel called upon to begin its work until Monday, and therefore did not make the reports which were coming from other districts. Minneapolis yesterday reported itself eighth in rank among the twelve districts, or ninth in the larger unofficial estimates. That is about where it ought to rank, according to bank clearings.

The correct standard for testing slackness, in fact, leaves no room for any district to boast. San Francisco heads the list, but has only 45 per cent. of its quota subscribed. New York heads the list in total, but has less than a third of its quota subscribed. The German loan closed yesterday, and there are due to arrive figures which will make Americans in general as resentful of the reproach of slackness as Minneapolis is. The result will be the same in every district as it was in Minneapolis. There is not one district in the nation which will submit tamely to the reproach of doing less than its duty in the cause of democracy. Germany will not allow its loan to fail. It prints the money which is paid in for the bonds and paid out for the work which sustains the German fighters. There are incidental objections to that method. Germans never dreamed of such wages as they are getting, but the paper money does not provide the necessities of life.

Americans have to pay gold for their Liberty bonds, but they would not know they were at war so far as their physical necessities are concerned. The Germans get their paper money easily, and they take bonds easily, but the saving of a surplus from their earnings means more self-denial for them than for us. All the more shame if we seem slackers in comparison with Germans. All the greater the reproach for the Federal Reserve district which either foots the list or which falls below its standard. Like the others, this district is backward and deficient now, but, like Minneapolis, New York is confident that when the returns are all in the result will be satisfactory. But that American can hardly sleep nights who carries in the back of his head the knowledge that the loan to rescue liberty succeeded in spite of him instead of by his active help.

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA.

After ten months of arduous effort, Germany's peace campaign has failed to provoke an answer from any of her enemies; yet it has not been altogether unsuccessful. She has failed to get England, France, or Italy to discuss peace, but she has got Austria discussing it. There are no peace negotiations going on between Germany and the United States, but there are active peace negotiations going on between Germany and Austria. The two allies started out gayly side by side, but they have got off their horses to argue with each other. The situation becomes almost comic when it is noted that the peace controversy is assuming the form of a demand by Austria that Germany state her terms, and of the usual slippery evasions of the demand by Germany; comic, in view of the fact that both of them haughtily announced last December, at the opening of their peace campaign, that they were graciously willing to listen to the peace terms of their enemies.

When Germany took Austria along with her on this ten months' campaign she had no thought of anything but a German peace. She has no other thought still, for that matter. But it was a dangerous thing to take such a comrade as Austria on that fishing excursion. Austria needs peace too much. The German policy was to talk as if an honorable peace could be had, but always to avoid hinting the terms, and thus to inveigle the enemy into a conference at which they would discover there was no outcome except a German one. Germany contemplated being able to talk about peace for months and yet never to hint at the terms. It seemed an impossibility, and yet for ten months Germany has succeeded in walking that tightrope, and appears able to keep it up.

But, however Austria may have lent herself to this trickery at the beginning, it is impossible to talk about bread to a hungry man without getting him interested. More and more Austria has shown a growing unsteadiness, a growing desire to get off the tightrope and talk real peace terms; impossible terms, German terms, terms to which none of the Allies would listen for a moment, but still terms. And the German program contemplated the careful and permanent exclusion of any definite word until the Allies had been fairly trapped into the peace conference. She relied on her ability to keep this trickery up while all the time adding to the pacifist strength in enemy countries, and her confidence in her own ability was justified; but she relied too much on Austria. The more Austria has talked of peace in aid of Germany's campaign, the more she has grown to want it, and the harder it has become to keep her own people quiet. The divergence between the two has increased until today it seems as if Germany must either yield something to Austria's demand for a statement of terms or admit the fraudulent peace campaign to be a failure. After ten months the Allies are still dumb, but Austria is becoming vocal. She cannot long remain silent, for she hears the outcries of her own people, her ears catch the sinister sounds from Pola, where the crews of her submarines are in revolt against their officers, where officers have been killed in clashes between Austrian and German sailors. Austria can read the omen.

THE DELAYED BONDS.

There is necessary delay in the delivery of the first Liberty bonds. It is regrettable, but there is already apparent an improvement in the deliveries of the second Liberty bonds. The 4 per cents. are being delivered first, although offered later, because of what was learned in the floating of the first loan. The 3½s could not have been put into stock in advance of offering because nobody knew in what denominations they would be wanted, and, therefore, there was no basis for calculation of how many to prepare of each variety. A bond is a costly piece of paper, either to print or to handle after printed, and prudence was necessary. It is fortunate that this course was taken, for the result of the subscription was amazing.

Everybody was taken by surprise at the receipt of four million subscriptions. It was unprecedented in our national history. When the requisitions for the bonds came in, it appeared that they were wanted in denominations necessitating the printing of "pieces" numbering between two and three times the number of subscribers. The facilities of the Bureau of Printing were not equal to the demand upon it, and before the work was got fairly under way the necessity for a second loan appeared. The first loan is exchangeable for the second, which bears a higher rate of interest, but there are tax considerations which make the first loan more desirable to some. Therefore, now it is uncertain how numerous the exchanges will be, and hence impossible to say just how many will be wanted of either the first or second issues. It is certain that sales of the 4s will be helped by deliveries over the counter, and provision is made for such cases, but there will be some delay in the deliveries of the last of the 4s too.

Uneasiness on the part of those taking and paying for small sums of bonds at not receiving them is natural. It is necessary that they should appreciate the difficulties of the case. The buyers of the bonds should consider that the Treasury cannot give out the bonds for sale on memorandum to everybody. Yet it is necessary that the bonds should be distributed through as many agencies as possible. The only way in which it can be done is by the use of temporary receipts. They can be printed in any numbers, and issued to any responsible person. They have no value until issued by whoever receives money for the Treasury, but are just as good as the bonds for temporary possession. They have no coupon sheets, for they will be exchanged for the bonds themselves. They carry interest, although they are without coupons, and for all practical purposes they are as good as the bonds to the holders, and a great convenience and money saver for the Treasury. Those used to bond dealings know this, but it seems necessary to explain it to those who are making their first investments in "governments."

LA FOLLETTE ENJOYS HIMSELF.

The accusation of disloyalty against a Senator is like an imputation upon the courage of a soldier or the virtue of a woman; it is the accusation of all others which should intolerably wound him. It does not wound Senator LA FOLLETTE. He walks jauntily into the room of the committee that is investigating him and demands that he be treated as a criminal, that all the technicalities of the criminal law be invoked in his defense. Then he strides happily from the room, with a satisfied smile on his face; he has put them in a hole; that is a trick they weren't expecting; he rather flatters himself they'll find they have caught a Tartar. Probably, if any one had followed him to the underground cavern in the Capitol where his office is, and the road to which has been trodden by so many pacifists and Socialists seeking counsel, LA FOLLETTE would have been found there full of glee, perhaps humming a tune.

There is only one class to which public opinion is without terrors, and that is the professional criminal class. No professional criminal is in the least disturbed or displeased by the knowledge that other men look upon him with scorn or loathing. This attribute of criminal psychology is never found in other classes as such. There have been men here and there who had it without belonging to the criminal class, but they have been such exceptions that it has fallen to the lot of few to meet them, and when one has been encountered he has been looked upon with a strange curiosity. Obviously Senator LA FOLLETTE is one of these exceptions.

While he lies under the stigma of this blasting imputation, while he jauntily seeks to put his judges "in a hole" by demanding the privileges of a criminal, he goes ahead undisturbed and happy with aggravated repetitions of the acts which have fostered the charge against him. He is busy circulating, at Government expense, 300,000 copies of his speeches attacking the acts of that Government. The Government Printing Office printed them, the Post Office Department is paying for their distribution. He is in a hurry; his first order for 100,000 copies was a rush order. He followed it nine days later with an order for 100,000 more, and since then he has placed two more orders, one for 100,000 and another, within two days, for 10,000.

The measures he attacked in these speeches have now become law. It is not for the purpose of having them repealed that Senator LA FOLLETTE is keeping the Government Printing Office and the Post Office Department busy. It is for the purpose of communicating to 300,000 other minds the dissatisfaction which Mr. LA FOLLETTE feels with the course of the Government. Why does he wish to create or increase dissatisfaction in their minds? We will not say that his object is a disloyal one, for when Senator LA FOLLETTE is charged with disloyalty he insists upon having the privileges of a criminal and shakes with laughter over that smart retort; and we do not wish to increase the measure of his pleasure in his own cleverness.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

They Will Not Keep to the Question.

It is a curious fact that the noisy antagonists of the Gary system know so little about it that they rarely attack any of its essential features and do practically all their talking about its imaginary characteristics or about details of its operation here which, if they really are objectionable, can be remedied without in any way affecting the principle of "study, work, play," which is the fundamental element. Of serious discussion almost none is coming from the opposition, and no attention at all is given to such obvious merits, comprehensible even to people who have given no particular study to educational problems, as that the system, to whatever extent it is applied, tends to abolish the "part time" evil, and that, if it covered the whole city, every child would be provided with full school accommodations without any immediate increase in the number of school buildings.

That fact ought to appeal to all parents, whether they know themselves to be taxpayers or are taxpayers without realizing it.

A good many of the teachers, too, from whom more intelligent criticism might be expected, are doing what they can to obstruct the innovation on the ground that under the Gary plan they are or will be overworked, and break down under the strains to which they are or will be subjected. But there is nothing in the Gary system that either requires or asks that teachers should be overworked. Whether they would be or would not be, as the schedule of hours is at present laid out, is a question to be debated by itself, quite without reference to the system itself. If the teachers can prove their contention, they will not have, or at any rate they should not have, much difficulty in convincing the Board of Education of the necessity, under the new scheme, of employing enough teachers to permit the performing of the allotted tasks without inflicting any injuries on the teaching staff. That would be vastly better than trying to prevent altogether a change for many reasons believed to be advantageous.

A Reasonable Kind of Pacifism.

Again has HENRY FORD, by making a big subscription to the Liberty Loan, demonstrated that though one may be a pacifist of the most convinced sort, it is still possible to appreciate and act on reasons for making participation in war effective. Once Mr. FORD'S pacifism was about as trying to the patience of normally pugnacious Americans as it could be without inviting criticism as disloyal and pro-German. He never did expose himself to either of those suspicions, it is only fair to state, even in the days when he walked the land and sailed the sea in a sort of dream about "getting the soldiers out of the trenches by Christmas." But now, as has already been noted, his object is to do what he can toward getting American soldiers into the trenches as much before or as soon after Christmas as energy and money, both judiciously used, will permit.

Still insisting that he remains a pacifist, what Mr. FORD now does shows that he is one only as everybody else of sanity and decency is a pacifist. In disliking war, and even in hating it, he differs in no respect from other civilized men and women, and he is like them in seeing and admitting that there are times when war is the only argument against oncoming enemies—the only remedy for desperate evils. This, in all essential particulars, separates Mr. FORD from the strangely heterogeneous group to the members of which the name of pacifist is applied by present usage.

He is as much of a militarist as is the most eager volunteer for active service at the front, for he is doing what he can to get that volunteer where he wants to be and to supply him as well as possible with the means of restoring to the world peace on the conditions that make peace worth while. Mr. FORD tried to end the war in another way, and when that way failed he very promptly abandoned it. That he did so caused great grief throughout the circle in which he then moved, but it proved that not only as a manufacturer does he believe in efficiency and disbelieve in its opposite.

Evidently Ready for Trial.

That once widely, if not very well, known statesman, RICHARD F. PETTIGREW of South Dakota, is apparently eager to emerge into the visibility he so often enjoyed while a member of the United States Senate. No other reason, at any rate, can be suggested for his haste to confirm the rumors that he has been saying things about the war and the Administration that justify indicting him for sedition of a grave kind.

Told that an indictment had already been found, he has proceeded to prove that it was well found. He did state publicly, he says, that we are in a war in which we have no business to be, that our poor excuse for being in it is that certain people insisted on traveling on ships on which they had no business to travel, and that the right thing for us to do now would be to back out at once. As if this were not enough to establish his right to a trial, he adds that he sent out a letter headed, "Making the world safe for hypocrisy," and dedicated to WOODROW WILSON.

These admissions ought to serve the sometime Senator's purpose and make him the subject of quite a lot of talk.

IS GERMANY WEAKENING?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the statement of your Washington correspondent in today's issue predicting the "Wreck of Teuton power in another year": I am glad he calls it a "general sentiment" instead of using the more positive word—belief. There is no aggregation of reports possible that will even approximately forecast the end of this war. "The internal break forecast" is merely discounting the hope for this most desirable event; but the chances are that the German Navy disaffection has been much exaggerated for the definite and particular purpose of starting and fostering just such misleading guesses. England as well as the United States has had to meet a campaign of palliative and misleading rumors that were obviously started to lessen speed and dull the fighting edge by instilling a nation-wide belief in the near end of the war. A multitude of alleged "facts" were reported, such as German shortage of men, metals, food, and wool, the forced labor in munition shops as systematically turning out imperfect shells, the near approach of mutiny and shooting of officers in the trenches, the insurrection of German women, the separate peace of Hungary, and the breaking apart of the Austrian Empire, and so on. These are a few of the "misleads" and prophesies of similar type, and it is to be recommended that they be read in the light of your editorial article in today's issue on "The Rumor as a Weapon."

As authority for my statements I may mention that from May, 1916, until last month I served in England as inspecting and investigating engineer for the Ministry of Munitions, the War Office, and the Naval Board, and my last office was acting chief delution officer for London and district. In these capacities my contacts were as wide as the British service at its sources, and my judgment of the time of the war ending is just as much a guess as the guess of any other person, be he the Secretary of War or an Alaskan miner.

There is one thing, however, that must be mentioned. We are newcomers into this war, and we have not yet caught the psychology of our allies, and when your correspondent states that "the Central Powers will * * * be prepared to make substantial concessions for peace," it is time for us to waken to the fact that there are no concessions, whatever, that the Central Powers can make that will end the war. The forced and unconditional surrender of the Central Powers will end the war, but nothing short of this.

LINKING BANK AND PEOPLE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I send you a letter which the National Iron Bank of Morristown has sent out to all of its customers and friends, and which I think ought to be given great publicity. In this country the banks and the common people are not in touch; in France they are—to the advantage of both! But the action of this bank demonstrates how here in America in the present emergency the banks and the people can be linked together to their mutual advantage.

H. E. HOOPER.

[Inclosure.]
Morristown, N. J., Oct. 6, 1917.

Dear Sir: I want to know if you will cooperate with your bank to give all the assistance it can to our Government at this time.

I believe that if the present Liberty Loan is subscribed for twice over—that is, if six thousand millions are offered by the people of the United States to the Government instead of the three thousand millions asked for—it will make the German people realize that it is best for them to give up quickly and not to wait until we put into the firing line men in the same proportion that we are now putting in dollars.

The Directors of our bank recognize that at the present time it is their duty to do everything in their power to help the Government rather than to make profits for the stockholders. Therefore, it has been decided to make loans at 4 per cent., instead of the usual 6 per cent., to our customers who take the new Liberty Loan Bonds.

Won't you allow us to send in a subscription in your name—the larger the better—and we will advance you practically all the purchase money? For instance, if you decide that $1,000 is all you can afford to subscribe for, send us your check for $20 and we will buy in your name a $1,000 bond. We will only charge you interest on the balance ($980) at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum—just the rate the Government will be paying you. As soon as we have received the bond we will arrange with you convenient terms for the payment of the balance from future savings. We want you to know that we will do everything in our power to assist you in carrying the loan as long as necessary. ROBERT D. FOOTE, President.

HILLQUIT NOT THE MAN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a radical of long standing, I have many notions in common with Mr. Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, but I cannot vote for him. Without calling in question his honesty or ability, I cannot overlook the quaint and curious gang which his election would carry into power. "The trouble with revolutions," said a reformer friend to me the other day, "is this: They give executive power to 'preachers' like you and me. It would be a calamity for public service if either of us were elected to office."

He was right. The propagandist, the soap-box orator, the magazine reformer are all temperamentally unfit to govern, and a very large number of these, I regret to say, are advocating Mr. Hillquit's election.

Personally Mr. Hillquit is, I believe, honest and able; but we are not ready to hand over to a foreign-born man the enormously important and complicated affairs of New York City, especially when we know that behind him are all those who are opposed to military service and bitterly antagonistic to all that President Wilson is doing for the defense of American institutions.

Without any question, all or most of the disloyal, selfish, and corrupt elements of the city are arrayed against Mayor Mitchel, who has demonstrated his integrity, as well as his executive ability. He has made a Mayor that we can be proud of—an executive of energy, decision, and high purpose. To put a doubtful man into his place at this time would be to weaken our line of defense, for New York City is peculiarly vulnerable to inside as well as outside attack. It is filled with men who are essentially traitors to the commonwealth that shelters them, and the election of Mr. Hylan or Mr. Hillquit would be a civic setback, almost a civic calamity. THE PERPLEXING FORMULA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When Professor Borodin, member of the Russian Commission, called on me last June, and I asked him how in Russia they translate the formula, "Peace without annexation and indemnity," he answered: "Mir bez annexiy e contributsiy," that is, peace without annexation and contribution. Whereupon I expressed my opinion that Russian workmen and soldiers cannot understand foreign words such as annexation and contribution without a thorough explanation. "Certainly they do not," confirmed Professor Borodin, "hence our troubles."

If two educated persons, like Mr. Slobodin and Dr. Worschin, both knowing Russian and English, cannot agree on translating that formula, as their letters in THE TIMES show, how much more should be perplexed the Council of Russian Workmen and Soldiers, most of whom did not pass even primary school.

The Russians claim that their language is unusually rich, and so it is, perhaps, but the trouble is that in international matters they prefer using foreign words understood all over the world. So in this case, too, they speak of annexation and contribution, while their own terms would be explanatory words, such as "forcible addition of territory" and "compensation for losses." PETER J. POPOFF.

Lenses for Our Army.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The aviation service is the eye of the modern army. It must record what it sees. It must have lenses. Lenses are made of optical glass. Optical glass is not yet produced in the United States in sufficient quantities to make all the lenses that are now needed. The United States Army needs every lens in the United States which is suited for aviation cameras. It especially and most urgently needs Tessars and Heliars, f: 3.4 or f: 4.5, of focal lengths from 8¼ to 20 inches. It needs these lenses at once, and it needs all of them. If they are not furnished voluntarily, they will be taken at a fixed price, as has been done in England. Therefore, let every photographer who owns lenses of this type immediately notify the Photographic Division of the Signal Corps, U. S. A., Mills Building Annex, Washington, D. C., of the price at which he will sell to the United States Army every lens he has of this description.

Also the army needs 12 and 14 inch condensers. Every camera club which has these in its enlarging apparatus should let the Government have them. Notify the same address.

Sell your lenses to the Government at less than you paid for them, as little as you can afford to take, and when you get the money, buy a Liberty bond with it.

FRANK R. FRAPRIE,
Editor American Photography.
Boston, Oct. 17, 1917.

Edward A. Dithmar.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES of this morning sounded a sad note. I can't remember when I first knew Mr. Dithmar, but am sure it was in the early days when he had so much to do with the everyday work of the drama; and now that he has passed from his chosen activities, in our estimate of his character, we can say of him that he was a journalist of the best type, equal to whatever work he had to do, and in all things faithful. I sympathize with you in the loss of such a stanch friend and reliable co-worker.

THE PLEDGE—A SONG.

From mighty Hudson's brimming waters,
To blue Pacific's wide and boundless sea,
There dwell Columbia's loyal sons and daughters,
There is the land where men in truth are free.

Chorus:
Free as our waters flowing,
Bold as our hills we stand,
Striving alone for freedom,
Freedom for every land.

From far Alaska's glacial mountains,
To where the surf sweeps up the coral strand,
From forests, fields, and all her myriad fountains,
Spring hope and life for men of every land.

Harvests shall bloom as tides that ebb and flow,
Countless the craft that o'er the water glide,
Boundless her riches, and the world shall know

Not for earth's treasures, land or gold or pride,
Striving alone to free this whole round earth;
Not for dominion swing our portals wide,
Marching to victory and the world's new birth.

No hymns of hate shall sear the heavens blue,
No songs of vengeance stir our sons to wrath,
But high resolve and justice that is due

RESENTS WILSON BLOCKADE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 18.—The Neue Freie Presse of Vienna, writing of President Wilson's "world blockade," asserts his plan of "starving neutrals" only shows his untruthfulness when he declares that he is waging war for the rights and freedom of little countries.

The paper says that a world blockade was often talked of by the Entente, but since America joined the Allies reports about President Wilson's intentions regarding such a blockade have never ceased. It expresses doubt if these "threats" can be carried out, and says that neutrals have already shown that they have limits of endurance of bullying.

The Freie Presse goes on to say that Holland must have coal and the Entente cannot supply her, and that America certainly cannot supply Holland owing to the submarine war. It does not believe President Wilson will make a formal declaration that neutral countries trading with the enemy shall receive nothing, as it says this would be contrary to all international law, and not even England would be guilty of such an offense, adding that neutrals could break off relation with America.

The only object of these measures, the paper says, is to be unfriendly to Holland. It rejoices over the fact that Sweden has refused to give way over the question of shipping.

"It is possible," says the Freie Presse, "that behind all these threats involving the whole world lies an intention to demand still more neutral shipping for the Entente."

The paper also comments on the fact that Congress has restrictions on coastal shipping for the duration of the war.

ACCEPTS LINCOLN STATUE.

Britain Has Received No Protests About Its Artistic Character.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Announcing in the House of Commons today that the Government had accepted the statue of Lincoln from America, Sir Alfred Mond, First Commissioner of Works, said: "It is not the duty of the Government to question the artistic selection of the donors."

No protests against the statue had been received, said the Commissioner, and the Government gave hearty welcome to the proposal to erect a statue worthy of the illustrious statesman in the capital of the empire.

The British Government is providing a splendid site near the House of Lords for the statue of Lincoln, which has been subjected in the United States to certain criticism respecting its artistic character.

SPAIN'S WAR MINISTER OUT.

Primo-Rivera Quits Cabinet — Constitutional Guarantees Restored.

MARID, Wednesday, Oct. 17.—The restoration of constitutional guarantees, suspended throughout Spain several months ago, was decided upon by the Cabinet at a meeting today.

The resignation of General Primo-Rivera, the Minister of War, was accepted, and the Cabinet nominated General Marina to succeed him.

NEW HOSPITAL BEGUN.

Mayor Tells of Reforms at Cornerstone Laying.

The cornerstone of the new hospital in Auburn Place, Brooklyn, which is to replace the Cumberland Street Hospital, was laid yesterday afternoon. Mayor Mitchel and Controller Prendergast shared the honor of putting the cornerstone in place. Mayor Mitchel in an address said:

"When the present Commissioner, John A. Kingsbury, was appointed, he visited the Cumberland Street Hospital and found the place filthy and graft rampant. He found a man with a broken hip occupying a mattress on the floor, while his cot was occupied by a boarder who was paying somebody for the privilege. Since the present Commissioner has been in charge of the department the persons responsible for those conditions have been dismissed, and just as long as the present administration is in power the Commissioner will carry on the work he has been doing since January, 1914."

Commissioner Kingsbury said that the new hospital would be ready in a year and a half, would cost $800,000, and would be the last word in hospital construction and equipment.

FINDS PATENTS VIOLATED.

Judge Hazel Files Opinion in Mimeograph Suit.

Judge John R. Hazel of the Federal District Court filed an opinion yesterday in favor of several of the contentions made by the A. B. Dick Company, manufacturers of mimeographs, against the Underwood Typewriter Company, in its complaint charging an infringement of patent rights. The defendant was restrained from using the patents, pending the trial of the suit. The question involved dealt with patents obtained by Louis E. Fuller on June 23, 1914. These patents were afterward assigned to the plaintiff.

The court decided that the patents for prepared paper used for stenciling had been violated by the defendant, and also the process for manufacturing the paper. But the charge that the patent for the duplicating method had been violated was not allowed. This patent, the court found, was old, and that the whole art of producing stencils was well known before the Fuller patents were issued.

No mention was made in the opinion concerning the claim of the plaintiff that it was entitled to an accounting to discover to what extent it had been injured by the infringement.

MARK FIRST POWER HOUSE.

Bronze Is Unveiled on Pioneer Station Here.

An anniversary ceremony in which Thomas A. Edison was the central figure from a historical standpoint was conducted at the Grand Central Palace yesterday without his presence, owing to the fact that he could not leave the war work he is engaged upon for this country. The ceremony was the unveiling of a bronze tablet commemorating the thirty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the first electrical power station in New York City.

Mr. Edison superintended the installing of this plant and John W. Lieb, President of the National Electric Light Association, who was one of Mr. Edison's assistants at the time, said at the ceremonies yesterday that Mr. Edison, in order to press the work through to an early finish, frequently spent the night in the building, sleeping on a pile of boards.

The tablet will next week be placed on the building, at 257 Pearl Street, which housed the first electric generating plant.

Hebrew Sheltering Aid Election.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society yesterday John L. Bernstein, the Secretary, was elected president. Mr. Bernstein was born in Niesen, Russia, in 1872, and came to America in 1890. He studied law at the Law School of the University of New York and was admitted to the Bar in 1899. Jacob Massel was elected secretary.

CARNEGIE HALL RINGS WITH LOAN APPEALS

SAYS PEACE IS NOT IN SIGHT

Wickersham Asserts the People Are Slow Coming to the Bat, But When They Do They Hit a Liner.

Before an enthusiastic crowd that filled Carnegie Hall to its utmost capacity last night appeals were made for the Liberty Loan by Viscount Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England; George W. Wickersham, George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. Lord Reading told the audience that this loan must be "one of America's answers to Germany's derision of America's action," and pointed out that early this year, after nearly three years of war, England, with less than half our population and far less than our wealth, had oversubscribed a loan of a billion pounds, a sum which was distributed among 5,289,000 subscribers out of a total population of 46,000,000.

"I am told by your newspapers," he continued, "that you are not subscribing as fully as was expected to this loan. And I have put to myself the question why. And I answer first that I have no manner of doubt but that you will subscribe the whole of it. Secondly that if it does halt it is because the imagination is not equal to picturing to yourselves all that your subscriptions would mean.

"Ah, you see, you are 3,000 miles away from the guns. You do not know what it is to have your coast bombarded. You have no Zeppelin raids where defenseless men and women are killed. You have no airplane raids where people are killed in their beds. You have not the trains of wounded coming in day by day after the great fights; you do not see the wounded being taken through the streets. You do not hear the thunder of the guns bringing home to your mind that all you love is out there exposed to those guns. If you would only picture this to yourselves there would never have to be another meeting calling on you to subscribe.

Every Bond Protects a Friend.

"Think of all this, and remember that every bond for which you subscribe is the equivalent to protection for a friend. Every dollar that you may put into this will help to save some one for whom you care. Every shell which this loan produces will bring the victory closer."

He said that the importance of America's entry into the war was not due to her vast resources nor to her determination to stand by the Allies till victory was achieved, but "because by America's entry into the war it has been demonstrated to the whole civilized world that our cause is just and that our aim is righteous.

"You acted with great deliberation; you watched the events, you sought the evidence, you heard the statements on all sides, you investigated them, you arraigned the parties, you heard the evidence; and then you gave your verdict, and it remained only for the supreme Magistrate of this great country to pronounce the judgment in accordance with the verdict of the people."

Cheers greeted his declaration that "England will never sheathe the sword till Germany has realized that she is in the war to the end," and that "France is determined that she may die, but she will never surrender; but France will not die. Let no man think that peace is in sight. It is part of the enemy's wile to make you think that peace is drawing near. When the peace comes, it must be our peace, not Germany's peace. It must be a peace based upon justice and liberty."

Mr. Wickersham was introduced by Dr. Butler, the Chairman, as a pinch hitter in place of Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane, who was taken ill while on his way to New York and compelled to return to Washington. Continuing, Mr. Wickersham undertook to allay Lord Reading's fears about the slowness of the subscriptions by saying that "as a people we are slow in coming to the bat, but when we get there we make a liner. You remember that a great many people almost had heart failure over the registration for the municipal campaign until the last day. It was the same thing with the last Liberty Loan. It will be the same with every Liberty Loan. It is a way we Americans have of doing things. We do not waste time standing around in advance, but we get there as the appointed hour.

People Awake to War.

"The entire cost of conducting the civil war was about $3,500,000,000, but we start this war with appropriations of six times that amount for the first year. That looks as if we had an interest in the war, doesn't it? It looks as if our Government was determined to win the war, doesn't it? It looks as if the people of the United States had awakened to the fact that there was a war, doesn't it?"

He illustrated the feelings of the people by two instances—one, Governor Manning of South Carolina, whose five sons have volunteered; the other, a poor widow who called at the headquarters of the district Exemption Board last week to ask for the exemption of her oldest son.

She explained that her three sons had talked it over with her at the outbreak of the war and decided that two of them should enlist and the other stay at home to support his mother. So all of them went to the recruiting office; two were passed and enlisted in the regular artillery, and the third, physically disqualified, was later taken for the draft. "I am too old to support myself," she told Mr. Wickersham, "but I don't want you to think I'm a slacker."

"She kept her word," he told the audience, "and she kept that spirit, that flame of patriotism which will eventually sweep us to victory."

Mr. Pepper said that a German victory would be the triumph and vindication of moral chaos. "What is a Liberty bond

TO SIFT DEFECTIVES OUT OF NEW ARMY

PSYCHOLOGISTS IN CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—More definite information in explanation of the psychological tests now being made on men in four national army cantonments under authority of the War Department was given out today. These tests are taking place at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass.; at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J.; Camp Lee, near Petersburg, Va., and at Camp Taylor, near Louisville, Ky. They will be extended to embrace the national army men at the other twelve cantonments.

The official explanation of the purpose of these tests and of the general method of conducting them, as issued through the War Department today, was prepared by W. V. Bingham of the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh. He is one of the seven psychologists who worked out the method now in use, and is Executive Secretary of the committee assisting the War Department in the occupational classification of the enlisted men in the national army.

"In the first place," says the explanation prepared by Dr. Bingham, "it should be clearly understood that there are two distinct uses for the 'intelligence ratings' which are given the men as a result of these psychological examinations. One of these uses is military and consists in furnishing commanding officers with a list of the rating of each man in his command by which he may, if he chooses, be guided in selecting men for promotion, or for special duties requiring more than average intelligence and mental quickness. The other use is medical and is the thing more specifically sought—to find men who are so markedly below average intelligence as to demand serious consideration for discharge, or for assignment to work as laborers, or to other simple manual work under careful supervision.

"The general method of the test is as follows: The men of each company are divided into four groups of seventy-five to eighty each. Each group takes first a simple literacy test which takes about five minutes and shows only which of the men can read and write. The illiterates are withdrawn at this point to be given examinations for manual skill.

"All those who can read are then given the 'group intelligence examination.'

"Those who did not get good ratings are then re-examined in a group to discover whether they are merely slow, or are of low-grade intelligence. Those who do not then make a satisfactory showing are grouped with the illiterates who were separated from the rest of the group after the preliminary examination.

"All these—illiterates, and literates who have not done well in the group examination—are given tests for manual skill and ingenuity. These tests are such as putting together dissembled mechanisms, &c. After further examination individually those who receive the poorest ratings are likely to be considered for discharge, or as suited only for manual work under supervision.

"Those who show up particularly well in either mental or manual ability are brought to the notice of their company commanders as men who may be given assignments calling for superior ability or skill.

"The aims of the entire psychological examination are to measure native intelligence and ability, not schooling; to disclose what a man can do with his head and hands, not what he has learned from books, and to help the medical officers quickly to discover and sift out the extremely incompetent, and thus prevent the inefficiency and injice resulting from putting men in places which they are not qualified to fill."

SULLIVAN MUST FACE A MILITARY COURT

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 18.—Captain Howard E. Sullivan, Battery D, Second Field Artillery, was placed under arrest at noon today and relieved of his command, following the filing of formal charges accusing him of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. Private Otto Gottschalk accused Sullivan of directing four non-commissioned officers of Battery D while they put him through a hazing that went from mud baths to whipping with sticks.

When he was put under arrest Captain Sullivan received a copy of the charges. One of the specifications charged him with being present throughout the mistreatment of Gottschalk. Pending his trial by a general court on next Wednesday, military regulations bar the Captain from making any statement in the matter.

The court which will try Sullivan comprises the following officers: Colonel Charles I. Debevoise, Colonel Cornelius Vanderbilt, Lieut. Col. Morris N. Liebmann and Majors Jesse I. Button, Walter DeLameter, H. C. Hildreth, Thomas M. Sherman, Otto I. Chorman, Arthur Howe, Charles Tobin, Mortimer D. Bryant and Walter Bell. Captain D. J. Cadotte, 108th Infantry, will act as Judge Advocate, or prosecutor, and his assistant will be Lieutenant Charles P. Losser, 107th Infantry.

It is said that the four non-commissioned officers also will be disciplined.

Major Edward Olmstead announced that a general court had sentenced Private Charles E. Simmons to one year at hard labor and forfeiture of two-thirds of his monthly pay during period of confinement. Simmons was found guilty of being intoxicated on post and assaulting a civilian. He was a member of the Second Company, Military Police.

Marching six miles over dusty roads into Spartanburg 10,000 soldiers paraded today in behalf of the local Liberty Loan campaign. The units in the parade were the former Second and Seventh Infantry, the former Third Heavy Artillery and the First Squadron, First Cavalry, which paraded as cavalrymen for the last time. Brig. Gen. James W. Lester, commanding the Fifty-fourth Infantry Brigade, led the parade.

Captain R. M. Young today placed the total of Liberty Loan sales at the Camp at $834,000. He said the million mark would be reached tomorrow.

Mexican Minister Also Accuses Them of Evading Taxation.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 18.—In discussing the suspension of personal guarantees in connection with efforts to suppress bandits, as reccomended by President Carranza, Luis Cabrera, Minister of Finance, said in Congress today that companies in the oil region had been furnishing arms and ammunition to rebels for the purpose of preventing the Government from obtaining control there. By these means and on account of the Government's lack of patrol boats, the Minister said, the companies were defrauding the Government of large sums in taxes.

The double import duty on parcel post between the United States and Mexico, which has been in effect since June 20, was abrogated by a decree issued today.

For protection of the oil industry a decree was issued providing for a special 10 per cent. stamp tax, based upon bimonthly New York quotations.

CAN LET CANAL PROPERTY GO

ALBANY, Oct. 18.—A decision upholding the right of the State Canal Board to rescind an appropriation of property taken for barge canal purposes, before the final award has been made, was rendered today by the State Court of Claims. This will affect lands in New York City which had been appropriated for a port of call and other property upstate. The decision, it is believed, will result in saving the State at least $1,000,000.

The property immediately affected is located upon the North River at the upper end of Manhattan island. It was owned by Cornelius Kahlen, who valued it at $88,635. He filed a claim for that amount against the State after its appropriation in 1914.

On Nov. 22, 1916, the State Canal Board rescinded the original appropriation upon the ground that the property was not and could not be used by the State in its terminal plans.

Attorney General Lewis contended that the State had the authority to rescind an appropriation before an award was made, and that the title to the appropriated property did not vest in the State until such award was made.

SNOW IN THE NORTHWEST.

Heavy Fall in North Dakota and Minnesota—Slight Fall in Texas.

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 18.—Railroad traffic and telephone and telegraphic communication in North Dakota were seriously hampered today as a result of the snowfall which started last midnight. The snow was still falling heavily today, whipped by a strong wind. The shortage of coal in some cities was declared to be acute.

CROOKSTON, Minn., Oct. 18.—More than six inches of snow has fallen here since last night, which is being whipped into drifts by a brisk wind. Some sleighs have appeared on the streets.

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 18.—Snow fell here for three hours this morning. It quickly melted.

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 18.—Complaint has been made to the Government that a number of Peruvians are being held as slaves in Brazil and forced to work in the rubber forests. President Pardo has begun an investigation.

Harvard $10,000,000 Fund to Wait.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—The work of raising a $10,000,000 endowment for Harvard University has been suspended for the duration of the war. Up to Oct. 1 pledges received totaled $1,-163,310, of which $555,350 had been made available.

DR. COOK MARKED AS GERMAN VICTIM

THEN TO IMPERSONATE HIM

Chatterji Swears That Boehm Hoped Thus to Travel as an American, Fomenting Revolt.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the arctic explorer, and a crew of nineteen sailors were among those marked for assassination by the leaders directing the alleged plot to foment a revolution in India to embarrass Great Britain during the war, according to testimony given by Sukupar Chatterji, a Hindu, in Judge Landis's court at today's session of the triol of Gustav H. Jacobsen, a Chicago real estate dealer, and his three co-defendants, charged with the conspiracy. Wholesale murder and the kidnapping of numerous persons were parts of the program outlined, the witness testified.

These parts of the plot, Chatterji said, were revealed to him in Manila by George Paul Boehm, one of the defendants.

"Boehm said that he had planned to kill Dr. Cook and his crew, who were to make an expedition in the vicinity of the Himalaya Mountains," said the witness. "Boehm was to assume the name of Dr. Cook, and the other men in the party were to assume the names of the other sailors, who were to be killed. I protested. It was Boehm's plan to go through India under the guise of an explorer and foment a revolt among the natives against Great Britain."

The witness said he came to this country in 1912 to study journalism, but later was induced to take part in the alleged plot by Gupta, one of the defendants. He told of meetings held in San Francisco in 1915 at which revolutionary plans were discussed and of going to Manila with the men named as conspirators. The witness was afterward arrested with others and brought back to this country for trial.

On cross-examination Chatterji admitted that he had been imprisoned for six months in solitary confinement in India before he confessed and was brought here.

Captain Thomas J. Tunney of the Neutrality Bureau of Investigation of the New York Police Department testified that Heramba Lal Gupta made a confession to him in New York March 10, 1917, and the Captain's testimony was corroborated by George C. Barnet, a New York Detective Sergeant.

"He told me that Captain von Papen, the Military Attaché of the German Embassy in the United States, paid him between $15,000 and $16,000 in a suite of offices in lower Broadway," said Tunney. "He said he received the money in six or seven payments, and it was to be used in making a trip to the Orient. He said later that he went to China and Japan and purchased firearms and ammunition for use in the revolution in India. Gupta told me that von Papen said he would buy additional firearms and ammunition in the United States and ship it to the Orient by way of the South Seas. Gupta told me he returned to this country in June, 1916, after having been followed by detectives all over China and Japan. He said that while in Japan he was given protection on one occasion in the home of a high public official.

"He told me the headquarters of the conspiracy was in Berlin."

WAR HITS YALE FINANCES.

Treasurer Reports Heavy Losses and Predicts More This Year.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 18.—The report of the Treasurer of Yale University for the last fiscal year, just made public, shows heavy financial losses caused by the war, and heavier deficits are predicted for the current year. A deficit of $12,000 for the university dining hall is traceable to the increased cost of foodstuffs and the small registration.

The net deficit of the university is shown to have been over $115,000. Gifts from 6,000 alumni reduced this to $15,-318. The alumni fund increased to $311,000, and now totals $1,250,675. The total gifts to Yale in the year amounted to $1,749,192, making the endowment on June 30 $19,823,646, as compared with $32,434,736 at Harvard and $6,248,625 at Princeton.

Six of the nine schools show deficits, the graduate leading with a deficit of $70,000. The Scientific School had a loss of $36,000.

The Treasurer reports the most active year in building since 1901, the Yale armory, the Anthony N. Brady laboratory, and the Sprague Memorial Hall being some of the more elaborate new structures. Under construction now, or contemplated, are the Harkness memorial quadrangle, the new Peabody museum, and a new athletic clubhouse to be built after the war ends; a new heating plant, and a recitation building called Artillery Hall.

Biddle's Body to be Sent Home.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 18.—The body of Julian Biddle, the American aviator who was killed in September while on war service with the Lafayette Squadron, will be placed in a leaden coffin, at the family's request, to be shipped to America after the war.

TWO SISTERS WED TO ARMY OFFICERS

The double wedding yesterday noon of two sisters, the Misses Aline and Hilda Coulby, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Coulby of 260 West Fifty-seventh Street, to Lieutenant Albert E. Gunther, Jr., and Captain F. Granville Munson, respectively, included the unusual feature of only one ceremony for both nuptials. The Rev. Ashton Oldham, rector of St. Luke's Church, at 141st Street and Convent Avenue, where the weddings were celebrated, read the service only once, the principals making separate responses. The two brides were each other's only attendant, and each bridegroom was the best man for the other.

Miss Aline Coulby, who became the bride of Lieutenant Gunther, wore a brown traveling costume, and her sister Hilda was in dark blue. The nuptials were followed by a breakfast at the Plaza for the bridal party and the families only. Both bridegrooms have taken their brides to Berkshires for a brief honeymoon, and on their return the officers will report at Fort Schuyler, where they are stationed, and the brides will return to their parents' home until arrangements are completed for their residence near the fort.

Captain Munson, who was graduated from Harvard in 1904, is a son of Mrs. F. G. Munson of Philadelphia, and was at one time superintendent of the Sunday school at St. Luke's, where his bride and her sister were teachers.

Lieutenant Gunther is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gunther of 256 West Seventy-sixth Street. He was graduated from New York University in 1907, and is a grandson of William Seymour, several times President of the New York Stock Exchange, and also of the late Brig. Gen. William H. Gunther, N. Y. N. G.

BRIDE OF CHARLES F. HYDE.

The wedding of Charles F. Hyde, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hyde, of Maplewood, N. J., and Miss Grace Lillian Weinert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Weinert, of 105 East Twenty-second Street, was celebrated at 8 o'clock last evening in Cavalry Church, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Theodore Sedgewick, assisted by the Rev. Elmer Nelson Hyde, of Maplewood, a cousin of the bridegroom.

Miss Weinert, in a white satin and tulle robe and carrying roses and lilies, was attended as maid of honor by Miss Lois Ward, and the Misses Marguerite Rice and Isabel Lehmaier were the bridesmaids. They wore rose colored gowns trimmed in silver and black velvet hats and carried Killarney roses.

Joseph L. Weinert, Jr., was this best man and the ushers were Lester Ballantine, Harry Lippincott, Arthur Peck and Thomas Childs. A reception followed in the Gotham ballroom, decorated with bay, palm and autumn leaves. Mr. and Mrs. Hyde will live in Maplewood, N. J., on their return from their honeymoon.

Miss Jeanette F. Cohen a Bride.

The marriage of Miss Jeanette Frances Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen, and Joseph Silberstein of this city, was celebrated last night at the Hotel Astor, the Rev. M. M. Kaplan officiating.

Miss Woolley's Wedding Plans.

Miss Cornelia D. Woolley, who is to marry John Huyler Acheson in the chapel of St. George's Church next Thursday, will be attended by Miss Marguerite St. George Smith. Howard A. Acheson is to be best man, and Edson P. Pfohl, C. Fay Mackey, William Picken, Jr., and W. Acheson Smith are to serve as ushers. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Cornell Woolley, 859 Park Avenue.

Miss Henriette Bach to Wed Oct. 23.

Miss Henriette Bach, the violinist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Bach, of 620 West 116th Street, will be married to Emil Stein on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 23, at her home. Only the immediate relatives are to attend. Mr. Stein is a member of the firm of Frederick H. Cone & Co., importers of this city.

Bridgman-Alvarez Engagement.

The engagement of Miss Anna Kirk Bridgman, daughter of General and Mrs. Oliver Bridgman, to Octave A. Alvarez of Mobile, Ala., has been announced.

Miss Bridgman is a granddaughter of the late Rev. Dr. Charles De Witt Bridgman, and is a graduate of the Misses Masters' School at Dobbs Ferry. Her parents reside at 383 Park Avenue and are at present at their country residence, Justamere House, at Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Wife Asks Additional Counsel Fee.

Mrs. Dorothy Denivelle, who is being sued for divorce by Albert A. Denivelle, head of a doll company, asked Supreme Court Justice Whitaker yesterday for $500 additional counsel fee to defend her suit. She said that her husband would spend large sums of money to divorce her, because she is paralyzed in the lower limbs from an infantile paralysis attack last year. She declared that her husband has been unable to bear the sight of her since she has been compelled to use crutches, and now calls her a "burden."

CRAIG WOULD MODIFY PLAN FOR WEST SIDE

JOINT COMMITTEE HEARING

The proposed plan for the improvement of the west side was discussed at a public hearing before the Joint Conference Committee of the Public Service Commission and the Board of Estimate at the City Hall yesterday. The hearing was well attended. The New York Central was not represented, as through Vice President Place it had declared a week ago that it would not accept the proposals of the joint committee.

Charles L. Craig, the Tammany candidate for Controller, supplied the most specific criticism of the committee's proposal. Mr. Craig thought the tentative way for fixing rental fees on the New York Central for use of streets, land, dock facilities, &c., which are owned by the city was not adequate to meet the situation.

"The rental fee as proposed by the committee," he said, "is based on the value of abutting property. This is not a real estate proposition and never has been. The value of abutting property does not enter into it. The value of the rent should be fixed as the value of a franchise right is fixed. Why, the increased use of the improvement necessary to meet the Central's needs might very well force the value of adjoining property away down, but you wouldn't say that the value of the improvement had been decreased.'

Mr. Craig suggested that the committee plan for double-decked piers at the ends of each of the thirteen streets between Fifty-eighth and Seventy-second Streets, which should be connected with the proposed Twelfth Avenue viaduct over the Central's yards at Sixtieth Street. He urged that measures be taken to prevent the leasing of any piers on the upper west side to the Sentral until a full understanding has been arrived at between the city and the railroad company in respect to improvements.

Major Gen. George W. Goethals attended the meeting in behalf of the New York-New Jersey Port Improvement Association, but took no part in the proceedings. Benjamin L. Blauvelt, representing the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, proposed that the New York Central be required to drive a tunnel under the Harlem ship canal instead of passing over the canal and neighboring streets on a viaduct.

Further hearings were not arranged for, but will be held if requests come to the committee for them. The proposals made in the Joint Conference Committee's report will be worked into a definite plan, which will be later referred to the Public Service Commission and the New York Central for their approval or disapproval.

DR. MAY DARRACH DEAD.

Founded Darrach Home for Crippled Children in New York.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 18.—Dr. May Darrach, founder of the Darrach Home for Crippled Children, 118 West 104th Street, New York, and a pioneer in establishing a home for crippled children in Newark, N. J., and schools for crippled children in New York, died here today of pneumonia.

Crippled herself, Dr. May Darrach was the daughter of Dr. Marshall Darrach of Newark, an inventor and manufacturer of devices for the use of crippled persons. She taught for many years in schools for crippled children, and later studied medicine at the Women's College. It was in 1889, while she was teaching a class in connection with her work among crippled children that she undertook their personal care and upbringing.

She was interested in other charitable work and was a member of the Children's Aid Society of this city. In 1896 the Darrach Home was founded with housing facilities for twenty crippled children, and Dr. Darrach was its first head. The object of the home was the care of children until employment enabling them to earn their own living was found for them. Seven years ago her health became impaired and she gave up the active management of the institution, retaining her connection with it as Honorary President. She made her home with members of her family at Enfield, Conn. Her brother, Marshall Darrach, a Shakespearean reader, died a year ago.

Patriotism and Common Sense

Business is good to-day, and wages are high. More men are now employed than at any other time in the history of the country. Our Government and our allies are adding to the general prosperity by expending over $1,500,000,000 a month. Ninety per cent. of this great sum is paid for labor.

Meantime the cost of the war is also running into billions of dollars per month. The American people must foot the bill, and you must pay your share. There is no possible way in which you can avoid it.

But there is a way in which you and all the rest of us can pay our share of the cost of the war and get our money back. That is by the purchase of Liberty Bonds.

These Bonds are the Safest Investment in the World

The greatest and richest country in the world, the United States of America, stands behind them and guarantees their payment. You will not only get your money back, but will be paid 4% for the use of it.

But suppose the Liberty Loan is not subscribed for. Suppose it is a failure. The cost of this war must be paid just the same. How?

By taxation.

And when those taxes go into effect, you will have to help pay them every time you pay your rent, every time you buy food, every time you buy clothing for yourself and your family, and not a penny you pay to meet those taxes will ever come back to you again.

Remember, too, that high taxes and high cost of necessities always mean a decrease in buying—a decrease in manufacturing—men thrown out of work—suffering and disaster all along the line.

It is up to the American people to make their choice. It is up to you to make your choice.

Both patriotism and self interest point the way. Buy Liberty Bonds. Buy all you can. Liberty Bonds are on sale at banks and trust companies.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Seemingly, the decline in stocks has been terminated either by the receptive mood shown by the Interstate Commerce Commission to the suggestion that the railroads should apply for reconsideration of their rate application, or by the much better progress which the Liberty Loan campaign is making. Traders are willing to agree now that the stock market at the biginning of the week was overdone, and the uncertain rally that carried prices of many securities back over several points on Wednesday gained new vigor yesterday, with the result that the securities in all departments closed the session at important advances.

The recovery in railway shares was especially interesting, because on previous occasions of recurring strength the rails have done well to hold their own. They have always participated in a declining market, but have usually been neglected in a rising one. Yesterday's dealings reflected the hope that the commission will take a favorable action upon the renewed petition for higher rates. On the strength of this Reading moved up 2¼, Great Northern 2⅛, St. Paul 2¼ and numerous other issues from 1 to 2 points. Among the industrials the rise was pronounced in the steel and equipment issues, Bethlehem Steel B, after its severl sharp dips, rose yesterday to 80¾, up 6¾ for the day. American Car and Foundry gained 3¾, American Locomotive 2½, Baldwin 2⅝, Crucible 2¼, LacKawanna Steel 3½ and United States Steel 2⅝, with all these issues selling at or near their best price for the day at the close. The sharp advance in Bethlehem was no doubt largely due to official announcement of the placing by the United States Government of what is probably the largest contract ever given a manufacturer. The Bethlehem is to turn out 150 torpedoe boat destroyers for the Government.

The recent weakness in industrials has been due to some extent to fears that when peace returns it will find capacity far above current demands. The order given to the Bethlehem brings to mind the extent to which the steel plants and munition makers have had to increase their productive machinery to handle business that they cannot expect to get in large volume after the war. The contingency is being prepared for by liberal allowances for depreciation, but until the new business comes to an end the proprietors cannot hope to arrive at a satisfactory understanding with the Treasury Department over the deductions allowable under the law.

GOOD UNDERTONE IN LONDON

Money in Short Supply and Discount Rates Are Steady.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The stock market had a good undertone today with a few prominent features. Oil shares and East Rand gold mines were strong and active, and Argentine rails were higher on better strike news. Russian issues were flat, following the rise in exchange to 335, while gilt-edged securities were quietly firm. American shares were undecided.

Money was in short supply and discount rates were steady.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Trading was more active on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 62f for cash. Exchange on London, 27f 18c. Five per cent. loan, 88f 55c.

Philadelphia Bank Joins Reserve.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—The Commercial Trust Company, with deposits of $21,000,000, followed the lead of the Girard Trust Company and applied today for membership in the Federal Reserve system. The action of these two companies increases the deposits in the Philadelphia Reserve Bank by $7,100,000.

Liberty Bonds Are Insurance Against Future Wars

A Liberty Loan Bond is really a three-fold insurance policy. When you invest your money in these 4% United States Government Bonds, you are not only fulfilling a patriotic duty, you are taking out—

1. Insurance Against War. We are in this great conflict to win a lasting peace—win it in the only way a lasting peace can be won—through decisive victory over the enemy. By investing in Liberty Bonds you are furnishing funds to defeat Germany and her ruling military oligarchy and to win the war that is to end all warfare.

2. Insurance of the Lives of Our Soldiers. The proceeds of these bonds go to buy cannon by the thousands and shells by the millions. Shells save soldiers' lives when the boys go over the top. Our allies have learned this lesson at heavy cost. We shall profit by their lesson.

3. Business Insurance. If business is to continue and to prosper, it must be free from the burdens of militarism and the peril of future wars. This is a war against war and against militarism, and Liberty Loan bonds must furnish the money to win.

Patriotism and wise business policy alike urge the purchase of Liberty Loan 4% Bonds of the United States Government. They are the best and safest investment in the world. Every dollar you put into these bonds brings victory and peace so much nearer.

Go to your bank—or any bank—and subscribe today.

EXPERT BUYERS AID PERSHING IN FRANCE

CO-OPERATING WITH ALLIES

PARIS, Sept. 10, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The newest adjunct of the United States Purchasing Board, which was created several weeks ago on the initiative of General Pershing, is an auxiliary civilian advisory council composed of five or six American business men resident in France. These men, whose names have not yet been made public, have been asked to lend their assistance to the board in its gigantic work and to facilitate its operation by advice on conditions and prices in France and by giving the board the benefit of their expert knowledge whenever it may be needed.

The decision to create this auxiliary council is only one of the strides the board has made in the few weeks of its existence. Its chief, Colonel Charles G. Dawes, a former Controller of the Currency and President of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, has already surrounded himself with nearly a dozen expert quartermaster officers, who are purchasing officers also of their respective branches of service, and is rapidly co-ordinating the work of purchasing supplies for the present as well as the prospective armies in France.

The success of the original Pershing idea has been assured because the French from the outset co-operated to their utmost in the plan. They have detailed officers to Colonel Dawes's staff who are commissioned to help him in every possible way.

The task with which the Purchasing Board is confronted and on which it is now working about sixteen hours a day is the accumulation here in Europe of supplies of every nature that may be available in order that, on the one hand, tonnage may be saved—so that ships may not be loaded with material already purchased when they might bring other materials—and on the other hand so that there may be co-ordination in buying and a minimum of overlapping and duplication.

In accordance with this plan the Entente countries are being and will be scoured for every kind of war material that may be available—from food of all kinds to airplane parts, and from iron piping to woolen blankets. It is to assist in turning up all such supplies and in gauging correctly what they should cost that the civilian auxiliary council has been planned.

The Purchasing Board is considering a plan of pooling all supplies that may be procured. Thus all meat supplies arriving from America for the American troops may be thrown in with French supplies procured by the board, and the two armies fed from the joint stock. The board, likewise, has charge of purchasing for the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A., both organizations having representatives under Colonel Dawes, who assist him and the quartermasters.

Even the brief preliminary work of the board has revealed what General Pershing realized when recommending its establishment, namely, that vast results could be obtained by buying here what could be bought, and by devoting the tonnage that would have been required in its transportation to something else.

The board is working with the cooperation of both the French and English army authorities. It expects to be able to import, and probably will itself transport from England, the coal supplies that are needed during the coming Winter, though this will necessarily be in conjunction with the French, since the latter control storage quarters.

Not the least of the benefits of the board will be the control of competition, so that prices will not rise as a result of one department bidding against another.

CROP GAIN $8,500,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18.—The Manufacturers' Record of this week, in giving in detail the total value of agricultural products of this year and a number of preceding years, shows that the total of all farm products for 1917 for the United States will amount to about $21,600,000,000, an increase of more than $8,500,000,000 over 1916. As compared with a total value of 1915 there is a gain of $10,800,000,000.

The total production of grain in 1917 shows a gain over 1916 of 1,051,000,000 bushels. While the production of grains increased by 21 per cent. over the output of last year, the value of the crops, as paid to the farmers, based on the Government's figures of Oct. 1, shows an increase of $4,200,000,000, or 98 per cent.

The increase of 1,000,000,000 bushels of grain this year over last year's yield is in part offset by a decrease this year in the hay yield of 18,000,000 tons, which almost offsets one-half of the increase in grain and must be taken into account in considering the supply of foodstuffs.

Fisk Rubber Workmen Buy Bonds.

Special to The New York Times

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 18.—On the first day of a seven-day drive among the 5,000 employes of the Fisk Rubber Company at Chicopee Falls the employes subscribed $178,000 for Liberty bonds. Sixty-seven per cent. of the employes were represented. Poles, Greeks, and Russians bought liberally, many paying cash for bonds of large denomination, others purchasing on the weekly payment plan.

Red Cross Theatrical Day Dec. 7.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—So that it may not interfere with the Second Liberty Loan campaign, Red Cross Theatrical Day has been postponed from Oct. 26 to Dec. 7, when the entire receipts of many theatres throughout the country as well as the salaries of many actors for that day will be contributed to the Red Cross war fund.

THE COTTON MARKET

Trading Holds Fairly Steady Throughout Day, with Gains of 17 to 30 Points.

The early indications of yesterday's cotton market pointed to the reaction which many traders have been predicting as a result of the recent advance and continued high prices, but further reports of cold weather and some private ginning figures of an unfavorable character put a stop to the expected influx of selling orders, and the market held fairly steady throughout the day, such temporary recessions as occurred being almost immediately regained. The general list closed steady, 17 to 30 points up, except contracts for next August, which were quoted only 2 points higher.

The market opened steady at a decline of 5 points on October, but generally 8 to 16 points net higher on buying by Liverpool and trade interests. This demand was not sufficient to absorb a continuation of Wednesday's late selling movements, and prices eased back to a shade under the closing prices of the previous day right after the call. The market then turned firmer on the outlook for another cold wave in the belt which local map readers predicted would be accompanied by lower temperatures and cover a wider area than the cold snap of last week. Buying was also encouraged by reports that the Italian Government had arranged to take 70,000 bales of American cotton monthly or a total of 840,000 for the year. But the demand was not as general or aggressive as previously, and after showing a net advance of 29 to 34 points, the market turned easier under realizing. The late bulge accompanied reports that a cyclone had caused damage in Cuba and the Isle of Pines. While there had been no previous talk of a tropical disturbance, this news caused some nervousness, and the market was steady in the late trading.

People around the ring said they noticed an increased disposition to take profits on long cotton on advances, and that the buying for trade account appeared to be less active. This probably accounted for the more reactionary average of sentiment which also emphasized an easier technical position, increasing receipts and reports that the South was selling spot more freely around the present level of prices. Exports for the day were 17,072 bales making 1,114,825 so far this season against 1,331,230 last year. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to 50 points higher with a fair volume of business. The Board of Managers of the New York Cotton Exchange have decided to close the market at noon, next Wednesday—"Liberty Day," making it a half-holiday.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The Food Administration apparently believes that Northwestern mills have been getting more than their share of wheat, and in consequence efforts are being made to curtail the output of flour in that locality and to divert the supply of wheat to mills in other sections, especially in the East. The big domestic demand for flour has been a factor in the situation ever since the price of wheat was fixed, and is a clear demonstration of the fact that stocks were allowed to run down to a very low ebb during the weeks consumed by Congress in passing the Food bill, and that the situation is not likely to become anywhere near normal until there is more accumulation in the hands of consumers. Receipts at primary points showed a moderate improvement, and so far this week the total figures show an increase of about 300,000 bushels over last week, although about 3,300,000 bushels under last year.

RYE.—The market firm. No. 2 Western, $1.87½, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

CORN.

The corn trade was considerably disturbed during yesterday's session by expressions credited to Mr. Hoover, who is quoted as saying that the grain trade is sitting on a powder keg and that the future of the market is in their hands. This was thought to imply that the Food Administration will not countenance aggressive speculative operations and if warnings are not heeded in this respect it may resort to drastic measures, as it has the power of closing the markets entirely. With this in view, traders were inclined to be very cautious, and the market was heavy until late, when prices rallied and closed ⅝ to ¾c net higher. In the local cash market old No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.02, and No. 2 mixed at $2, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

There was only a small volume of business in the oats market and prices were comparatively steady, closing ⅜c net higher. Offers from the country were said to be light and the rains in the West were against the movement. Exporters were again in evidence and sales were placed at 400,000 bushels. The local cash market was steady; standard quoted at 68½c; No. 3 white, 67c; No. 3 white, 66c; No. 4 white, 65¼c; fancy clipped white, 67½ to 69c; ordinary clipped white, 66 to 67c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was decidedly weak early in the session owing to further liquidation prompted by a sharp decline in the price of hogs at Western points. On the decline, however, there was quite good buying credited to packing interests, and subsequently the market rallied and at the close was firm. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 17,000; estimated for Friday, 14,000. Kansas City received 5,000 and Omaha 6,300 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was slightly firmer in sympathy with the late rally in lard, although quotations were very irregular, closing 10 points lower to 15 points higher. Total sales were only 4,100 barrels, and outstanding accounts are being steadily liquidated, with apparently little or no attempt to hedge either way on account of the lack of market facilities. Rumors were current that efforts will be made to bring about a somewhat broader market, although this will depend upon the attitude of the Food Administration. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

There was a further decline in the market for coffee futures yesterday. The switching from December to later months, which had been the feature of Wednesday, was not in evidence, and trading otherwise may have been a shade less active. But there were very few buyers around the ring, while there was a renewal of scattering liquidation and moderate offerings from trade sources, with the market closing at a net decline of 0 to 11 points. This made new low ground for the movement on all positions, with December selling at 7, compared with 8.38, the high point of last Summer. There was an exchange of March or September at 52 points. The local spot market was quiet at 8¼ for Rio 7s, and 9⅝ for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

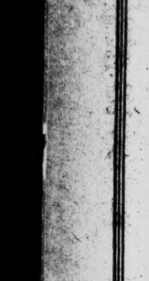
SUGAR.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged at 8.35c for fine granulated, while the inquiry continues good, it becomes harder and harder to secure supplies, owing to the scarcity of raw sugar. In fact, there are only a few refiners accepting orders at all, and these only in a limited way, while others are out of the market entirely. There still remain about 20,000 tons of raw sugar in Cuba unsold, and while there are ready buyers at 5¼c, cost and freight, holders are not inclined to accept this price. It was rumored, however, that some sales have been made recently at this level, but no confirmation could be obtained. The market closed steady at 5¾c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.90c. for centrifugal and 6.02 for molasses.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,092 packages. Market still unsettled. Demand is slack and with some accumulation of stock, receivers are pressing the goods for sale. In some instances some concessions were made, but as a rule, about former prices were obtained. Creamery, higher than extras, per pound, 43¼@44½c; extras, (92 score,) 43¼@43¾c; firs



Our all is at stake—

Our gallant soldiers and sailors MUST be supported, for the failure of the American armies in France would mean that nothing in America would be safe.

WE MUST keep flowing to our forces overseas a constant stream of equipment, munitions and food; we MUST steadily train new armies, and build new ships to transport them and provision them. Money is the only thing that will do this.

LIBERTY BONDS AS SECURITY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Two important rulings were made today in the interpretation of the new war tax law. The first is that distilleries and bonded warehouses are not to be required to file new bonds to cover whisky in bond. If the Government were to enforce the law strictly it would be necessary for distillers to furnish bonds to an amount above $500,000,000, and this at a time when their distilleries are shut down.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper has decided that the strict enforcement of the law would work a grave hardship.

Another decision announced today provides that Liberty war bonds may be deposited as security for the payment of the new floor taxes in lieu of surety bonds. This decision relieves taxpayers, who are required by the law to make a return within thirty days by inventory of the value of stocks of goods in the possession of any individual, firm, or corporation, for the purpose of furnishing a basis for taxation. When the Revenue Collector has computed the tax the taxpayer is allowed seven months in which to pay, but must file a bond for the amount of taxes.

The law provides that this bond must be with some corporate surety company in a penal sum of not less than double the amount of the tax, and in no case less than $1,000. The decision today permits the use of Liberty Loan bonds instead of bonds of the regular surety. It is further provided that the taxpayer may deposit Liberty bonds only for the exact amount of the tax, instead of twice that amount.

The decision to accept Liberty bonds is a distinct advantage to taxpayers. It not only saves them the cost of corporate surety bonds, but also enables them to draw interest uninterruptedly from the date of the Liberty bonds. In other words, the security given to the Government by the taxpayer costs him nothing, but, on the contrary, earns for him 4 per cent. interest while it is serving as security.

SEPTEMBER IMPORTS DROP.

Europe Sends Smallest Amount Since Beginning of War.

Imports at New York in September fell off sharply compared with August entries, but exceeded those of September, 1916, by approximately $19,300,000, according to a report made public last night by Collector Byron R. Newton. Last month's entries were valued at $99,805,185, compared with $122,231,660 in August, and $80,486,311 in September one year ago.

European imports in September reached the lowest figure since the start of the war in 1914, their value amounting to only $24,736,531, this being $9,203,988 less than in February last, the first month of the German unrestricted submarine warfare, when entries were at a particularly low figure, with a value of $33,940,519.

All of the Entente countries figured in the big slump, England's imports here last month having a value of only $9,627,391, against $12,884,273 in August and $13,664,636 in February, the first month of German undefsea "frightfulness." French entries dropped from $8,455,234 in August to $3,983,381 last month, although in February they totaled $8,073,724. Italy was credited with imports valued at $1,944,757 in September, or about one-half the amount entered here in August. Incoming trade with Belgium was down to $287, compared with a monthly average of $1,600,000 or more before the war. Both Germany and Austria-Hungary shipped merchandise to New York in September, the German entries being manifested at $1,438, and the imports from the dual monarchy at $12,120. Despite the big fleet of Dutch ships tied up at this port, September imports from the Netherlands aggregated $1,499,094, against $1,313,617 in the month before. Russian imports declined from $1,161,397 in August to $763,067 in September. A general falling off in entries from Scandinavia and the other neutral countries of Europe is recorded in September.

Incoming trade with North America, including Central America and the West Indies ran ahead of August, this also being true of Oceania. There was a drop in imports from South America, Asia and Africa in September compared with August. All grand divisions, however, with the exception of Europe and Africa showed gains in September over the corresponding month of 1916.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Shortly after the opening on the Consolidated Stock Exchange the market faced about and under the leadership of Steel common many of the issues moved into higher ground than they have occupied for more than a week. The railroad stocks were in good demand throughout the session under the leadership of Southern Railway, St. Paul, and Reading.

Coats and Dresses Sought.

Reports from the local women's wear trade would indicate that the falling off in sales of suits that has been felt for the last few weeks has been more than offset by a greater demand for coats and dresses. Attractive, but simple styles with an abundance of fur trimming are said to be the best features. Jersey cloth, both in dresses and in certain styles of coats, is said to be one of the most popular fabrics, though broadcloths and serges are in strong demand. In colors, it is reported that dark green, navy blue, taupe and beet-root are the favorites.

Garment Makers Seek Silk.

Though immediate business in the local silk market is not yet what many would like it to be, there is reported a greatly increased volume of inquiries coming in daily from dress and garment makers all over the country. Many of the largest cutters in the trade are reported to be asking for prices on satins, taffetas, and messalines for Spring delivery, and the feeling prevails throughout the trade that the coming Spring season is to be one of the biggest the industry has ever had. Chief among the contributing causes, it is said, are the practical impossibility of getting either wool or linen fabrics, and the high cotton prices which are thought to be more than than the material is worth.

Women's Neckwear in Demand.

The growing popularity of high collars, and of the jabot where high collars are lacking, has resulted in a keen demand for women's neckwear of this type, according to reports from local manufacturers. Some very effective collar and cuff sets of satin in brilliant color combinations are attracting considerable attention, and are said to be selling in large quantities. The silk scarf of double thickness for cold weather is beginning to be a large item, those of oriental design and color effects proving the most generally accepted.

American Textile Designs.

Nearly 300 American textile designers, living in twenty-four different States, have submitted work for the exhibition in the galleries of The Art Alliance of America, 10 East Forty-seventh Street, that opens on Monday next. This is the second annual textile design competition organized by Women's Wear under the auspices of the alliance. In all, 1,434 designs were submitted in competition for prizes totaling $800. The awards vary in amount from $25 to $250, and the money has been contributed by B. Altman & Co, Burton Brothers & Co., Louis Roessel & Co., and others. The judges are practical manufacturers, and it is their opinion that some of the work submitted is fully equal to that of the best European artists. The awards will be announced in the near future.

Credit Men to Meet on Oct. 24.

Instead of the usual meeting and dinner that is held at this time of the year by the New York Credit Men's Association there will be a general meeting at the Hotel Astor on Wednesday evening next at 8 o'clock. No admission tickets are required for the meeting, which will be open to credit men, their assistants and members of their firms who may be interested in credit topics. Addresses will be made by the following: W. F. H. Koelsch, a Director of the National Association of Credit Men; Secretary-Treasurer J. H. Tregoe of the same association; Controller William A. Prendergast, and Edward James Cattell, Statistician of the city of Philadelphia. The meeting is in charge of a committee of which U. S. Colby is the Chairman.

Want to Know About Unsold Goods.

As a part of its campaign for the general conservation of wool supplies, the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense has addressed a letter to the retail clothiers of the United States. It calls attention to the economy recommendations for next Spring, and then goes on to say that the object is to bring about a reduction in yardage. The letter urges that the new garments contain the smallest practical quantity of cloth. It then asks: "How many suits of clothing are you carrying over from the Spring season of 1917? How many of these suits carried over are of models which use cloth for belts and other unnecessary adornments?"

Gray Goods Trading Only Fair.

The unwillingness of sellers to meet the views of buyers, as a result of the further upturn in prices, kept trading smaller in the local gray goods market yesterday than might otherwise have been the case. Sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were made at 10½ cents for shipment through the rest of this year, while for November-December delivery 60-52s in that width brought 9½ cents. December-January business was put through on 39-inch 68-72s at 12 cents. Sheetings were rather quiet, from all accounts. This is the way spot printcloth prices closed:

KELLY CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.—Frederick W. Stelle has been appointed by Judge Mayer receiver of the Kelly Construction Company of Yonkers. Assets are about $30,000. The company owns 566 Broadway, Yonkers, which rents for $600 a month, and 349 Warburton Avenue, in which there is an equity of $4,000.

THE AMERICAN 5 AND 10 CENT STORES.—Judge H. N. Hand has declared a dividend of 26 per cent. to the creditors of this corporation, making in all 56 per cent., and has made an extra allowance to Rosenberg & Ball and Blau, Zaikin & Cohen, attorneys for the trustee, of about $10,000. The liabilities are $273,000.

McCAHILL SODA FOUNTAIN COMPANY, at 256 West Twenty-third Street, has made an assignment to William L. Marck. It was incorporated in 1912 and William J. McCahill is President.

NEW FOAM CHEMICAL COMPANY, INC., 379 Pearl Street, has made an assignment to Abner Greenberg.

GEORGE H. HAWKINS, a salesman of 1,330 Rogers Avenue, Brooklyn, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $10,963 and assets of $125.

FLEMISH PHONOGRAPH COMPANY.—Wendell J. Wright and Henry Sillcocks have been appointed ancillary receivers for the Flemish Phonograph Company in bond of $25,000.

Out of Town.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 18.—Creditors of A. W. Gray's Sons of Middletown Springs, manufacturers of threshing machines, asked for the appointment of a temporary receiver for the company at a hearing held before U. S. Judge Harland B. Howe. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed with the Clerk of the District Court by attorneys for the Ruggles Machine Co. of Poultney, the action being taken to prevent the sale of the property of the Gray's Sons concern. It is claimed that the liabilities amount to $100,000, with assets of $200,000, but of these $70,000 are book accounts. The appointment of a receiver is asked pending the decision on the question of the solvency of the concern.

Special to The New York Times.

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 18.—Attachment proceedings were filed here yesterday by the Southwest Virginia Trust Co. against the Red Jacket Coal and Coke Co. of this city to collect $106,856.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Oct. 18.—Frank Edgar Gorby, a wholesale liquor dealer of New Castle, Penn., has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $10,792 and assets of $8,088.

Raccoon and Beaver Among Yesterday's Auction Offerings.

Raccoon and beaver featured the afternoon selling of the fourth day of the annual Fall fur sale that is now going on here. Nearly 32,000 raccoon skins were sold. The best lot, consisting of twenty-three fine dark pelts, was bought by A. Bases at $6.70 each. The best beaver brought $12.25, Pollak & Terker and George Schlums being buyers at this price. Other beaver buyers included Joseph Ullmann, A. Bases

VILLA IS CORNERED, OBREGON DECLARES

KNOWS OF NO U-BOAT BASES

General Alvaro Obregon, whose victories over Francisco Villa established the Carranza Government in Mexico, is in New York in the course of a tour of the United States on private business, and says that the Mexican people are anything but pro-German. The General, who is at the Astor, spoke to interviewers in Spanish, with Baldomero Almada, general purchasing agent of the Mexican Government in the United States, acting as interpreter.

"Some of the newspapers in Mexico City have been trying to win over public sympathy to the German cause," he said, "but they have been unable to bring about any pro-German sentiment among the people. Mexico as Mexico is neutral; our chief concern at present is building up the nation and repairing the ravages of the years of civil war which have just come to an end.

"With the exception of two small districts the country is entirely pacified and under the control of the Administration. The exceptions are the regions around Tampico and a small district in the mountains of Durango, where Villa and his bandits are hemmed in by the army of General Murguia.

"I learn that in the United States there is still some uncertainty as to whether Villa is alive. I was Minister of War till May 1, and have had every opportunity for getting official information since, and I am sure that he is alive. We know this through the testimony of deserters, spies, and prisoners captured by our troops. In an engagement early this Summer Villa's coat was captured with many of his private papers. But his troops are a small band and are entirely surrounded. With regard to the situation elsewhere, while Tampico is still holding out against the Government, the rest of the oil district is living in peace and prosperity."

To this Mr. Almada added that the exports of oil last year were only 8,000,000 barrels, and that this year they would reach 24,000,000.

"Business is constantly improving in Mexico," continued General Obregon. "Many business men who fled from the country during the period of the wars are returning, new businesses are springing up, and the business situation is growing better every day. But of course it will be a long time before it gets back to conditions before the revolution. Capital is badly needed, but we can make progress, though more slowly, if it becomes impossible to get money abroad.

"The rolling stock of the railroads was much depleted by wear and tear and the destruction caused by the revolution, but we have been able to obtain some new equipment in the United States and to make progress in repairing the damage done to roadbed and plant. Of course there is much still to be done; in some parts of the country trains run only twice a week, and there are not enough cars in many districts to meet the requirements of passenger traffic. But here, too, conditions are constantly improving."

The General said that he knew nothing about any German submarine bases, wireless plants or other activities in Mexico, characterizing the reports of such plants as all lies. He said that up to May 1 he did not know of any Germans who had crossed the border from the United States into Mexico, and said that if any had crossed since they were very few.

During his travels across the continent he visited the aviation training camps at Berkeley, St. Louis, and Fort Sheridan, at which latter place the Commander, Colonel Ryan, was an old personal friend, and expressed himself in high admiration of the quality of officers and students whom he met there. On Saturday he will visit West Point, and on next Thursday he goes to Washington. When asked if he expected to see President Wilson he answered: "I do not know if I shall have so great an honor.

The General said that he was alone with public life, and expected to go back to his farm in Sonora.

PLATTSBURG TRENCHES WET

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 18.—The students at this camp began their trench training today. Sentries were placed in the trench sector tonight and Colonel Wolf, Camp Commander, made a surprise visit at different sentry stations at midnight.

It was warm during the afternoon and early part of the evening, but the mercury began dropping at 8 o'clock and there was a light drizzle. The men will remain in the trenches all night, having had their dinner and supper at their posts.

The New York regiment will relieve the New England men at 8 o'clock in the morning. During the afternoon two carrier pigeons were sent from the reserve trench with messages to general headquarters. One made the trip and returned, the other had not been heard from and the bi-plane pilot included the search for the pigeon in his duties.

Three men of the New York regiment were discharged today at their own request. They are Julius Hall Smithtown, L. I., a son of William J. Gaynor, Basil John Scott, 209 West Ninety-seventh Street, and Snell Smith, 561 West 180th Street. Rufus Gaynor has been ill in a hospital.

Second Lieutenant Victor White, Engineers section, O. R. C., of New York City, is relieved from duty at headquarters and assigned to active duty with the Twenty-fifth Engineer regiment and is to report to American University, District of Columbia.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Two theatre transactions were an interesting feature of the realty market yesterday, one involving the sale of the Davenport Theatre on West Sixty-third Street and the other a projected operation on property under long lease-hold at the southeast corner of Eighth Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street.

The former deal involved the sale of the building erected a few years ago by Butler Davenport for a theatre as 22 to 28 West Sixty-third Street, between Central Park West and Columbus Avenue, opposite the rear of the Century Theatre. The building was never used for the purposes for which it was built and ultimately passed into the ownership of the People's Pulpit Association, which has now sold it to the Elknur Realty Company, of which Maurice Runkle is President. It has been purchased subject to mortgages of $330,000. The property covers a plot 100 by 100.5 and is occupied by the theatre, seventy-five feet wide and a twenty-five-foot apartment house. The new owner contemplates alterations costing about $50,000, and negotiations are practically closed for leasing it to a theatrical syndicate for twenty-five years. The apartment house is well rented.

The Eighth Avenue project involves the erection of a two-story theatre costing about $300,000 on a large plot at 260 to 278 Eighth Avenue and 266 to 268 West Twenty-fourth Street, 175 by 100, at the southeast corner. The property is owned by John R. Aymar estate. The builders are planning a long lease of the property. The architects, De Rosa & Pereira, stated that operations would not begin until next Spring at least.

Sale on Fulton Street.

In the downtown section where there has been considerable activity lately, the plot at 110 Fulton Street, 22, opposite Dutch Street and extending through to Ann Street, with a similar frontage, 119.7 in depth, was sold by the Lawyers' Mortgage Company to an operator. There is a five-story building on the Fulton Street frontage and a four-story building on the Ann Street side.

The fifty-foot, five-story building to the east was leased last July through Horace S. Ely & Co. and William H. Whiting & Co. by the Young Women's Christian Association, which has established a cafeteria and clubroom for women workers.

Forty-second Street Entrance for Hotel Hermitage.

Mr. Hurley purchased the twelve-story Hotel Hermitage at 592 and 594 Seventh Avenue last June in an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding from the receiver, Charles L. Greenhall, and now acquires the Forty-second Street property with a view to enlarging the hotel and providing it with an entrance on Forty-second Street.

Investor Buys on Columbia Street.

An investing client of Cahn & Pittman purchased from Ida A. Smith the two three-story buildings on a plot 45 by 100, located about midway between Grand and Broome Streets.

Private Dwelling Deals.

Porter & Co. sold for Herbert J. Zeiller, to Matilda C. Teter, the four-story brown stone dwelling 149 West 126th Street.

Harry A. Grant sold the three-story and basement dwelling, 25 East 130th Street, on a lot 16 by 99.11, to an investor.

Bronx Sales.

Robert Benenson sold for all cash, to Mrs. Minnie Zumbuhl, for investment, 423 East 158th Street, a six-story flat, on a plot 50 by 100. A. D. Phelps negotiated the sale.

The A. Kane Company bought through Porter & Co. 1,064 to 1,068 Summit Avenue, a three-story frame dwelling, on a plot 50 by 100, near 165th Street. This property was taken in part payment for the five-story flat at 356 West 124th Street, 28 by 100.

Cambridge Livingston sold to Edward Ridley, for $5,500, a plot 50.1 by 120.8 on the east side of Third Avenue, 55.1 feet north of 178th Street.

White Plains Lots Sold at Bargain Prices.

Bargains were plentiful at the auction sale of White Plains property conducted yesterday by Henry Brady for the State Banking Department. Two private dwellings containing all modern improvements and 216 lots on improved streets were sold for a total of $25,000. The lots sold for from $10 to $375 each and the dwellings for $3,200 each. The property was all sold free and clear.

On many of the cheaper lots the State Banking Department had been obliged to pay street and sewer assessments amounting to a couple of hundred dollars, so that they showed a decided loss.

Brooklyn.

Long Island.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold for Desmond Dunne a large plot overlooking Little Neck Bay, at Great Neck, L. I., to Mrs. Anna D. Chadwick, who has also taken option on a plot adjoining. Mrs. Chadwick expects to build a stucco dwelling.

New Jersey.

Hedgecroft, the home of Lester B. Churchill, located on Haverdale Avenue, Red Bank, comprising a tract of twenty-seven acres, has been sold through William A. Hopping to George C. Leavy of Perth Amboy.

James G. Hamnford of Rutherford, N. J., has purchased one of the new houses at Mountain Lakes, on a plot 100 by 175 feet, having a frontage of 100 feet on Morris Avenue. It is understood the price of the property was less than $10,000.

Kirk Realty Brings $81,150.

The William B. Kirk estate, consisting of eight tenements and business buildings, chiefly in the lower east side, were sold at partition yesterday in the Vesey Street Salesrooms by Joseph P. Day. They brought a total of $81,150. Four parcels were bought in by Joseph A. Kirk, the plaintiff, and four went to outside bidders, two being purchased by the tenants, being respectively 82 New Bowery, to Tony Campbell for $6,800, and 30 New Bowery, to John J. Magin for $8,300.

New $60,000 Plant for L. I. City.

Plans have been filed with the Bureau of Buildings by Louis Allen Abramson, architect, for a group of new factory buildings to be erected by the Continental Varnish Company at the northwest corner of Varick Avenue, Ingraham Street, and Johnson Avenue, Long Island City, on a plot 200 by 173 feet. The plant is to consist of a main factory building, two stories and basement in height, which will cost $60,000.

Commercial Leases.

Edward C. H. Vogler leased the store at 955 West End Avenue to Levine Tailoring Company, 588 Amsterdam Avenue to Andrew Davey, Inc., and 642 Columbus Avenue to S. Kawad.

K. Moors leased the store building at 343 West Fifty-seventh Street to Helen G. Barnes for a term of years.

Van Vliet & Place leased the house on the southeast corner of Greenwich and Bank Streets, also the house 109 Bedford Street and the store 448 West Thirteenth Street to the Palmer Market.

POLICEMEN STONED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

MOBS FIGHT THE RESERVES

The Bronx presented another scene of turmoil yesterday in the neighborhood of school buildings, during which policemen were stoned. Before school opened at 9 o'clock, at noon and again at 3, pupils paraded up and down in front of several schools shouting, "Down with the Gary system!" Twelve boys, one man, and one woman were arrested in the demonstrations.

The trouble started in front of Public School 54, Freeman Street and Intervale Avenue, where several thousand children gathered and were dispersed by reserves from the Simpson Street police station and the Bronx Detective Bureau. Soon afterward, a demonstration occurred in front of Public School 50, Bryant Avenue and 172d Street, and it was said at the school that the Gary plan had never been objected to before, having been installed in the school a year ago last September.

When the trouble in front of School 50 was squelched, the boys armed themselves with sticks and stones and began marching in search of other school children who might be persuaded to go on strike. They went to School 44 at 146th Street and Prospect Avenue, where they made a noisy demonstration. The reserves arrived in time to disperse the mob, but after several patrolmen were hurt by sticks and stones thrown by the youngsters.

A crowd of the boys gathered in Crotona Park and as a patrolman attempted to arrest one who appeared to be the ringleader he was set on by the youth's companions, who pelted him with stones. Other patrolmen arrived and four boys who gave their names as Max Fishman, 12, of 1,023 Fox Street; Benjamin Austeen, 11, of 1,532 Miniford Place; Jacob Goldberg, 15, of 1,449 Bryant Avenue, and Eugene Ludens, 13, of 1,530 Miniford Place, were taken to the Bathgate Avenue station.

In the meantime trouble again started in front of Public School 54, and when Inspector Savage and Detective Schuman neared the vicinity they were greeted with a shower of stones. A milk bottle shattered the windshield of a car, but the boys were dispersed without any arrests being made. An even larger crowd gathered at Public School 20, at Fox, Simpson, and 167th Streets, and the boys threw stones, shattering window panes of the school building. A man who was mounted on a garbage can near by, reported to have been denouncing the Gary system, was arrested, and gave his name as John Finn, 42 years old, of 1,851 Bathgate Avenue. Later he was released.

Several hundred boys from Public School 5 arrived while the arrest was being made and bombarded the police under Sergeant Polenski and the school windows. Six arrests were made. The boys gave their names as Herman Hyman, 13, of 1,473 Seabury Place; Harry Lipper, 11, of 1,451 Minford Place; Samuel Spivak, 12, of 1,476 Seabury Place; Henry Adlerstein, 13, of 1,081 Simpson Street; Charles Shinsky, 14, of 1,489 Southern Boulevard, and Joseph Ornstein, 12, of 1,489 Southern Boulevard. Of the ten boys taken into custody and arraigned in the Children's Court eight were paroled in the custody of their parents for examination and two were fined $2 each.

The last demonstration of the day occurred in front of Public School 55, St. Paul's Place, between Washington and Park Avenues. The reserves were sent for and Principal William Rabenart pointed out to detectives two boys he said were truants. Fearing a demonstration, the detectives dragged the two boys into the school building and later took them to the Children's Court. The police attempted to disperse several women in front of the school, but Mrs. Louise Wilson, colored, of 1,469 Washington Avenue, refused to move on and Magistrate Blau in the West Side Court fined her $2.

Following a riot in the Bronx last night, at Wilkins Avenue and Jennings Street, where one girl and four school boys were arrested, it was said that policemen would be posted at the doors of every school in the Bronx, beginning at 7:30 o'clock this morning, in order to check in the bud any further rioting.

The riot last night was caused by the refusal of the crowd of 500 persons to disperse when the police ordered them to move on, as they had no permit to hold a meeting. George Hoffman, 16 years old, a youthful orator, was talking against the Gary system when the police tried to get the crowd to move away. Katherine Hoffman, 16 years old, a shirt waist maker, of 1,434 Stebbine Avenue, demanded the boy be heard in the name of "free speech." The police dispersed the meeting, but the girl refused to move on and was arrested. The policeman started to take her to the Simpson Street Police Station, six blocks away, and when they came within one block of the station the reserves were called out, and, aided by the Home Defense Leaguers, cleared the street. The girl received a suspended sentence in night court.

The trouble spread last night across the bridge, and five boys were arrested after the reserves from the Bedford Avenue Station drove away a crowd that had broken windows of Public School 50, Roebling and South Third Streets.

A committee of the Parents School Betterment League called on President Willcox of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon and protested against "the use of the public schools and their employees taking part in the political propaganda in behalf of Mayor Mitchel and his Board of Estimate, through a partisan discussion of the 'Mitchel Make-Shift Plan' of Education." The conference lasted two hours and Mr. Willcox said he would take the matter up with the Publicity Committee of the Board of Education.

The city authorities will no longer continue to view indulgently the riots of parents and school children, and vigorous action will be taken to proceed against the adult offenders to whom may be traced evidence of instigating children to disorderly acts against the public schools. Any adult person who knowingly causes children to riot is guilty of "contributory delinquency" and can be prosecuted under section 494 of the Penal Code for a misdemeanor.

The continuation of the riots yesterday caused Mr. Willcox to say that the Board of Education would co-operate with the Children's Society and the Police Department in attempting to place the blame on the shoulders of the adults responsible for the disorder.

President William G. Willcox of the Board of Education, made public last night a letter he received from United States Commissioner of Education P. P. Claxton, indorsing the Gary system. Mr. Claxton said he was convinced that with proper adaptations to meet local needs, the principles of the system could not fail to result in greater efficiency and in larger returns for the money expended.

RESENT ATTACK ON TAMMANY.

Bronx Officials Heckle Defender of Gary System.

Speaking in a strong Tammany Hall district, a fact of which he was ignorant, Everett Martin of the People's Institute, in the Long Acre Community Centre of Public School 17, 325 West Forty-seventh Street, during the course of an address last night detailing the good points in the Gary system, bitterly attacked Tammany Hall for its "malicious campaign of misrepresentation of the Gary system" and its "sordid, seditious un-Americanism." Howls of protest marked the termination of Mr. Martin's address, and Assistant District Attorney Owen Bohan "resented the slurring attack on Tammany Hall" and declared he was proud of Tammany Hall and glad to be affiliated with it. Tammany Assemblyman John Mahoney and Miss McCann, Principal of the school, spoke against the Gary system.

Mr. Martin charged that the strike in Public School 171 on Wednesday was instigated by high school students and that behind all the opposition to the Gary system was Tammany Hall, which, he asserted, was afraid to talk to the people of New York on the real issues and say why it is opposed to the election of Mayor Mitchel. Thomas W. Churchill, former President of the Board of Education, Mr. Martin added, was responsible for the introduction of the work-study-play system in this city.

"If Tammany Hall gets Hylan elected they will control the Board of Education for ten years to come," he asserted. "If you want Tammany Hall to educate your children for the next generation?"

Mr. Bohan jumped to his feet. "How long have you lived in New York?" he demanded, "and where do you come from?"

"I have lived in New York three years, and I come from the Middle West," replied Martin.

"I will not permit a man from the Middle West to come here and take money from this city and make slurring remarks against Tammany Hall," shouted Bohan. "I'm a member of Tammany Hall and I'm proud of it. I won't permit carpet baggers coming here from all over the country and throw mud at our institutions. When a man like you makes a statement that there is not a decent citizen in Tammany Hall I protest."

Mr. Martin's retort was short. He said:

"Yours is a perfect exhibition of the intellectual level on which the arguments against the Gary system are based. Your defense of Tammany Hall and your appeal to the prejudice aroused in the minds of those born east of the Hudson River are apace with the attacks on the Gary system."

EXPLOSION SANK U-BOAT.

Ammunition-Laden Vessel Blew Up —All on Submarine Lost.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 30, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—News has reached here of the blowing up of a German submarine by an explosion on board the British ship Olive Branch while the submarine was alongside.

Forty-five men from the Olive Branch have arried at Honningsvaag. They state that the ship was loaded with ammunition. The U-boat, which attacked, approached the sinking ship after the crew had been removed, when suddenly there came an explosion which wrecked the submarine with the loss of its whole crew.

Captain Odin Berg, a fisherman, has found a sunken U-boat off Kjotvik, four miles north of Hammerfest and 200 meters from land. A private company now proposes to send divers to Kjotvik and salve it.

H. L. STIMSON GIVES HOME FOR WAR WORK

Clothing for French Peasants Will Be Made in Lexington Avenue Mansion.

SISTER TO BE IN CHARGE

Garments Turned Out Will Follow Styles Approved for Generations by the People.

Henry L. Stimson has given his home at 277 Lexington Avenue to be transformed into a workshop for making clothing for French peasants by the American Fund for French Wounded. His sister, Miss Candace Stimson, will take personal charge of the workshop, and under her supervision costumes will be made that duplicate to the slightest detail those worn by the inhabitants of Northern France.

"It is important that the garments we send resemble those they have been accustomed to for years," exclaimed Miss Elizabeth Perkins who returned recently from the devastated districts of France and knows how the villagers feel about the matter. "Of course they were thankful for any sort of warm garments, but they couldn't adjust themselves to our American clothes. They felt in them just as we would feel in these," and she pointed to a bulky full-gathered skirt of dark flannel, and a tight little ugly basque of the Godey's Lady's Book days, which would be uncomely on any except a red-cheeked French peasant girl. "You see they wear the same cut of garments from one generation to the other, and they dislike innovations. Take these aprons for instance, and these chemises," and she pointed out an undergarment that was far removed from the popular idea of French lingerie. It was of thick, unbleached, sail cloth, with an opening for the head and arm holes.

"The children, especially the small boys, looked askance at the strange American clothes," Miss Perkins continued. "The knickerbockers worn by American boys were considered effeminate by scornful French lads, who were perfectly willing to wear long-sleeved black aprons so long as the trousers beneath them flapped unconfined at the knees."

Mrs. Robert Bacon, wife of the former Ambassador to France, helped collect patterns of the costumes worn in the reconquered districts of Northern France, and these, together with a full outfit of clothing, were brought over to the workshop now conducted by the American Fund for French Wounded at 20 West Twenty-third Street. Since their arrival no more American style garments have been made, and the electric cutters fashion only the jupes and carsages, tabliers, and chemises preferred by the inhabitants of the Aisne district.

"It is just as easy to give them what they want as what we think they want" the forewoman pointed out, "and somehow, it doesn't seem to them to smack so of charity to receive clothes they were accustomed to. It means a lot more happiness to them, and we respect their preferences, to the point of duplicating not only the cut, but the fabric."

Miss Anne Morgan and Mrs. Anne Dike, who are in charge of the civilian relief work undertaken by the American Fund for French Wounded, have written from Blerancourt, the little Aisne village in the heart of ravaged France, to express their approval of the clothing now being shipped to them.

BLAMED FOR CAMP WRECK.

Two Arrests Follow Spartanburg Crash—Two Men Killed.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, Spartanburg, S. C., Oct. 18.—Responsibility for the collision last night in which two civilians and one soldier were killed and forty-three persons were injured, was placed entirely upon the Piedmont & Northern Railroad today by a coroner's jury. The verdict found the railroad guilty of criminal negligence in operating a rear-end car without lights or red marker lanterns. Warrants, which Sheriff W. J. White said, charged murder, caused the arrest of Conductor James H. Turner and Motorman W. G. Duke, who were in charge of the three-car electric train which was struck while bound from camp to the city with 300 soldiers aboard.

All except seventeen of the forty-three civilians and soldiers injured were discharged from local and camp hospitals this morning. Major William H. Allen, U. S. A., Medical Corps, said that all of the seventeen who remained in the base hospital would recover.

Soon after Sheriff White had impaneled a jury, the identity of the third victim of the smash was established when relatives identified the body of Samuel F. Pearson, a civil engineer, of Spartanburg. Testimony disclosed that the work train was so crowded he had been forced to sit on the locomotive's pilot and had been scalded to death.

H. B. Linaberger, engineer of the locomotive that ran into the electric train was released. The findings of the inquest will be placed before the Grand Jury on Monday.

ARGENTINE STRIKE IS OFF.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 18.—After twenty-three days, during which time the railways have been paralyzed the railway strike has been settled. The strikers notified President Irigoyen that they were not satisfied with the 10 per cent. increase in salary granted by the companies, but that they were resuming work as a mark of personal respect to the executive.

RUMOR OF WARSHIP LOSS.

Swedes and Danes Hear German Craft was Wrecked in the Sound.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 18 (Dispatch to the London Morning Post.)—According to a telegram from Malmo, a German warship has been lost in the sound. A number of bodies of German bluejackets have been washed ashore at Helsingborg and on the coast of Denmark.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 18.—Rumors of the loss of a German warship in the Sound, the narrow strait be ween Denmark and Sweden, are being circulated. The reports are indefinite and unconfirmed, but the bodies of two German marines and a sailor have drifted ashore in the vicinity of Elsinore, Denmark.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Preliminary outlines of a new portrait of President Wilson for the National Gallery of Ireland at Dublin were made today by John S. Sargent. The President has no engagements this week except the Cabinet meeting tomorrow and can devote ample time to the sittings.

Camouflage!

Take a tip from the trenches (if you won't from the landscape gardeners)—practice "camouflage" on your own home grounds—and hide what your neighbors shouldn't see! Screen your backyard, kitchen porch, garage, any disenchanting prospect (yours or your neighbors') with a row of pines and other evergreens, cleverly placed to charm the eye with a beautiful vista. The cost is quite small—phone or write and learn how small.

A MIGHTY ACHIEVEMENT
Removes Mountain Barriers—Conserves Earth's Treasures

Mighty indeed—for not alone has the "St. Paul Road" by its electrification across the Continental Divide (now being extended through the Cascade Range) leveled the mountains as a barrier to transportation—but has also released great stores of earth's treasured energy for other much needed purposes.

By utilizing the hitherto wasted power of mountain waterfalls to move the heavy steel trains across the mountains of the Northwest, there is conserved annually over a quarter of a million tons of coal, over a half million barrels of oil, and the thousands of cars necessary to transport this fuel are freed to serve other pressing needs of transportation.

NEXT SUNDAY

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

The New York Times has just received an original impression of the best photograph of Abraham Lincoln, never heretofore published. It will be reproduced on the first page of the Rotogravure Picture Section of next Sunday's edition of The New York Times. The original photograph was taken in Brady's Studio, in Washington, in February, 1861, a few days before Lincoln was inaugurated President of the United States.

Mr. Lincoln was posed by George H. Story, A. N. A., the curator emeritus of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The result is an artist's truth-telling camera study of Lincoln, the man. It is Lincoln as the clear eyes of an artist saw him, a portrait true to the original in dress, form and feature.

The picture as reproduced in next Sunday's New York Times would, a few years ago, have cost as many dollars as the Sunday Times costs cents. It is an extraordinarily true-to-life photograph, well worth preserving and framing.
